PAPAL NUNCIO AT ROME MAY BE RECALLED

Pope Pius Is Expected to Withdraw Envoy in Quirinal Row.

ITALO-CHURCH PACT FACES RENUNCIATION

Mussolini Dissolves Catholic Youth's Organizations; Press Fight Ends.

Rome, June 1 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini has dissolved all organizations of Catholic youths in Italy by decree and according to good sources tonight Pope Pius XI is expected to recall the papal nuncio to Rome.

It is said the pontiff may even sever diplomatic relations with Italy.

Since the Pope regards the concordat with Rome as violated and as he holds this concordat and the Lateran Treaty to be inseparable, many observers believe there might arise the question of denunciation of the Roman settlement. This might result in the Pope's returning to the state of "voluntary prisoner" in the Vatican.

This new development followed an order from the Vatican that the editor of the semiofficial newspaper Osservatore Romano should discontinue its anti-Fascist editorial campaign and a similar order to editors of Fascist papers to stop publishing anti-Catholic editorials.

Action Taken Quietly.

Mussolini is said to have signed his decree dissolving the organizations last night and all prefects were immediately charged with its enforcement. This was done quietly by summoning club officers and notifying them of the action.

As thousands of Catholic clubs have been closed during the past three days nothing further will be required to put them out of action except to arrange for disposition of their possessions.

The decree, which is known to be ready, although government officials profess ignorance of it, has not yet been published. It was announced this evening by means of a short communique, which does not mention Catholic clubs, but announces dissolution of those organizations not connected with the Fascist party or its subsidiary, "Balilla" for boys.

Article Held Violated.

Article 43 of the concordat, which the Vatican considers is violated by the government's order of dissolution, reads as follows:

"The Italian state recognizes associations affiliated with the Italian Catholic Action, always provided that they pursue their activities in conformity with provisions issued by the Holy See outside of any political party and under direct control of the hierarchy of the church, with the sole object of propagating and realizing Catholic principles."

Several fine points were hidden in the brief report that the dissolution had been effected. The government communique specified "juvenile" organizations, indicating that the order did not apply to groups of men and women of the Catholic Action.

Earlier today the Pope held a two-hour meeting with 24 cardinals of the curia at the Vatican. They are believed to have discussed the situation thoroughly.

American Group to Operate.

The government today decided to permit the reopening of the American Knights of Columbus playgrounds which were closed Saturday. The decision was announced at the moment that Edward Hearn, papal count and director of the Knights' activities in Rome, filed a protest with United States Ambassador John W. Garrett against the closing order.

The government explained that the playgrounds were automatically included in the general closing order for Catholic clubs, but that they would be permitted to continue to operate.

Police closed the principal field clubhouse on Saturday, confiscated the keys and papers and locked out

Army Buys Matches Of Soviet, Still Not Recognized by U. S.

Action Declared Forced by Low Bid; Hurley and Adams, Between Two Fires, Must Decide if They Are to Patronize Americans and Swell Budget.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The quartermaster corps of the United States Army has been buying safety matches made in Russia, The Post learned yesterday. The matches, purchased by the Army supply depot in New York with the approval of the War Department, are now being distributed and sold in Army posts here in Washington.

Thus, while Uncle Sam refuses to recognize Soviet Russia and regards Russia as a dangerous political and trade foe, he has, in a measure, contributed to the success of Russia's much-discussed five-year plan.

The matches are contained in boxes bearing a trade-mark in black, yellow and red. Against a black background are printed three letters in red—"R. M. S." At the bottom, in type so small that it is hardly noticeable, are the words, "Made in Russia."

The trade-mark, so a further inscription states, has been registered with the United States Patent Office by the "A. T. Corp., N. Y. C." Whether this means the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Russian agency in this country, is not known.

The firm that sold the matches to the War Department described itself as the Northam Co., Northam being a contraction of North America.

Maj. H. B. Barry, of the purchasing section of the Quartermaster Corps, explained last night that, under the law, the Army was obliged to buy the Russian-made matches because the Northam Co. submitted the lowest bid.

The law in question, enacted March 2, 1901, says:

"Provided that hereafter, except in cases of emergency or where it is impracticable to secure competition, the purchase of all supplies for the use of the various departments and posts of the Army * * * shall only be made after advertisement and shall be purchased where the same can be purchased the cheapest, quality and cost of transportation and the in-

BIRTH CONTROL SPLITS CHURCH FROM COUNCIL

Southern Presbyterians Vote 2 to 1 to Quit Federal Body.

NORTHERN ASSEMBLY PLANS TO ACT TODAY

Withdrawal Demand Fades, However, as Report Is Explained.

Montreat, N. C., June 1 (A.P.).—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States voted today to sever relations with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The vote came after an afternoon of debate on the council's committee report which gave approval to birth control.

The Rev. A. S. Johnson, of Charlotte, spoke of the "shame and indignation" with which Southern Presbyterians read the birth-control report and the Rev. J. C. Johnson, of Covesville, Va., said its publication had brought "chagrin."

The Rev. E. A. Dillard, of Charlotte, said he could "prove the Federal Council is not a Christian organization" and followed a few minutes later with the statement that a former president of the council, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of New York City, was "not a Christian."

Protests greeted this statement and he apologized.

Vote Was Two to One.

The vote was decisive, a motion to remain in the council being killed, 175 to 79.

The subject came to the floor of the assembly in the report of a committee which had been appointed to consider overtures from eleven presbyteries protesting birth-control approval. Six presbyteries had asked for discontinuance of relations with the council.

The committee presented a divided report, nine to five, with the majority favoring remaining in the council.

The Rev. James E. Cook, of Hopewell, Va., who presented the majority report, said, "The council is the only body of Protestant Churches in America that can do anything in a constructive way."

The first speaker against the council, Mr. Dillard, said, "I do not see how you can do anything else as Christians than adopt the minority report."

Texan Defends Council.

The Rev. George Summey, of Austin, Tex., representative from the assembly of the council, defended the council. He contended the question of birth control was not before the assembly and that the council had made "neither a deliverance nor taken action."

He said the birth control report was that of a committee appointed to study the question.

The Rev. J. J. Murray, of Lexington, Va., declared: "It will be a sad day if the Southern Presbyterian has to say to the rest of the Protestant churches they have gone so far in paganism that we have to withdraw."

On the other side, however, the Rev. H. B. Dendy, of Weaverville, N. C., declared, "You are going to split our church if you don't get out," and T. M. Glasgow, Charlotte, said: "Laymen are not interested in this birth control business. They just pass it up and say it is not the church's business and the church has made a fool of itself."

Military Training Condemned.

The general assembly, earlier in the day, passed a resolution affirming

DATA OBTAINED IN RECENT RUM RAIDS MISSING

Information Stolen From His Desk or Pockets, Says Prosecutor.

2 INVASIONS ADDED BY "RAMBLING TRIO"

29 Persons Arrested When Alleged Gaming Place Is Entered.

Evidence for use in the prosecution of two men arrested in the recent drive against speakeasies and gambling houses is missing from the office of the district attorney.

The evidence is in the form of statements of facts, submitted by the four detective sergeants who conducted a raid on an alleged speakeasy on Ninth street near H street northwest last Tuesday.

Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of the prosecution of the two men seized in the raid, is uncertain whether the information was stolen from his office or was picked from his pocket in Police Court last Friday.

To the best of his recollection, he had the information on his esk, before it was closed for the week-end. When he looked for it yesterday it was missing. Mr. Hart is not sure of this circumstance and last night advanced the thought that the jacket, containing the information, may have been lifted from his pocket while in Police Court.

Composed of Statements.

The missing information was made up of statements given by Detective Sergeants Howard E. Ogle, Arthur Fihelly, Larry O'Dea and O. W. Mansfield, which narrated the circumstances regarding the raid on a "haberdashery store," on Ninth street, where they said they found a pretentious bar, 115 bottles of Canadian ale, 360 bottles of beer, and a quantity of whisky and alcohol.

The four detective sergeants who conducted the raid were instructed yesterday to prepare additional statements to be used Wednesday, when Edward C. Ford, 40 years old, of Four-and-a-Half street near B street southwest, and Samuel Green, 30 years old, of U street near North Capitol street, are to be arraigned on a charge of illegal possession.

While the missing information will not affect the prosecution of the men, it will be of valuable assistance to the defense of the accused men, if it should fall into their hands.

Mr. Hart said last night that information, to be used in the prosecution of others caught in the recent raids, is still in the possession of the district attorney's office and no attempt has been made to disturb it.

No report of the loss was made to police, Mr. Hart said, because he did not believe it necessary, inasmuch as the statements could be duplicated.

Under $500 Bond.

Green and Ford are at liberty under $500 bond on the illegal possession charge. Three days after the raid on the "haberdashery story," the same detectives raided a place two doors south of it and rearrested Ford on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

In the second raid the detectives confiscated a large quantity of whisky, beer and alcohol. In addition to Ford, Harry Udelevitz, 29 years old, of Waldorf, Md., and William Portner, of Lanier place near Seventeenth street northwest, were arrested as United States witnesses.

The information in regard to the second raid, Mr. Hart said, is still in

CANADA RAISES TARIFF ON AMERICAN GOODS; AUTOS AND STEEL HIT

200 Articles Are Listed in Duty Revision to Aid Unemployed.

UNITED STATES WAITS FOR OFFICIAL REPORT

Provisions of Act Include Nearly All Schedules; Few Remain Unchanged.

Ottawa, June 1 (A.P.).—Premier R. B. Bennett, in his annual budget speech to the House, today announced extensive changes in Canada's tariffs, most of them upward, and many affecting products derived in large quantities from the United States.

The revisions, the premier stated, were not general, but were confined to such schedules as would assist in adjusting unemployment. Only those items which required to be changed, he said, had been dealt with.

Almost all schedules were affected, however, in regard to certain of their items, the total number of rate-bearing items cited in the resolutions offered being nearly 200. Alteration in rates generally are confined to the intermediate and general tariffs.

Automobile Tariff Revised.

The revisions include particularly automobiles, coal, coke, food and utility products delivered in cartons; live hogs, fresh meats, bacons, hams and shoulders; canned fruits and vegetables, raisins and oranges, as well as numerous other foods and food products.

In the automobile group the schedules set up three groups for duty purposes. Cars valued up to $1,200; from $1,201 to $2,100 and above $2,100. No change in the duty on the first classification is made, but on the second group the general tariff is raised from 27½ per cent to 30 per cent and on the third, the intermediate and general rates are increased to 30 and 40 per cent, respectively.

Automobiles i the third classification no lo er will be privileged to a drawback of duty for home consumption. Drawback on the two lower-priced groups will not be paid on a specified list of made-in-Canada parts

Used Cars Are Barred.

Entry of used automobiles is prohibited unless as settlers' effects or as travelers' vehicles.

Duty of 40 cents and $1 per ton, respectively, are imposed upon anthracite coal and coke under the general tariff; the rates on bituminous coal and coal screenings are raised to 75 cents, general tariff and rates on charcoal are set at $7.50 per ton.

The leather schedule secures increased rates under all tariffs, the alterations affecting kid upper leathers, sole leathers, East India kips, belting leather and belting, glove leathers and leather garments.

Magazine and periodicals are made subject to a specific duty of 15 cents per pound, under the general tariff, except in the case of such as may be placed on an exempted list by order in council.

Iron and Steel Rates.

Tariff changes affecting iron and steel include increases on steel plate, wire netting, machinery, safes, and miscellaneous manufacturers of iron and steel, with decreases on green saw steel, hot rolled strip steel for cold-rolling, various kinds of steel wire, and Bessemer steel billets.

Wood products share in the revision, with increases on furniture (including metal furniture), veneers, plywood, clothespins, golf clubs, tennis racquets, &c.

Changes in the textile schedules are limited, the most significant being increases on linen fabrics and articles (except in damasks) and fabrics of pure silk, with decreases on mohair yarns. Prepared roofings, wallboards, insulating materials, &c., are increased in rates, as are wallpapers and containers.

Stone Rates Higher.

Building stone of all kinds, both rough and finished, as well as building brick, magnesite and ground feldspar, will bear higher rates than formerly. No changes are made in farm implements, although the item

Close-lipped silence was maintained by Government, police and company officials last night regarding the theft of tracings for a giant .50-caliber machine gun, which disappeared from the locked safe of Automatic Guns, Inc., 302 Albee Building, sometime between Saturday night and yesterday morning.

The tracings stolen were for improvements of a model which was

MAYFLOWER REPORT HITS FINANCE PLANS

Sensational Phases of Hotel Bookkeeping Denied by Manager.

A sensational report by receivers for the Mayflower Hotel Co., alleging huge operating losses and irregular accounting, was countered last night by sweeping denials from the hotel management and the Mayflower Hotel Co.

The report, preliminary in form, was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Joshua Evans, jr., and Thomas P. Littlepage, temporary receivers.

It declared the company's books show a net operating loss of $2,011,663.41 up to the time the hotel was refinanced, March 31, 1928.

It charged that for every $2.50 expended for construction of the building an additional $1 was spent for financing and carrying charges.

The receivers "concluded" that the "stock representing the land upon which the Mayflower Hotel stands was obtained for not more than $75,000."

Daniel J. O'Brien, president and managing director of the Mayflower, in a denial as bitter as the report was vigorous, termed it "the most amazing document I have ever seen."

"The receivers set out to show inordinate losses by using only the first three years of operation, which every one knows is a 'development period' for any business enterprise," he said. "Of course, they had the figures for all six years, but this would have given a favorable picture, and was consequently ignored."

O'Brien declared the receivers' charge that the hotel has operated at a $2,000-a-day loss since opening "is the product of the same mathematical figuring as would overlook the large addition to the building in trying to work out the total cost of the building."

Simultaneously with O'Brien's denial, the Mayflower Hotel Co. issued a statement alleging that several of the plaintiffs in the present receivership action against the Mayflower have been behind similar legal actions in other parts of the country. The company said that in no case had they been successful even in securing an injunction.

It was declared that a profit has been shown every year in the operation of the hotel.

"The actual figures show an operating profit, after payment of all operating expenses, insurance and taxes, of $971,712.60 during this 37-month period," O'Brien's statement read.

Regarding the alleged operating loss, the receivers charged that "in an

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO UNION PRESIDENT

A. M. Huddell, Who Recently Escaped Pistol Death, Ill but Six Days.

Pneumonia yesterday took the life of Arthur M. Huddell, president of the International Union of Operating Engineers, who barely missed probable death two weeks ago when a gunman's bullet, fired point-blank, sturck a notebook in his pocket, inflicting only slight injury.

The labor official, who was 62 years old, died yesterday afternoon at Sidney Memorial Hospital. Pneumonia had set in several days ago as an aftermath of a cerebral hemorrhage with which he collapsed in his office May 26.

Samuel Langdon, 72-year-old editor of a union publication, who was having luncheon in a Capital restaurant with Huddell at the time of the gunman's attack, sustained a serious wound over his right eye, but was sufficiently recovered to leave Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon and return to his home at 2351 Rhode Island avenue northeast. Another union official attending the interrupted luncheon party, John Possehl, general secretary, escaped injury from the pistol of the unidentified attacker.

Union officials announced last night that the body of their late president will lie in state tomorrow at the undertaking establishment of Herbert Nevius, at 924 New York avenue northwest. A throng of members of local labor organizations is expected to pass before the casket, paying tribute to the dead leader.

Huddell's home and relatives are in Chelsea, Mass. He resided, when in Washington, at a hotel. The body will be sent to the Massachusetts city tomorrow night, where burial is expected to take place on Wednesday.

At the time the shooting took place Huddell and Possehl had been engaged in an investigation of the alleged embezzlement of $36,000 from a benefit fund of the union. Huddell was scheduled to appear before the District grand jury in connection with the alleged defalcation the day after his collapse last week. Several other witnesses were heard in the matter.

Approximately 2,000 were involved in the affray.

MINNESOTA GAG LAW IS DECLARED INVALID

Violates Freedom of Press by Censorship, Supreme Court Holds.

(Associated Press.)

A broad view of the freedom of the press was taken by the Supreme Court yesterday in a five-to-four decision which held unconstitutional the Minnesota law under which the Saturday Press, Minneapolis weekly, was suppressed.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the majority opinion and Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Roberts agreed. Justice Butler read a dissenting opinion in which Justices McReynolds, Vandevanter and Sutherland joined. The division was the same as in the opinion upholding Indiana's chain store tax.

The Minnesota statute, passed in 1925, provided for the suppression of a publication held to be "malicious, scandalous or defamatory."

The Saturday Press in 1927 published a series of articles on vice conditions in Minneapolis and Hennepin County, in which it assailed public officials. Action against it was taken under the newspaper law. It was permanently enjoined from publication by a State court and the State Supreme Court upheld the decision.

Chief Justice Hughes took the view that the law is an infringement of the liberty of the press guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment. He said it is in effect a censorship, and that redress from untrue stories and restraint is found in the libel laws.

In his lengthy review, he brushed aside technical questions raised by stating that the court regarded substance and not form, and that the law must be tested by its operations.

Justice Butler said the record showed the Saturday Press made a regular business of publishing ma-

FALL TAKES NEWS OF DENIAL CALMLY

Daughter Falls Unconscious to Floor of Texas Home; Mother Hits Action.

El Paso, Tex., June 1 (A.P.).—A daughter of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, fainted today when told the Supreme Court had refused to review the case in which her father was convicted of accepting a bribe. Fall received the news calmly.

Other members of the family, including Mrs. Fall, were greatly affected.

Mrs. Fall met the newspapermen's announcement with the statement, "They are trying to kill us all. But they won't kill me. They are trying to persecute decent people."

Just then Mrs. C. C. Chase, a daughter entered the room. Told of the court's action, she fell unconscious on the floor. Mrs. Fall and Mrs. Jouett Elliott, another daughter, worked to revive her while a physician was summoned.

Mr. Fall came to his El Paso home recently from his ranch at Three Rivers, N. Mex., to consult physicians and attorneys. Several days ago he expressed hope the Supreme Court would grant a review of his case and said if it did he would be acquitted at another trial.

"I have had so many shocks where I expected none, that I was prepared for anything," he said today.

Mr. Fall has stated several times he is unable to pay the fine of $100,000 assessed by the trial court and could "only go" if ordered to prison.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 1 (A.P.).—Atlee Pomerene, special Government counsel in the prosecution of the alleged frauds in Naval Oil Reserve leases, said tonight he would not recommend that the jail sentence passed upon Albert B. Fall, former

Blackmail Defendant Collapses on Winning

District Court Frees Four Accused in Calhoun Case on Ground Evidence Failed to Prove Charges of Conspiracy.

The District Supreme Court was thrown into an uproar yesterday when W. Clark Noble, one of the defendants on trial on an indictment charging him and three others with conspiring to blackmail Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, suffered a heart attack and collapsed a few seconds after he had heard Justice Jesse Adkins order all the defendants freed on the ground that there was not a sufficiency of evidence.

Mr. Noble arose from his seat and started to the table occupied by his counsel, Richard L. Merrick. He took but one step, spun on his heels and collapsed. Immediately the courtroom was plunged into a chaotic mass, with every one trying to reach his side. It was a dramatic closing to a trial that has lasted over three weeks.

Emergency calls were sent for aid. The fire rescue squad responded, along with Dr. Clayton H. Hixson, of the Medical Science Building. When they arrived Mr. Noble was lying prostrate on the courtroom floor, apparently in his last moments. After one hour of resuscitation, however, he was helped to his feet and taken to his home. His wife, Mrs. Emily B. Noble, who was given a directed verdict a week ago, was at his side throughout.

The other defendants freed were Stephen A. Armstrong, jr., Mrs. Anna Hillenbrand and James F. Bird. The action of Justice Adkins cleared them of any vestige of guilt.

Because of the prominence of the Calhouns, the trial attracted unusual attention. Frequent clashes between Irvin Goldstein, who prosecuted the case, and defense attorneys enlivened the hearing, and the testimony of many witnesses was such that laughter in the court was not uncommon.

The indictment against all the defendants was secured on the basis of alleged threats to expose to the public information about the Calhouns which would have been harmful. The ruling exploded the contention that there had been any conspiracy or agreement between any of the defendants so to act.

The suit of W. Clark Noble against the Calhouns and their organization, the Mothers' Memorial Foundation, is docketed for trial June 6. In it Mr. Noble is seeking an accounting for all moneys obtained through the use of his model, which was to have been used as the idea for the Mothers' Memorial.

Attendant of Gas Station Missing With $1,169 Deposit

Man Fails to Reach Destination Only Block Away; Came Well Recommended to Job Which He Had Held More Than Three Weeks.

Cyril Clark, manager of a gas station at Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, yesterday gave Merle Breaw, an employe, a little bag containing $1,169 and told him to take it to the Federal American National Branch Bank a block away.

At an early hour this morning police and officials of the company were still looking for Breaw.

When he failed to return from the errand within a reasonable time, the manager of the station became suspicious, and went to the bank. No one there had seen Breaw, and records showed the money had not been deposited.

Breaw, who is 23 years old and lives on Sixth street near L street northwest, had been an attendant at the station for more than three weeks. The money entrusted to him comprised the week-end receipts, consisting of bills, change and more than $300 in checks.

The theory that he might have been held up during his short walk from the station to the bank was scouted by police. It was learned that a friend of Breaw's, living at his home, had received a telephone call shortly after 1 o'clock, and hurriedly left the house. Police are of the opinion the two men are together.

According to Mr. Clark, Breaw came to him well recommended and on previous occasions had taken money to the bank.

Police in several nearby cities have been asked to be on the lokout for Breaw and his friend.

Rainfall Last Day of May Officially Breaks Drought

Month Is First to See Normal Precipitation Since November, 1929; More Rain in Last Two Days Than in Four Months Last Fall.

Washington had more rain in the last two days than during the entire four months of August, September, October and November, 1930, official records at the observatory show. For the four months precipitation in the Capital area was only 2.45 inches, while Sunday and yesterday rain measured a trifle more than 3.50 inches.

Incidentally the rain Sunday and yesterday was heaviest the city has experienced since April 15 and 16, 1929, when 2.75 inches fell in two days.

May, 1931, has the distinction of being the month officially to break the drought in this area, but it took the last day of the month to accomplish the feat. Rainfall in Washington has been below normal since November, 1929, and at no time in the period between that month and April, 1931, has it even approached normal. The entire year of 1930 was deficient by 49 per cent.

Normal rainfall in Washington in an average May is 3.70 inches. This particular May saw a fall of 4.84 inches. While the rain for the last two days was rather heavy for Washington, it did not approach the all-time record set August 11 and 12, 1928, when the city had a precipitation of 7.00 inches.

Although heavy rain Sunday flooded cellars and inundated roads, tying up traffic for a time, they failed to stop covering repair parts is extended in point of time.

The tariff on clocks and watches is increased and provision made for increases on window glass and laminated glass. The tea schedule is radically revised, the former free entry of bulk teas under the British preferential tariff being canceled and replaced by rates of 4 cents, 8 cents and 8 cents per pound on teas imported direct from place of growth or imported from the United Kingdom, and rates of 10 cents, 10 cents and 10 cents per pound on teas otherwise imported.

The rates on so-called "basket item" (item 711—enumerated articles) are raised from 15 per cent, 17½ per cent and 17½ per cent to 15 per cent, 25 per cent and 25 per cent.

Rates on Coal Detailed.

New tariff rates on coal were detailed as follows: Coal, anthracite or lignite, N. P. P. per ton—British preferential, free; intermediate, 40 cents; general, 40 cents.

Coke, per ton—British preferential, free; intermediate, $1; general, $1. Coal, N. O. P., including screenings or coal dust of any kind, per ton—British preferential, 35 cents; intermediate, 75 cents, and general, 75 cents. Charcoal, per ton—British preferential, free; intermediate, $7.50; general, $7.50.

There are several amendments to administrative sections of the act, including:

Provision for imposition of excise duties upon the products of a manufacturer who uses the customs tariff rates to increase the prices of his product to the consumer.

Provision for the forfeiture of goods imported from a country not a signatory to the Treaty of Versailles.

Provisions enabling the governor in council to reduce customs duties on any goods imported, in return for reductions which may be granted by other countries in respect of Canadian products.

Provision of further safeguards against "dumping" of foreign products.

Budget Deficit Blamed.

The premier said the period of sluggish business was in large measure responsible for the deficit of $75,244,973 in the budget. He explained that the apparent deficit between total expenditures of $440,060,657 and total receipts of $356,215,000 was more than $83,000,000, but he did not consider that figure fair, as more than $8,000,000 was brought about by the writing down of soldier land settlement loans advanced in previous years.

He pointed out that customs revenues were down $48,00,000 and sales tax receipts were less than half the previous year, concerning the sales tax, he said, "No tax more quickly reflected declining commodity prices."

"The revenue collections from every tax, with one exception, were substantially less than the preceding year," he declared. The exception was the income tax, where the assessment was on earnings and profits made in the calendar year 1929."

Income Receipts Increase.

Income tax receipts showed an increase of more than $2,000,0000—the total being $71,048,000 against $69,021,000.

"On the expenditure side, comparatively little advantage could be taken of declining commodity prices," the premier said. "This is due to the fact that fixed and uncontrollable charges constitute so large a proportion of the expenditures. The interest on the national debt was over $121,000,000; war pensions amounted to $46,000,000, and other uncontrollable expenditures absorbed an additional $36,895,000.

"To these may be added the cost of civil government and other services where a somewhat lengthy time lag exists before declining commodity prices are reflected in reduced costs. These services involved an expenditure of $78,000,000.

"In other wards, $282,000,000 were expended during the year without the government gaining any offsetting advantages from the causes which brought about such substantial decreases in revenues."

Excise Duties $57,700,000.,

Excise duties during the year were $57,700,000. These come largely from alcoholic beverages and tobacco, he pointed out. Tobacco collections remained about stationary, but there was a drop of $7,000,000 in collections from alcoholic beverages produced in Canada.

"On and after July 1, 1930," the premier said, "clearances were denied to vessels having on board any intoxicating liquors destined for delivery in any country into which the importation of such liquor was prohibited. The enforcement of this law to a great extent explains the decline in the excise revenues."

The greatest increase in expenditures was in public works, for which $5,640,000 more was spent than in 1929-1930. War pensions were boosted $5,550,000 and treatment and aftercare of veterans $1,289,000. Subsidies to provinces were up $4,900,000, and old age pensions were boosted $4,100,000.

Outlay for Pensions.

The premier said that since the outbreak of hostilities the dominion has paid $460,000,000 in European war pensions and $182,000,000 for treatment and aftercare of returned soldiers. Soldier land settlement administration, battlefield memorials and other items added to pensions and care of veterans make a total of $671,000,000, he said.

Other highlights of the budget speech were:

New $250,000,000 Canadian conversion loan subscribed to the sum of $639,816,500.

Total net debt on March 31, $2,261,604,316.

Total liabilities on March 31, $2,610,788,917.

Postoffice expenditures increased by $1,265,000.

Lighthouse and coast service increased by $500,000.

Increase of $1,200,000 in fiscal year ended for air services.

Penitentiary expenditures increased by $676,000 (increase in penitentiary population, 527).

248,000 Given Jobs.

Contracts initiated in consequence of unemployment relief measure passed at special session amounted on March 31 to $69,690,948, and at end of March 248,000 persons were employed. Of the $20,000,000 unemployment money provided at end of March $4,431,000 was "actually paid."

Canadian National Railways failed to earn its fixed charges to the public by $29,219,738

The premier also announced a number of measures destined to make up the $75,244,973 deficit in the budget. These measures included:

A special excise tax of 1 per cent on imported goods.

An increase in income tax of 8 to 10 per cent.

An increase in sales tax from 1 to 4 per cent.

An increase in postage rates on letters from 2 to 3 cents.

The special excise tax of 1 per cent, effective today, is imposed on all goods imported into Canada, "payable by the importer or transferee who takes the goods out of bond for consumption at the time when the goods are imported or taken out of warehouse for consumption."

The increase in income tax is applicable to the income of corporations and joint stock companies. The increase will be applicable this year.

Pending receipt of a full report from Minister MacNider on the proposed new Canadian customs duties, State Department officials declined last night to comment.

The department will study the changes with a view to determining the course which the United States will follow, if any, in the way of diplomatic representations.

The attitude of the American Government always, in cases of tariff changes, is that it is a purely domestic question with the government concerned. When rates are considered discriminatory against American products, representations are made against such duties.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS CONVICTION OF FALL

Former Interior Secretary Must Present Himself for Commitment.

Secretary of the Interior, be suspended.

Asked if he would suggest to the District of Columbia Supreme Court that it waive the one-year prison sentence imposed upon Fall for accepting a bribe, Pomerene replied, "Of course not." He said he would leave any moves for clemency up to the defense, but declined to indicate in advance whether he would oppose them.

Pomerene said that in view of the Suprme Court's refusal today to review Fall's conviction he expected the District of Columbia to summon Fall for commitment within a week or ten days.

(Associated Press.)

Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, must present himself before the District of Columbia Supreme Court for commitment under a sentence of one year's imprisonment imposed on him for accepting a bribe.

That became imperative yesterday, except in case of a presidential pardon, when the United States Supreme Court refused to review Fall's conviction of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil operator, in connection with awarding contracts and leases on the naval oil reserves. He was sentenced to one year in prison and fined $100,000.

Previously he had failed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to have the sentence set aside, and then, after announcing he would not carry the controversy to the United States Supreme Court, directed his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, to seek a review by the highest tribunal.

Probably today, the Court of Appeals will be advised of the Supreme Court's action and it will notify the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

This will leave the trial court in a position to summons Fall before it for commitment.

Hogan said yesterday that Judge Hitz, who presided at the trial of Fall, had announced that had the defendant at that time submitted to imprisonment instead of taking an appeal he would have suspended sentence.

Fall's health is reported to have been poor for many months, and his friends claim he would be unable to stand confinement in a penitentiary. Fall has announced he hoped his friends would obtain executive clemency.

Judge Hitz is no longer sitting in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, having been elevated to the Court of Appeals. Mr. Hogan said he would advise the judge before whom Fall appears for commitment of the statement of Judge Hitz. He added he hoped to have the prison sentence suspended.

Fall, by taking the paupers oath, and satisfying the court that he is without means to pay the fine, may have that remitted.

Mr. Hogan said he understood Fall had virtually no financial resources.

EVIDENCE OBTAINED IN RAIDS IS MISSING

the possession of the district attorney's office. This case was scheduled to be heard in Police Court yesterday, but Mr. Hart asked a postponement of a week.

nI a raid yesterday afternoon on Tenth street near E street northwest detectives invaded an eighteen-room alleged gaming house and arrested 2 white men and 27 colored men and women. The raid was witnessed by 300 persons.

A number of patrons of the alleged gaming place escaped by jumping through windows into an alley.

Frank O. Davis, 28 years old, of Fourteenth street near Fairmount street northwest, and Joseph Lewis, 22 years old, of Sixth street near G street southeast, were arrested and charged with permitting gaming.

Quantity of Slips.

The raid was conducted by Detective Sergeans O'Dea, Fihelly and Ogle. They confiscated telephones and radio equipment and a quantity of alleged gaming slips.

Six weeks ago the same place was raided, and more than a score of persons were arrested. The establishment occupied two floors above a furniture store.

Refused admission early last night to an establishment on New York avenue near Twelfth street northwest, the same trio of headquarters detectives which has been "looking for a couple of fellows" held a brief huddle. As a result Detective Fihelly made his way to a side areaway of the building and waited under a window. He did not have to wait long. Out of the third story a bulky object was suddenly projected. Suspended on a thick rope it eased its way down the brick wall and plumped into the outstretched arms of the detective.

The bulky object which Detective Fihelly snared proved to be a heavy canvas sack containing more than a score pint bottles of alleged gin. Fihelly bore his prize to the New York avenue entrance of the building and he and his colleagues again ascended the stairs.

Two Men Are Arrested.

This time they were admitted and, to the astonishment of the doorkeper, exhibited the bottle-laden sack. No customers were in the establishment, but two men were arrested and taken to police headquarters. They gave their names as Lester Stanley Simmons, 24, of Twentieth street northwest near G street, and Thomas Henry Wise, 25, colored, of Sixth street northwest, near S street. A charge of illegal possession was lodged against each.

terests of the Government considered * * *."

There is also a statute which says that if the American article is equal in price and quality to the foreign article, then the Government department must buy it in preference to the foreign article.

When the Northam Co. submitted its low bid to the Army supply depot in New York, the depot notified the War Department and Maj. Barry asked the Northam Co. to send on some samples of its matcnes. These came up to specifications, and the supply depot was advised to accept the bid.

The Russian-made matches cost the Army approximately 60 cents for a gross of boxes, 20 cents cheper than the price asked for American-made matches.

The Army uses an enormous quantity of matches. The matches are not only distributed for service use, but are sold at the Army's commissaries for personal use of the officers and enlisted men and their families.

In the next few weeks Secretary of War Hurley will have to decide whether the Army shall henceforth buy American-made matches, even though they be more expensive, or continue buying the cheaper foreign-made matches. Not only will he have to make this decision with regard to matches, but with regard to a great many other articles purchased by the War Department. Secretary of the Navy Adams likewise will have to make such a decision.

Provision to Bill.

In passing the Army and Navy appropriation bills at the last session Congress wrote in a provision directing the Secretary of War and the Secretary of Navy to buy American-made articles even though they cost more than foreign-made goods. The provision states, however, that the excess in cost must not be "unreasonable." Also it gives the Secretaries discretion in the matter.

The provision in the War Department bill reads:

"In the expenditure of appropriations in this act the Secretary of War shall, unless in his discretion the interests of the Government will not permit, purchase or contract for, within the limits of the United States, only articles of the growth, production or manufacture of the United States, notwithstanding that such articles of the growth, production or manufacture of the United States may cost more, if such excessive cost be not unreasonable."

This puts Secretary Hurley and Secretary Adams between two fires. Naturally, they want to patronize American producers and manufacturers. At the same time they have orders from the President to cut down on expenditures. What are they to do, buy more costly American products and thus add to their budgets or buy the cheaper foreign products and hold down their budgets?

Contracts Are Sought.

The aforementioned provision appears in the Army and Navy appropriation bills for the fiscal year of 1932, which begins July 1. Already, however, representatives of firms dealing solely in products produced in this country are besieging the War Department for contracts.

In the last few days, the representatives of a firm that makes safety matches in this country has been seeking a contract.

In 1927, the United States imported not a single safety match from Russia. In 1928, Russia sold this country 404,800 gross boxes of safety matches, the value of which was placed at $141,105. In 1929, Russia sold the United States 1,018,420 gross boxes of safety matches, the value of which was $352,754. In the first six months of 1930, Russia sold this country 625,290 gross boxes, the value of which was $227,614.

Russia Next to Sweden.

According to Department of Commerce figures, Russia ranks next to Sweden as an exporter of safety matches to the United States. In the postwar days this position was occupied by Japan, but today that country is far down on the list.

In the last year and a half or so American producers of safety matches have been given considerable protection against foreign competition. First the tariff duty on safety matches was boosted from 8 cents to 20 cents per gross of boxes.

About a year ago the Treasury Department concluded that Russia was "dumping" safety matches into the United States—that is, selling them here for less than was being charged at home. Consequently, the Treasury placed a dumping duty on Russian matches, one sufficient to offset the cut at which Russia was unloading.

Competitors charged that Russia was selling safety matches to American jobbers for 33 cents and 35 cents a gross, although twice this much was considered a fair price.

Antidumping Order.

Later Secretary Mellon issued an antidumping order against eight other countries exporting safety matches to the United States. They were Austria, Finland, Sweden, Norway, Poland, Esthonia, Latvia and Holland.

The United States is at a disadvantage in making safety matches because of the scarcity of aspen trees, from which the stems of the nonwarping European matches are made.

Then there is the question of wages. In the United States, women employed in match making get five times as much as the women doing similar work in Europe, and the American men get five times as much.

GOVERNMENT SILENT ON GUN PLANS THEFT FROM SAFE

sold to the United States Navy last year, and which, it was announced at the time, would be manufactured at the gun factory of the Washington Navy Yard.

After the theft came to light yesterday, however, both the Army and Navy Ordnance Departments denied they had anything to do with the gun, or were manufacturing it. Robert F. Hudson, the gun's inventor and president of the corporation, would not state definitely how far the Government was interested in his gun, but admitted that it was a Federal affair. He said that the Department of Justice was investigating the case.

At the Department of Justice, officials proved to be as adept at denying as the Army and Navy officials. They said that they were not investigating the theft, and would not do so unless requested by the Navy Department. They had received no such request, they said.

The Police Department admitted that a report of the theft had been made to them but declined to discuss the case, on the ground that it was a Government affair.

The tracings were not missed from the safe until shortly after noon yesterday, when Mr Hudson wanted the drawings and began to search for them. He called police in on the case. Detectives examined the safe and announced that it had been opened by an expert. They said the combination had been cleaned of fingerprints after the huge wall strong box was opened, and that they were unable to find fingerprint clews.

Mr. Hudson minimized the loss of the tracings. He said they were not the original plans of the gun, and that his gun was protected by patents and the "tracings would be of no use to any one." He scouted a suggestion that the tracings may have been wanted by some agent of a foreign government.

In October, 1930, Mr. Hudson, who is 71 years old and lives at Lyon Village, Va., announced that his gun, described as a 1.1 automatic, had been sold to the Navy. This model is capable of firing 800 bullets per minute and has a range of 9 miles.

It was described then as being one of the most deadly guns in the possession of any country, described especially as an antiaircraft weapon. It was said to be extremely accurate because it had no recoil when discharged. The recoil was prevented in the model by powder gases which operate mechanism intended to push the barrel forward, preventing a movement in sighting.

The inventor said then that the Navy Department would complete the first guns early in 1931. He admitted last night that the tracings stolen were for improvements on this model.

A model of this original gun stood in the center of his offices at the Albee Building yesterday, the muzzle pointing directly at the entrance to the place.

Convicts Fight House Fire.

Atlanta, Ga., June 1 (U.P.).—J. E. Medley and a group of convicts under his charge passed a house from which flames were leaping, as they went to work in the early dawn hours. Medley released the chains and shackles of the men and guard and convicts awakened the family. A great amount of furniture had been saved by the prisoners when firemen arrived.

MONTGOMERY LIBEL CHARGE IS SETTLED

Suit Against Maryland News Grew Out of County Political War.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post. 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Suit for damages which had been held in Montgomery County Circuit Court by Morris A. Beall, former editor of the Montgomery Independent at Rockville, naming Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county political leader, and the Lee newspaper, the Maryland News, was withdrawn yesterday by attorneys for Beall.

Settlement was effected out of court in the case by attorneys for Beall, Fred Maltby, of Washington, and Harold C. Smith, of Rockville, and the attorney for Maj. Lee, Roger J. Whiteford, of Washington and Rockville. The amount of the settlement was notm ade public.

The suit asked damages of $75,000 and alleged libel as result of an article in the Maryland News regarding transactions by Mr. Beall in regard to a newspaper he had operated in Arlington County, Va. The article complained of was written in the course of the political campaign which led up the last county election.

The June term of the circuit court at Rockville was opened yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter. There were 135 cases on the docket. This is a nonjury term.

A resolution was presented to the court by a committee from the Rockville Bar Association announcing the death since the last term of court of Otho H. W. Talbott, a member of the bar for many years.

Following a brief history of the life of Mr. Talbott, the resolution read: "When his friends think of Mr. Talbott, they think of his kindness, of his frankness and of his deep-seated integrity. He was a friend to all who knew him, though he tolerated no deception or unfair dealings from any person. He was fearless in maintaining his beliefs, but the acme of fairness toward those whom he opposed.

"His brothers of the bar will long mourn the loss of a worthy opponent and a kindly friend. His clients have lost a wise counselor and a devoted advocate, while all of the citizens of the county will revere the memory of one of Montgomery's finest citizens. He was part and parcel of Maryland, richly imbued with her spirit and traditions. As his body rests in the soil he loved and his grave is carpeted with the green grass of Maryland, Montgomery County will mourt, but be filled with pride that she produced a man like him."

The resolution was presented by Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, F. Bernard Welsh and Stedman Prescott, the committee appointed by the Bar Association at the time of Mr. Talbott's death.

A limited divorce from Ernest Pier, of Washington, was awarded Mrs. Anna V. Pier, of Montgomery County, yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville. The wife was awarded custody of the one child.

Through Attorney Stedman Prescott, the wife alleged cruelty and drunkenness and that her husband had threatened her life and had beaten and abused her.

attempt to counteract this operating deficit there was placed into the surplus account two items labeled land appreciation," which amounted to $1,034,024.63, making the cost per square foot $41.25.

"There appears in the building account the sum of $2,129,147.65 as a part o fthe building cost. But it represents commissions, interest and other financing expenses in connection with the original first and second mortgage loans. These were 17-year loans. Since, when these entries had been made, there had been no redemption of bonds, these entries could only result in an improper increase of the cost of the building."

The report charges that the actual cost of the entire hotel property is $8,543,673.72, whereas it has a bonded indebtedness of $9,900,000. The statement is made that "the bond prospectus of the American Bond & Mortgage Co. claimed a value of $12,600,000 for the property.

The receivers charge that "the operating company, already overloaded with fixed charges, found itself, after the 1928 refinancing, as having its bonded indebtedness increased by $2,725,00, against which its assets have increased by only $1,277,345.82." In the refinancing, "net cash of $2,275,000 was realized," it was charged.

The books show a daily operating loss of $2,000 and "there was nc justification for increasing the bonded indebtedness." From the refinancing funds the mortgage company was paid $500,000 owed it by the operating company, and an additional sum of $809,654.18, and was allowed besides, a cost of $203,000 in calling bonds.

"The systematic increase of bonded indebtedness, the overloading of the project with bonded indebtedness, the use made of such increased indebtedness, sale of $435,000 in stock to the operating company, the operating deficit at the date of refinancing, all are circumstances tending to warrant a full investigation of the legal responsibility of the mortgafe company to redeem the $2,400,000 bond issue," the report reads.

"By reason of interlocking corporations between which 'charges,' 'financing costs,' 'donations of stock,' 'purchase and sale of stock,' 'payments of bills' and "assumptions of obligations' took place your receivers are obliged to report to this court that the Mayflower Hotel Co. appears to have a disproportionate financial burden.

"If these indications are borne out by further investigation, or if the American Bond & Mortgage Co. and its other subsidiaries continue to refuse to furnish necessary supporting data to substantiate these financial burdens put upon the Mayflower Hotel Co., your receivers believe that, in order to protect the bondholders, it will be necessary to demand an accounting on the above types of charges, which the books reveal as standing against the properties mortgaged to the bondholders. These unsupported charges, the auditors employed by your receivers state, amount to many millions of dollars."

Have $500,000 Invested.

The Knights of Columbus have $500,000 invested in the playgrounds in Rome. The organization introduced the American playground idea here.

Hearn pointed out that the playgrounds were engaged merely in the physical development of Italian youth, that they did not come under the jurisdiction of "Catholic Action" and that they were without political color. They were, in fact, he said, carrying on very much the same work as the Fascists themselves in seeking the development of youth.

It was announced the clubhouses would probably be opened tomorrow and there would be no need for Ambassador Garrett to transmit the protest to the Italian government.

New Haven, Conn., June 1 (A.P.).—A summary of the playground work which the Knights of Columbus has carried on in Rome, prepared today by officers at the headquarters of the order here, states that the supreme convention of 1921 voted an endowment fund of $1,000,000 for the operation of a system of playgrounds in Rome. This work was undertaken by invitation of the Pope.

Has Athletic Fields.

Edward L. Hearn, past supreme knight, who had been European commissioner for the Knights of Columbus during the World War, was placed in charge and has guided the development of the playgrounds system. Athletic fields are located at San Lorenzo, St. Peter's Oratory, the Ville Giulia and Gelsomino Hill. There is a bathing pavilion on the Tiber River.

Both boys and girls use the playgrounds, instructors and equipment being furnished by the Knights of Columbus. All the athletic fields are in Rome and none is located within the Vatican State.

The Knights of Columbus, the officers said, is not connected with anti-Italian or other organization in the maintenance of its playgrounds. All properties are in the name of the order and have been secured by outright purchase.

When the Arctic Orchestra Plays

Is enjoyment of food the same thing as the pleasure of eating? If it were, why music with our meals, why gracious and attractive surroundings in the eating places we prefer? Just as the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, so is the way to a man's —or a woman's — appetite through what is pleasant to the eye, and pleasant to the ear. And even in the glass of water set before you, how it vitalizes the whole meal to see the sparkling, crystal-clear chips of cracked ice, to hear the tinkling melodies of its arctic music!

It's no trouble to state American service. All you do is call District 6240, and service starts at once.

BOY SHOT IN ERROR BY WOMAN, CHARGE

Mrs. Maude Lenton Believed She Handled 'Toy' Gun, Police Say.

Bernard James Fox, 3 years old, was shot in the left cheek yesterday by a gun held by Mrs. Maude Humphrey Lenton, 23 years old, of Elkwood, Va., who thought it was a "toy pistol," according to police.

The boy was shot as he was ascending the stairs of his home. Mrs. Lenton, who disappeared after the shooting, was at the top of the stairs and thought she would scare the child, according to the story told police.

The boy is in a critical condition in Emergency Hospital. The bullet struck him in the cheek and lodged in his neck. Mrs. Lenton is said to have left for Alexandria, Va., directly after the shooting.

Mrs. Lenton took the pistol from a bureau in Mrs. Fox's room, according to police.

The boy's father, Harvey T. Fox, is employed by the Chevy Chase dairy.

the stand of the church in its opposition to war and asking the synods to eliminate compulsory military training from church-owned colleges.

The commission of 27 to hear the complaint of the Rev. J. E. McJunkin and others against the Synod of Arkansas in the case of the Rev. Hay Watson Smith, D. D., charged with heretical beliefs, ordered the matter back to the synod for a new trial.

Decision was made after the Rev. Marion A. Boggs, of Hot Springs, representing the synod, admitted it had erred in having the case considered by a committee and not a commission as provided in the church's book of order.

Admission of error was made on technicalities only, Mr. Boggs asking that it be understood the merits of the case were not concerned.

Phone Alexandria 523.

Annual commencement exercises of St. Agnes' Episcopal School for Girls were held yesterday, with the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, D. D., rector of the Church of the Epiphany, delivering the address to the graduates. Miss Marguerite Chapman, principal of the school, delivered the diplomas to the five graduates—Miss Phyllis Marie Krafft, Miss Elizabeth Deane Lindsey, Miss Jane Byrd Shackelford, Miss Virginia Simpson and Miss Agnes Hagley Smith.

Awards for high scholarship and athletic honors were made by Miss Chapman to Eleanor Ruth, fourth grade; Grace Bowdoin, fifth; Lisa Lindsey and Robert Carter, sixth; Emma Lipps, seventh; Emily MacMorland and George Vest, seventh; Margaret Williams, who made a grade of "A" for the entire year; Dorothy Bayne, who entered for a half year and also made "A;" Jacqueline Cochran, "B," and Deane Lindsey, of the senior class.

For recitation, Anne Carter Waller and George Vest; honorable mention, Dorothy Rust and Emily MacMorland.

In athletics awards were made to Agnes Smith, captain of the Green Team; Virginia Walton, Elaine LaCoste, Agnes Smith, Louise Bowdoin and Jacqueline Cochran, tennis letters; Agnes Smith, Virginia Walton, E. Rust and Marian Martyn, basket ball.

Other features of the program were the singing of the hymn, "God of Our Fathers," prayer by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; a solo by Mrs. Edward E. MacMorland, with Mrs. D. C. Book at the piano, and the benediction by the Rev. George S. Vest, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

The United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, Judge Isaac W. Meeks, of the Eastern District of North Carolina, presiding in place of Judge Luther B. Way, convened yesterday, with both grand and petit juries, with a larger number of cases on the docket, the majority involving alleged violations of the national prohibition act.

Among those indicted at yesterday's session were Kyle Williams, W. D. Dun (eight counts, sale and possession), Norman Green; James Lowery, national motor vehicle theft act, and James Proctor, assault on a Government reservation. A nolle prosequi was entered by the court in the cases of J. A. Larson, George Wheeler and John Douglas.

The grand jury, which will meet again today, is composed of D. F. Hannah, H. G. Lightner, Maurice L. Boiling, Lewis Hoy, Albert M. Cohen, Lawrence Michael, Roy Hollis, Jordan Camper, S. H. Detwiler, Alex H. Haight, W. Lyle Moulder, Earl T. Mustervaugh, Arthur H. Porter (foreman), W. C. Newman, Arthur J. Pierpoint, H. H. Walker and John G. Cooley.

The petit jury is composed of John W. Thomas, Thomas Valentine, jr., C. W. Barnes, J. C. Fisher, A. L. Snellings, Vivian Roberts, Robert Stuart, Joseph Wheeler, Woodson Snellings, J. W. Phillips, James Duncan, William Wilson, Monroe Dean, H. C. Donaghy, Groege Wetner, J. B. Brooks, Harry H. Fitzhugh, H. W. Peatty, C. F. Hicks, W. T. Holloway, A. H. Lawson, T. Orrison, Henry Olive, Campbell Legard, Robert Mullen, Keese Brooking, William P. Ames, Warner Lewis, Henry Shackleford, W. T. Sullivan, Joseph Cox, J. T. Pilchner and John Reynolds.

One of the cases to be heard today is that of the United States versus Bruce McIntosh, trustee of the estate of Hugh T. Hutchinson, deceased, to restrain the circuit court of Prince William County from selling about 5,000 acres of land at Quantico used by the Government in connection with the marine barracks.

It is expected a commission of five members will be named by the court today to assess damages in fourteen condemnation land suits for land taken over by the Government in connection with the construction of the Mount Vernon boulevard.

It was announced yesterday by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, that engineers of Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation and International Zeppelin Transport Corporation have started their field survey at Hybla Valley, about 3 miles south of here, in connection with the proposed establishment of a Zeppelin base at that point. Field work is under supervision of H. A. Sivaslina, who has just completed a similar survey at Richmond, a competitor of Alexandria for the base. L. Dow, B. Clivinger and H. Hoch are also associated with Mr. Sivaslina in this work.

The Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, will have as guests tonight the Right Eminent Grand Commander Sir Eugene E. Thompson and De Molay Commandery, No. 4, of Washington, when the Order of Malta will be conferred on a class of candidates in full form. The session will begin at 8 o'clock and will be held in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street.

The police department is now engaged in citing into court all parties who have not paid their license fees for 1931, and Justice W. S. Snow has announced that hereafter fines assessed for failure to pay the fee will not be suspended as heretofore on payment of the fee, but that a fine of $10 will be assessed in all cases. A number of persons have already appeared in court on this charge. The licenses, both for business and professional men and city licenses for automobiles, were due January 1.

Mrs. Sarah M. Baggett died yesterday at her home, 1701 King street. She was the widow of Benjamin Baggett, and is survived by two daughters and two sons.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. Hugh McFadden, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and interment will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery.

GROUPS AT FAIRFAX WILL PRESENT PLAY

Many Meetings Announced for Today by Various Bodies in County.

The Volunteer and Knights of Wesley classes of the Southern Methodist Sunday school of Fairfax will present their play, "Over the Hills to the Poor House," this evening at Fairfax Schoolhouse for the joint benefit of the class and the Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department. Members of the cast include Mrs. Mary Cullen, Miss Mavis Cobb, Sydna W. Bennett, Mary Mickelson, Virginia Beavers, Lucille Rice, Hannah Lee, Stanley Dove, Rene Pfaizgraf, Thomas Piggott, Norman Cobb, the Rev. Royal Rice and Ralph Waple.

The Fairfax County Poultry Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Farmers Club rooms at Fairfax as part of its educational program for improving poultry flocks in the county. M. C. Kilpatrick, secretary of the State Poultry Federation, will give demonstrations in vaccination of poultry against chickenpox. The public has been invited to attend tonight's meeting.

The Pioneer Grange will meet this evening at Masonville. The members will be expected to respond to a roll call by telling what improvements they have made this spring in their grounds and gardens.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Browns Chapel Methodist Church plans a strawberry and ice cream festival for this evening in the old Colvin Run Schoolhouse. Mrs. Howard Cunningham has been appointed general chairman.

The nomination of officers for the ensuing term will be the principal order of business this evening at the meeting of the McLean Council of Fraternal Americans.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Herndon will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Magnus Wilkins.

The Farmers and Mechanics Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will meet this evening in the schoolhouse at Andrew Chapel.

The Groveton Community Club will meet this evening in the Groveton Schoolhouse. Entertainment will be presented under direction of Mrs. Earl L. Popkins.

The Senior School League of the Chesterbrook School will meet this evening in the schoolhouse to discuss plans for improving school grounds and planting of shrubbery. The league plans to continue its work during the summer vacation.

The Mount Vernon Grange will sponsor a play by the Potomac Players this evening in the Woodlawn Community House on the Washington-Richmond highway near the entrance of Fort Humphreys. The play is entitled "The Belles of Blackville."

Commencement exercises of Lee-Jackson High School at Cameron Valley were held last night in the auditorium of the school. Dr. John Bently, of the department of education and psychology, of American University, Washington, addressed the graduating class. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, of Alexandria. Mary Norton was class valedictorian, and Theresa Clair was salutatorian.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce silver cup, awarded annually to the high school winning the baseball championship of the county, was presented to Lee-Jackson School last night by Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, president of the chamber. The cup was won by Lee-Jackson in a series of games with Clifton High School after each had won the championships of their respective districts. Clifton won the cup last year.

The first two games of the series were played about two weeks ago on the Fairfax County Fair Grounds and resulted in favor of Clifton. The Lee-Jackson team protested a decision of the umpire in the first game and the appeal was upheld by the County High School Athletic Association and two more games were arranged over the week-end. The first game was played at Annandale and won by Lee-Jackson with a score of 13 to 12. The final game was played at Balleys Cross Roads and Lee-Jackson again won by a score of 13 to 6.

Fund Perversion Trial Results in Acquittal

Asheville, N. C., June 1 (A.P.).—Wallace B. Davis and two former officials of Buncombe County, were acquitted today of charges that they conspired to pervert county funds to aid the Central Bank & Trust Co., of which Davis was president.

BROADBENT ELECTED TENNESSEE SPEAKER

House Prepares to Consider Article of Impeachment Against Governor.

Nashville, Tenn., June 1 (A.P.).—Senator A. B. Broadbent, an independent Democrat of Clarksville, Tenn., was elected Speaker of the Tennessee Senate today as the House of Representatives prepared to consider an article of impeachment against Gov. Henry H. Horton.

Tennessee does not have a lieutenant governor, and the Speaker of the Senate succeeds to the governorship in event that office is left vacant. Senator Brodabent is an avowed political opponent of Representative Crump, of Memphis, the political head of the faction seeking the impeachment of Gov. Horton.

His election as Senate Speaker came after Scott P. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, resigned that office with the explanation that he had been criticized for affiliation with the Crump faction. Mr. Fitzhugh said it had been charged that the movement to impeach Gov. Horton involved a plan to give Mr. Crump control of the State. Through the speaker, who would become governor if Horton were ousted.

Seven Impeachment Articles Ready.

Seven articles of impeachment against Horton were ready for introduction in the House tomorrow for consideration. One, submitted Friday, charged Horton conspired with Col. Luke Lea, publisher and politician, and Rogers Caldwell, banker, against the best interests of the State.

The first article further alleged that a continuous conspiracy has been in effect since Horton assumed office, whereby the governor would direct State affairs for the benefit of Lea and Caldwell and receive their political support in return.

The administration and its opponents renewed their efforts tonight to gain supporters. Fifty of the 99 House votes are required to approve impeachment charges and two-thirds of the senators, or 22, are needed to sustain the impeachment charges. Twenty-four of the 33 senators voted for Broadbent today, the other 9 not voting.

Friend of Peay.

Senator Broadbent is 46 years old and a bachelor. He was a close friend of the late Gov. Austin Peay, whose death elevated Horton to the governorship, and managed all of Peay's successful campaigns. Senator Broadbent never sought public office for himself until he ran for the State Senate last fall, being unopposed in the general election.

Five additional articles containing alleged grounds for impeachment of Gov. Horton were made public tonight by Chairman John Tipton, of the special committee which for the past week has been preparing formal charges against the governor for presentation to the Tennessee House of Representatives. The new ones probably will be offered in the House tomorrow.

One of the new articles charges that Gov. Horton pardoned W. M. Wilkerson, operator of a night club near Memphis, on August 7, 1928, just after a primary election, while Wilkerson was a fugitive from justice under conviction on a charge of operating a gambling house.

Piano Figures in Charge.

Another article charges that three days after Gov. Horton signed a legislative appropriation bill of 1929, with the reservation that he would not use a $2,800 fund for a piano for the executive mansion, a piano was delivered to the mansion and paid for with $2,800 of State funds. This act displayed, the articles avers, "great moral delinquency and gross breach of decorum."

Another charge is that recent utterances of Gov. Horton, expressing belief that practically all of the $7,000,000 of State funds on deposit in closed banks will be recovered, show "either willingness of the governor to try to impose upon the supposed ignorance of the people of Tennessee, or amount to a showing that his condition is such that he is not fit and capable longer to hold the office of governor."

It is also charged that Neil Bass, former State highway commissioner, was "willfully, tyranically and corruptly removed from said office" because of his refusal "to allow and permit Col. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell to have final and supreme" charge of the highway department and its policies.

The fifth article contends that Bass' successor, Harry S. Berry, also was removed by Gov. Horton because of his refusal to build a road by Col. Lea's property and because he declined to approve other construction to redeem Gov. Horton's campaign promises.

Building Construction Up.

Chicago, June 1 (U.P.).—Construction in Chicago in April aggregated $3,723,600 and the volume for the first four months of the year amounted to $32,493,100, according to a building survey made by S. W. Straus & Co. The total is a 47.9 per cent gain over the same period last year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MESSAGE IS CITED

Judge From Chicago Speaks at Church Here; Lauds Mary Baker Eddy.

A lecture on "Christian Science, Its Healing Message," was delivered last evening in First Church of Christ, Scientist, by Judge Samuel W. Greene, C. S. B. of Chicago.

Judge Greene is a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. He was introduced by Wilbur E. Yocum, first reader of First Church, under whose auspices the lecture was given.

The lecturer said in part:

"The discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, through years of study, prayer and contemplation perceived a spiritual law of healing running through the experiences of the prophets of Jesus and of His disciples. She saw that the healing work accomplished by those consecrated men was instant and permanent, and without the use of any material means or medicines. Being in need herself of healing, she reached out in thought and prayer to God, claiming the presence and the manifestation of God's power just as in Jesus' time. To the great amazement of her family and friends, she was able immediately to rise from a sick bed and manifest a normal sense of health. She was not satisfied with the idea that this was a miraculous or unusual manifestation of God's power for her own benefit, but she believed that she had realized the existence of a definite, certain law of health and healing which was and is available for all who bring their thinking into conformity with that law.

"Christian Science teaches that God is above, and far removed from, imperfection, impatience, ignorance, disease, pain and death. It teaches that such material concepts of God and of God's creation must necessarily be false, misleading and unbelievable, from the very nature of God. The Bible says that God saw, that is, considered, all that He had made and that it was 'very good.' Is it not fair, then, to ask of every seeming condition of creation or existence: Is this very good? and if it does not measure up to that high standard, may one not be privileged to say, It is not of God's creation and is not true. Such is the position taken by Christian Science. If it is not good, then it is not of God and is not true."

$5,000,000 Lost at Sea Sought.

Ostend, Belgium, June 1 (A.P.).—The English salvage ship "Reclaimer," is attempting to recover gold valued at $5,000,000 from the Dutch liner Tubantia, torpedoed off Ostend in 1916. Operations will require several months with divers working at a depth of 100 feet.

Representative Urges Thicker Meat Slices

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, June 1 (A.P.).—Bigger and thicker slices of bacon and ham are Representative Cyrenus Cole's solution to the reduced meat consumption problem.

Instead of the "forty-eleven" slices of bacon or ham to the inch obtained through the use of meat-slicing machines, Representative Cole, in a letter to the Sioux City Live Stock Association, suggested cutting the meat with a knife or setting the machine so that it will cut a slice thick enough to give some taste.

SALE OF LOTS HEAVY AT WOODLAND BEACH

Clerks Kept Busy Recording Week-End Purchases; Buying Plan Easy.

Clerks in the Woodland Beach office of The Washington Post spent a busy day yesterday recording all the sales made over the holiday week-end to visitors at the Beach.

The rush of business exceeded expectations, for there were few among those who visited this beautiful South River site who did not succumb to its charms and become a part of the community. Lots in all parts of the development sold like hot cakes, indicating a wide variety of opinion as to choice locations. Some folks wanted lots right on the water, while others preferred to be some distance away, but the crowd was agreed on one point—that Woodland Beach was situated at just the right spot on the river.

Many who went to the Beach without their checkbooks and pocketbooks made up for this difficulty yesterday by appearing early at The Post, ready to sign up for the lot which they picked in their minds while visiting the Beach over the holiday.

You need not wait for another Sunday or holiday to learn about Woodland Beach right at the scene. You can ascertain all the details by dropping in at The Post. Also while in the office you can fill out a subscription blank for The Post as the first step toward becoming a lot owner. The next is to deposit $9 and then make your selection. The remainder of the $93, which is the price of all lots at the Beach, may then be paid in monthly installments of $3.50. Easy terms and an easy way in which to obtain a fine lot in a pleasant location where you may spend many happy summer days.

Woodland Beach is just 32 miles from Washington, a nice drive out Defense highway toward Annapolis. The motorist turns right at Camp Parole on to Maryland State highway No. 2, crossing the South River Bridge, and then left on to Mayo road, which is followed to the Beach. Persons traveling by electric car should go to Camp Parole, from which point, on Sundays and holidays, buses meet all cars and carry visitors to and from the Beach.

Longer Airplane Tests Are Urged

Philadelphia Is Host to Army-Navy Aircraft Standards Parley.

Philadelphia, June 1 (A.P.).—A recommendation that airplane motors be given a longer period on the testing block before they are adopted for Army or Navy requirements was made today at the annual Army-Navy aircraft standards conference at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The conference has been held each year since 1923, so manufacturers of airplanes or airplane parts and equipment may be given standards which their products must meet.

Lieut. Ralph S. Barnaby, of the Bureau of Aeronautics at Washington, represented the Navy at the meeting, and Capt. Frank Carroll, acting in place of Maj. C. W. Howard, of Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, represented the Army. Manufacturers and officers divided their attendance among four meetings, for makers of instruments, power plants, aircraft material and aircraft parts.

Earthquake, Lightning Cause Havoc in Persia

Teheran, Persia, June 1 (A.P.).—A severe earthquake and heavy thunderstorm struck this section over the week-end.

The earthquake was most strongly felt at Damavan and Shahpoor, but little damage was done. Seven persons were struck by lightning at Hamadan.

Ambulance Transports McKellar to Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., June 1 (A.P.).—United States Senator K. D. McKellar, who was injured in an automobile accident near Covington, Tenn., late yesterday, had recovered sufficiently today to permit his removal to a Memphis hospital in an ambulance.

Physicians said they did not believe the injuries would result seriously. Senator McKellar suffered fracture of four ribs and bruises and lacerations when a car in which he was riding with A. H. Lawo, of Memphis, skidded from a highway. Mr. Lawo was cut and bruised.

Mormon Church Plans Reveal Cost as $275,000

The official estimated cost of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints was revealed as $275,000 yesterday, when a permit to proceed with its construction was issued by the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann. This is $100,000 and $75,000 more than two previously announced estimates.

The revised and more elaborate plans provide a handsome edifice to be erected at the southwest corner of Sixteenth street and Columbia road northwest. Construction materials will be steel, brick, terra cotta and concrete. The building will be approximately 85 feet wide, approximately 137 feet deep and its spire will rise to a height of 163 feet above street level. Young & Hansen, Salt Lake City, managers of construction, are listed as the architects.

COMMON LAW RULED VALID IN MARRIAGE

Widow of Thomas Sutton Is Winner in First Test of Case in Capital.

Thefirs tt est ever to be made of the common law marriage problem in the Districtw as acted upon yesterday by the District Court of Appeals, which ruled that such marriages were binding in law. Justice D. Lawrence Groner delivered the opinion.

The ruling declared that an agreement betwen a man and woman to be husband and wife, "consummated by af ulfilment of the relations of marriage, constitute a valid marriage, unless there be a provision in law declaring such a marriage invalid because of not being solemnized in a prescribed way." Ther uling held that the requirements for a license were merely "directory."

The case revolved about the death of ThomasSu tton, who died while in the employe of Murch Bros. Construction Co. His surviving common law wife sought compensation for his death, and was given a decision by Robert J. Hoage, deputy commissioner of the Employes' Compensation Commission. The insurance company obtained a District Supreme Court injunction against the award, and Hoage appealed to the Court of Appeals. The wife will now get the award.

In another decision yesterday, the Appeals Court ruled against James Stewart & Co., Inc., of New York, which built the Washington Building, at Fifteenth street and New York avenue. A mechanics' lien of $196,000 was thus lost to the company.

The rule cited was that the surety which had been sued was released from liability upon completion of the building. The building was sold when the first mortgage was in default, and the District Supreme Court ruled that the trust came ahead of the lien, which was wiped out in the sale.

Court to Study Chain Store Rehearing Plea

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday agreed to entertain a petition for a rehearing on its decision upholding the Indiana tax on chain stores. As a result, no further action can be taken in the case until October, when the court returns from its summer recess. It will decide then whether a rehearing is to be granted.

A stay in the issuance of the court's mandate sustaining the tax was asked and received yesterday by counsel for the estate of Lafayette A. Jackson, of Indianapolis, who brought the suit originally. Mr. Jackson died since the court rendered its decision. The decision was by a five-to-four division of the court.

Court Adjourned With Clean Slate

Supreme Tribunal Clears Docket of All Cases Awaiting Action.

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday completed its term and adjourned until next October after establishing a record by deciding all cases it had in hand awaiting decision and by disposing of all pending appeals and petitions for review.

Before taking up its routine business the court held memorial services for the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and the late Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford. Chief Justice Hughes and Attorney General Mitchell eulogized both.

In two cases the court acted on phases of the troubles of Jackson Barnett, wealthy and illiterate Cherokee Indian, who signed away $1,000,000, most of which the Government recovered for him.

The Interstate Commerce Commission was sustained in two cases in which it had fixed rates on road-building materials shipped between points in Georgia and rates on fertilizer and fertilizer materials shipped between points in Alabama. It also declared certain Indians had the right of a home on an Indian reservation in the State of Washington.

MINNESOTA GAG LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

licious, scandalous and defamatory articles.

"This court should not reverse the judgment below," he said, "upon the ground that in some other case the statute may be applied in a way that is repugnant to the freedom of the press, protected by the fourteenth amendment." He added that the decision made Minnesota and other States powerless to restrain by injunction newspapers which had been held public nuisances by the court.

The Chief Justice said the Minnesota law operated not only to suppress the offending newspaper or periodical but to put the publisher under an effective censorship. The effect of the law, he said, is to put a newspaper out of business unless it could prove that charges of publishing defamatory and scandalous matter were not true.

"This is the essence of censorship," he added.

He said the statute was directed at the continued publication by newspapers of charges against public officers of corruption, malfeasance in office, or serious neglect of duty.

"Such charges by their very nature create a public scandal," he continued. "They are scandalous and defamatory within the meaning of the statute. * * *

"Charges of reprehensible conduct and, in particular, of malfeasance unquestionably create a public scandal, but the theory of the constitutional guaranty is that an even more serious public evil would be caused by authority to prevent publication."

Trade Board Votes Outing Big Success

Group Decides to Continue Bay Cruise and Visits as Annual Event.

Returning yesterday from a three-day cruise to Virginia points, members of the Washington Board of Trade voted to repeat the outing annually. It will become the one event of the board in which wives and women relatives of the members will have a part.

Success of the trip was attributed to the indefatigible management of Col. John L. Bardroff, who was chairman of the cruise; Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the board, and Odell S. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Co. The cruise was made on one of the company's ships, the Southland.

The historic country visited, which included Jamestown Island, where the first Virginia settlers landed, and Williamsburg, the focal point in the founding of the Government of the United States, is to be exploited by the Greater Capital committee of the board, it was announced by George W. Offutt, president. Points to be emphasized are the accessibility of the places of interest and the wealth of historical lore in which they abound.

28 NURSES RECEIVE HOSPITAL DIPLOMAS

Washington Sanitarium Has 22nd Exercises; Nichol Delivers Address.

Twenty-eight nurses received diplomas from the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing in Takoma Park last night. These graduates of the twenty-second class of the institution will become registered nurses as soon as State board examinations are completed.

The commencement exercises were held in Columbia Hall of the Washington Missionary College, adjoining the sanitarium grounds. F. D. Nichol, of the editorial staff of the Review and Herald Publishing Association in Takoma Park, delivered the commencement address. Hi stheme was "When on the Defensive, Attack."

Dr. A. W. Truman, medical director of the sanitarium, presented graduates with the diplomas, and Mrs. E. T. James, director of the School of Nursing, presented the class with the insignia of the school.

Dr. H. W. Mikkelson, of the medical staff of the sanitarium, sang the barytone solo, "My Task," by Ashford. V. N. Johnson, violinist, and Miss Ruth Lindup, 'cellist, were accompanied by Mrs. Norma Trummer in Mozart's "Theme with Variations."

Immediately after the commencement program a reception was held for the graduating class in the college gymnasium. Miss Catherine Carlson was president of the class. Miss Clare Astwood was vice president, Miss Marjorie Dufty, secretary, and Miss Mildred Strother, treasurer.

FRANCE SAYS GUINAN MUST GO TOMORROW

Night Club Entertainer and Bevy of Girls Uncertain Where to Land.

Havre, France, June 1 (A.P.).—Texas Guinan will have to leave France by 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, she was informed today. There was some uncertainty as to where she would go from here.

She maintains that she will go to Paris despite the order of the French government that she shall not enter the country. Reports that she might take her "gang" to Germany or Austria brought from the consulates of those two nations expressions of doubt that she would be admitted there.

"We can accept her request for a German visa," said the German consul, "only if her party can produce a working contract approved by the German minister of labor. Until then we can't say whether she would be admitted or not."

"It's all right with us if they go to another country," said the director of the French Lines, "but they will have to get out of Havre by Wednesday afternoon."

France's refusal to admit the Broadway entertainer and her dancers is based on failure of the department of labor to approve her French working contract.

AMERICANS ON GUARD.

The people of the United States laugh to scorn the pellets and popguns that are fired at the moated fort that guards them against foreign invasion. This fort was constructed long ago, and its foundations and battlements have been tested many a time. It is indestructible and impregnable while Americans are on guard.

As against physical attack the fort is moated by two oceans and manned by millions of fighting men. No combination of human power can come and take the fort.

As against the sapping and mining of alien labor and alien goods the fort is provided with the stout walls of immigration restriction and tariff protection. Americans can not be robbed of their right to work by any force of foreign invaders so long as they maintain the wall against alien immigration. They can and do permit suitable recruits to enter through the gates, and these well-meaning, would-be Americans are welcome; but the gates slam shut upon filthy hordes seeking to enter and devour.

Within the fort of tariff protection all Americans have the equal right to labor, to manufacture, to buy and sell among themselves. They are keen traders, and their competition holds prices down. Profits are well earned by thrift and enterprise. The market monopolized by Americans among themselves is the largest and richest in the world, because it excludes the servile and degraded human and his goods. Here labor stands erect, proud of its freedom and rejoicing in its opportunities to produce and acquire wealth. In no other country in the world is the sweat of a worker's brow honored as proof of voluntary enlistment in the world war against human degradation.

Selfish and blind citizens raise feeble protests against the maintenance of the walls that protect them and their fellows. The selfish among them are parasites, who hope to exploit both their fellow-citizens and foreigners by overreaching them in trade and finance. For the sake of their personal gain they would sacrifice the welfare of their countrymen. A voice like that of Thomas W. Lamont, piping up for the razing of the walls, so that he and other money-lenders may fatten upon citizens and foreigners alike, is merely a warning to Americans to guard their battlements against domestic enemies. Voices like his are reinforced by the howling of blind men who can not see how they are protected, and who listen with credulity to the glowing tales of "world trade" which are to be made real by throwing down the walls and permitting pauperized hordes to ravage American fields while Americans range forth to gather thistles in fields already trampled for thousands of years by half-starved and brutalized peasants.

It is little wonder that intelligent Americans laugh at the puny assaults of selfishness and blindness upon the indestructible protecting walls of this country. The parasites will not prevail by cunning, and the blinded dupes will be saved from their own stupidity. The people of the United States know how to guard their good fortune and their happy land against all enemies, foreign and domestic.

WHAT AMERICANS SPEND.

California census figures disclose interesting information as to the extent and distribution of retail sales. Sales in 57,895 retail stores in the 47 California cities having a population of 10,000 and more amounted to $2,556,371,792 in 1929. These cities had a population of 3,571,610 last year, which indicates an average yearly expenditure of $713 per capita.

A more comprehensive report covering the retail stores of the entire State, dealing with sales not only in cities but in towns and unincorporated rural areas, does not show as high per capita purchases, the average being about $576. The mean of these two, or $645, would more fairly represent the retail purchases of the average American. On this basis the total purchases from retail stores in the Nation would amount to $77,400,000,000. The total, probably, is approximately correct, as the national income of American citizens is estimated at about $90,000,000,000 a year. This would leave nearly 14 per cent for investments, savings, purchases of real estate, &c.

Figuring on the basis of the California compilation the food stores receive 20.29 cents of the consumer's store dollar whereas the automobile establishment gets 23.56 cents. The general merchandise stores are in third position and account for 12.92 cents of the dollar. The remainder is divided among the other types of stores in the following order: Apparel, 8.51; lumber and building, 6.81; restaurants and eating places, 5.89; furniture and household, 4.87, and all other stores, 17.15.

Another feature of the tabulation shows distribution of the net sales of the stores by types, as follows:

Single-store independents, $1,415,551,118; two-store multiples, $246,500,363; three-store multiples, $157,790,251; local chains, $334,475,236; sectional chains, $162,633,959; national chains, $197,659,371; leased-department chains, $10,280,915; other types of operation, $31,480,579.

MUSSOLINI VS. THE VATICAN.

Late reports from Rome indicate that both sides are taking steps toward an amicable settlement of the controversy between the Italian government and the Vatican, but it is not to be supposed that the issues can be easily ironed out. Tension will be relieved by the silencing of the anti-Catholic and anti-Fascist press, but there appears to be a definite rift between the church and state that can be closed only by skillful statesmanship.

Premier Mussolini issued orders to close 15,000 clubs of the Catholic Action Society on the ground that they were taking part in politics. Since Italy has been in the grip of the Black Shirts political parties have ceased to exist. The Fascisti alone are privileged to have political opinions. Opposition to Premier Mussolini and his regime is rigidly suppressed. Action was taken against the organization of Catholic laymen on the allegation that it was indulging in political activities, contrary to the terms of the Lateran Treaty. But the real accusation is that the Catholic clubs were acting in opposition to the Duce. It is inconceivable that they would have been denounced for "political activity" if such activity had been in his favor.

The church denies that the Catholic Action is engaged in politics. The immediate issue seems to hinge, therefore, on what constitutes political activity as defined in the Lateran Treaty. But the antipathy between Christianity and Fascism goes much deeper than that. Mussolini has made Fascism a kind of state religion. The Duce, no doubt, hoped to ingratiate himself with the Vatican through the Lateran Treaty, which established the Vatican City as an independent state. But the Holy See has refused to subordinate itself to the Fascist regime. The controversy involves an elemental conflict between the Fascist conception of an iron-fisted state and the religious ideal of free conscience. The church is just as anxious to have Italian youth trained in Christian philosophy as is Premier Mussolini to have them educated in the paganism of the Black Shirts. The prospects for a harmonious understanding on this problem do not appear to be bright.

GUARDING PUBLIC HEALTH.

The better health and longer life enjoyed by the average citizen of the United States is due to a more general dissemination of knowledge about food values and necessary sanitary precautions, and in no small measure to the never-ending work of National, State and local health officers throughout the Nation. Headed by the United States Public Health Service, the various organizations in this country are busy every day of the year upon curative work and the manifold preventive measures that safeguard the Nation from contagion at home and invasion from abroad.

The extent of the national service under the direction of Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming is rarely appreciated by the average citizen. Its work is divided into many different branches, including protection of ports from the introduction of disease, prevention of interstate spread of disease and suppression of epidemics, maintenance of two narcotic farms for treatment of those addicted to habit-forming drugs, provision of medical service to prisons, cooperation with State and local health departments, and scientific investigation of diseases and control of biological products.

The service conducts 25 marine hospitals and 131 other relief stations. It operates 87 quarantine stations in this country and 34 in insular possessions, as well as 144 stations for the inspection of immigrants. At the domestic quarantine stations last year 17,619 vessels, 825,904 passengers and 1,163,914 seamen were inspected upon arrival. In addition to the American service of this kind hundreds of thousands of passengers and seamen are inspected at foreign ports before they embark for the United States.

As an example of the care exercised in connection with developments of modern life a recent statement from the Massachusetts Health Department explains the advice given and care exercised over summer camps. There are more than 200 camps in that State, for all ages and conditions of campers. The fundamental purpose of these outdoor gatherings is health, but without proper guidance and inspection they would often breed epidemics. Instructions are issued to managers of camps, and they are inspected to see that regulations are carried out in the matter of water supply, sanitary arrangements, preparation of food, and precautions against carriers of disease.

THE ANGLO-GERMAN PARLEY.

European tension that was considerably lessened following the reference of the Austro-German trade pact to the world court for an advisory opinion is tightening up again on the eve of the visit of the German Chancellor, Dr. Heinrich Bruening, and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius to England next Friday. Official references to this international session insist that it is a "visit," disclaiming the formal importance of a conference. Nevertheless, several nations await with some trepidation the outcome of the colloquies, or whatever they may be called, that are to be sandwiched in between social functions.

Following their arrival in London on Friday the German officials will be guests at a dinner given by the British Government in the Locarno room of the foreign office. Saturday and Sunday are to be devoted to official parley. Saturday morning the Germans will motor to Chequers, the country estate of Mr. Henderson, where they will also find Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. With no secretariat, no announced agenda, the quartet will spend a momentous day in discussion of European problems.

The situation in Germany is reported to be growing serious and the administration is pressed for action on reparations. Chancellor Bruening may inform his British hosts that unless legal sanction is given to the customs union with Austria, Germany will insist upon reparations relief either through readjustment or a moratorium.

Doubtless, too, there will be plain words spoken with regard to the forthcoming disarmament conference. Great Britain and Germany are both interested in seeing war forces scaled down, but the British attitude is expected to be one that will urge the practical necessity of not endeavoring to move faster than France will follow. Germany, on the other hand, may be expected to demand the right to arm herself unless other nations reduce their armies.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 1.—The keynote both at a recent meeting of steel men and at a later convention of the foreign trade council was the criticism of wholesale selling of manufactured commodities below cost. Profitless merchandising was denounced. Resistance to price cutting and maintenance of prices were urged.

This principle is of the first importance and if it be adopted would change the whole aspect of the business situation. Uncertain and declining prices are discouraging and demoralizing. As long as that condition exists nearly everything that is not of the utmost necessity is at a standstill. A state of unfair competition is created paralyzing to buying power. The maintenance of reasonable and stable prices for fabricated products is the first requisite to recovery.

While this subject interests all kinds of savings, investments and business it is especially vital to the wage earner. The wholesale cost of most commodities is principally the cost of labor. The wage scale of the country has held rather better than anything else, but if all other costs are reduced the pressure to reduce wages will be well-nigh overwhelming. Profitable price standards are not a panacea, but they are an essential element to wage scales and economic recovery. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

A MEMORIAL TO GEN. WOOD

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Gen. Leonard Wood is remembered by thousands of living men and women in America who had the good fortune to come under the influence of his rare personality. He was a stalwart soldier, but because of his temperament and his medical education he was an equally formidable warrior against disease. He entered upon no feature of his administrative work in Cuba, for instance, with more real zest than upon the housecleaning that he gave Havana and then extended to a great part of the island. Almost his first concern as Governor of the Philippines was to urge upon the insular health service the expenditure of sums for medical and sanitary work which then seemed to the islanders exorbitant. The full subscription of the fund for the Leonard Wood Memorial for the Eradication of Leprosy, announced Saturday, is now a reminder that Gen. Wood's assault on leprosy through the health service was a particularly eager and determined one.

Leprosy has, for countless centuries, been a loathsome blight upon most eastern and tropical countries, which the afflicted peoples have regarded as something, like earthquakes and typhoons, to accept and put up with. Leonard Wood was no sooner aware of the proportions of the plague than he determined that the islands should not put up with it, but fight it. The astonishingly successful work that has since been financed in the Philippine leper colonies—work which promises to be as much of an inspiration to other tropical countries as America's war on yellow fever in Panama—is in very large part the result of his initiative. A fund which Gen. Wood started to raise in this country in 1927, just before his death, to endow an antileprosy campaign for fifteen years, is now his memorial, and it would be hard indeed to imagine a more suitable tribute to his name than this, to which 50,000 Americans who appreciated the man and his ideals have contributed.

Two million dollars would have paid for a formidable monument of marble and bronze, which some of the subscribers would have liked and have thought appropriate and some would not. No single one of them can doubt for a moment, however, that this memorial fund is appropriate or that Leonard Wood himself would have approved it, for it is something that he started with characteristic enthusiasm to build himself, though never for a moment thinking that it would be completed as a monument to him.

The Chequers Anglo-German meeting this week is only a "visit." A conference is chess.

DISCONTENT.

Discontented let me stay
Every hour of every day.
Discontented with the care
Which my neighbor has to bear,
With the wrongs I plainly see
Till they all shall righted be;
With my little garden space
Till it glows with richer grace.

Let me discontented be
With the thing that stands for me,
Until all my strength is spent
Never let me be content,
Satisfied with what I view,
While there still are tasks to do
Let me never greet the sun
Crying that my work is done.

Let me never settle down
Seeing naught at which to frown;
Let me never smugly tell
Friend or neighbor: "All is well."
While there still are wrongs to right
And injustices to fight
Discontented let me stay
Every hour of every day.

We May Deny the Beggar a Nickel, But We Are Glad to Lend the Rich Man Car Fare.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

In a recent magazine article, Theodore Dreiser confesses that he once was a thief.

In his youth, being poor and greatly tempted he took twenty-five dollars from his employer.

He was overcome with shame and fright when the theft was discovered; but now he makes copy of the incident and gets much more than twenty-five dollars, for he is a famous writer and one of the world's great.

People who read the confession will not be horrified. Perhaps they will smile, as they do when a millionaire tells of stealing watermelons when he was a boy in the country.

But suppose these same people had read about the theft the day after it occurred. Or suppose Dreiser had remained a collector of installment accounts all these years, so that he had neither fame nor money, and the employer from whom he stole had appeared to expose his past and denounce him.

Would people chuckle still?

Of would they draw their garments close to escape contamination and turn away to reveal their contempt and loathing?

Success covers a multitude of sins.

We forgive Dreiser because we are heartless snobs.

If we had seen him in poverty, stealing because he needed an overcoat, our scorn would have meant: "You need forgiveness; therefore we deny it. You are a thief, and we must be merciless in order to prove ourselves more righteous than you."

But now we smile tolerantly, and our tolerance means: "You no longer need our forgiveness. You can snap your fingers at the world's opinion. You are a somebody. Therefore we hasten to forgive and defend you, for by making you one of us we may share a little in your fame."

To him that hath shall be given. We never give banquets for a man until he no longer needs them. We give mercy only to those who have no need of it.

Law-breaking by "nice" people doesn't horrify us. The only sins we condemn are the sins of people we scorn. The evil is not in the act, but in the poverty of the culprit.

We always side with the underdog—if the best people have sided with him and made it respectable.

The Chain Store Tax.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is unfortunate that in ruling upon such an important question as that of the Indiana license tax on chain stores the United States Supreme Court should have been divided five to four. Such close decisions settle the immideate point at issue, but invite further litigation stating the same general question in slightly different terms. Two other cases involving the right of a State to place chain stores in a special classification for purposes of taxation are still before the highest court.

The Indiana law, which has been sustained, subjects stores to a graduated tax of $3 upon one store, $10 for each additional store up to five and an increasing scale which reaches a tax of $25 for each store in excess of twenty under the same ownership. The plaintiff, who owned 225 stores, was required to pay $5,443, as compared with a total of $575 paid by individual owners of as many stores. He invoked the "equal protection" clause of the Federal Constitution in an effort to have the Indiana law declared unconstitutional. The point was whether the special classification adopted was so arbitrary and unreasonable as to have no relation to the simple object of taxation.

The majority opinion finds that a statute may discriminate against or in favor of a certain class if the discrimination is based on a "reasonable" distinction. There must be "substantial differences" between the occupations separately classified. There must be no discriminations within each occupation. The court finds that the Indiana law treats all chain-store owners alike. It is not concerned with the charge that the State is penalizing the chain stores or trying to drive them out of business. The dissenting opinion finds the Indiana classification unfair and in conflict with the "equal protection" guaranteed by the Constitution.

Mr. Hoover's Valley Forge.

(New York Times.)

In his Memorial Day address, the President came very near making an appeal for personal sympathy in the difficulties of his official position. Remarking that each one of his hearers had a "special cause of anxiety," he added, with a note of pathos: "So, too, have I." On the evening before, at his reception by the Union League Club of Philadelphia, Mr. Hoover spoke of the "two years of fever and turmoil" through which he had been compelled to pass since becoming President. If this is the first break, publicly, in the stoical reserve which he has maintained through all his troubles, he may readily be pardoned for it. Few Presidents before him can have suffered so many slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. It is a common remark that Mr. Hoover has been one of the unluckest men that ever entered the White House. He is not asking for commiseration, but is entitled in this time of universal hardship, which he no longer seeks to minimize in the slightest degree, to the cooperation of all good citizens in bearing up under the ills which we can not at present escape, with a determination on the part of all of us to keep our courage up until we have worked our way through.

Dr. MacIntosh's Proposal.

Chicago Tribune.

Dr. MacIntosh asked that the Constitution of the United States be modified in order that he might accept it, a strange request from a stranger. The answer is a reasonable one. He may remain a resident, but not a citizen.

Association of Ideas.

Boston Herald.

It's probably queer, but every time we see those Shouse-Fess headlines we somehow think of a man returning home late to admit his delinquencies.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Writer Draws Upon Personal Observation to Substantiate Figures on Country's Drink Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has issued a statement giving its estimate of the "national annual booze bill" as being about $2,848,000,000.

It is a self-evident fact that any estimate of the gross amount of money spent by the American people for illicit liquors can only be conjecture, but the association's estimate is based upon careful, painstaking research and calculation, and may be accepted as fairly accurate.

It is a prodigious sum of money in itself, to be sure, but if it be apportioned among 120,000,000 of people, it will be found to amount to only about 7 cents per person per day.

As might have been expected, the association's statement was immediately followed by a number of disparaging "blasts" from the prohibitionists. The Antisaloon League called the estimate "wild speculation." Yet I remmember that the league had nothing to say about the "wild speculation" of one of its own writers who estimated the annual drink bill in the "old, bad wet days" at $5,000,000,000.

Three of these letters have appeared in the columns of The Post, signed, respectively, by "W. T. T.," Parker Williams and J. A. Waters.

W. T. T. asserts, in effect, that there are not more than two millions of people—less than 2 per cent of the population—in the United States who are regular patrons of bootleggers and speakeasies. I think if the gentleman would only take the trouble to study the police and court reports, giving the number of persons annually arrested for drunkenness, he will be inclined to revise his figures.

Mr. Williams says that there were between 600 and 700 licensed rum mills in the District of Columbia in the preprohibition days. With all due respect, the gentleman is slightly in error. The number of saloons was limited to 300, and the wholesale houses, which only sold liquors in sealed containers, to less than 200, so there were not more than 500 establishments in all.

From my own personal observation, I can truthfully say that I have seen more and worse drunkenness under prohibition than I saw in the "old, bad wet days." I have repeatedly seen boys of the high-school age beastly drunk, and girls of the same age decidedly intoxicated.

I consider the estimate of the association as being fairly accurate, and, if the actual figures could be found, I think they would be larger than the estimated amount.

Official of Howard University Says Intent and Theme of President Johnson's Address was Not Reported.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your article in The Post, under date of Monday, June 1, reporting the baccalaureate address of President Mordecai W. Johnson, of Howard University, misrepresents both the substance and the intent of this adress. Your article makes no reference whatsoever to the principal theme of the address. It selects a subisdiary, illustrative incident, made in support of one of the three main divisions of the address, and throws it into the foreground as if it were the principal element of the entire address. Your article also places side by side in one paragraph elements of the address which had no immediately relationship to one another in actual deliverance and which, placed together, give an entirely misleading impression of substance and intent.

I am certain that it is not your deliberate purpose so to misrepresent the news. If your reporter had requested an abstract, we should have been glad to furnish it. We send you an abstract herewith. This abstract will show you the main theme and true perspective of the address. We hope that you will use this as a basis for making such corrections as you may deem necessary, in view of the erroneous impression made by your reporter. A verbatim copy of the address may be had from this office upon your request, if desired. Sincerely yours,

WM. STUART NELSON,
Assistant to the president.

Note—An abstract of the address delivered by President Johnson will be published in Sunday's Post.

Crusaders' Report on Relation of Dry Sentiment to Illiteracy Is Refuted by Writer Who Suggests That They Are "All Wet."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The wet "Crusaders" say: "It is extremely significant that typically dry States show a most discouragingly high percentage of illiteracy, whereas typically wet States are remarkably free from this indication of low mentality." This outgiving is not indicative of great mentality on the part of its authors. The five States showing the highest ratios of illiteracy, according to the World Almanac, are Louisiana, 13.8; Arizona, 11.3; Mississippi, 9.3; Georgia, 8.2; Alabama, 7.7. All of these except Arizona gave their support to the wet Al Smith—46 electoral votes from these illiterate States for the wet candidate; only three for the dry candidate!

Paraphrasing Crusaders' words: It is extremely significant that typically wet districts show a most discouragingly high percentage of nullification, blackmailing, bribery, political corruption, graft, racketeering, commercialized vice, gang rule, and crime of every kind. Largely from such centers do the wets derive their support, led (misled) by certain of the intelligentsia who ought to know better, but appetite and greed outweigh patriotism. Wendell Phillips spoke as a true prophet when he said a generation ago: "The time will come when your cities will strain your institutions as slavery never did." H. H. CULVER.

SPANISH ASSEMBLY TO GATHER JULY 14

Elections Planned June 28; Peseta Sets New Low, But Recovers.

Madrid, June 1 (A.P.).—The cabinet tonight set July 14 as the date for the meeting of the first Republican national assembly in Spain.

The assembly elections will be held on June 28, it was decided, and run-off elections will be held on July 5 in districts where no candidate receives 20 per cent of the total number of votes in the district.

The cabinet also decided that disposition of the titles of the royal family will be postponed until the national assembly can formulate a policy on this question. No titles of nobility will be granted henceforth, however, it was decided "because Spain has entered a new regime of liberty and democracy."

Under the decree of tonight titled persons in Spain are placed virtually on the same status as French nobility. They may use their titles privately, but they must sign their names to official documents.

After establishing a new all-time low of 12.60 to the dollar this morning, the peseta recovered on a sudden upward turn, fluctuating around 11.75. Some bankers tonight predicted the bottom of the depression had been reached.

One of the chief causes of this sudden improvement is believed to have been an announcement of Indalecio Prieto, minister of finance, that the government might veto an increase in bank note circulation beyond 100,000 pesetas.

One of the rumors in banking circles which some believe may have contributed to the rise of the peseta was a report that the government might cancel its recent Russian oil contract and negotiate a new one in the United States.

There were reports tonight that the government was considering negotiating with American banks for a loan or credit, but this was not officially confirmed.

Miss Eustis Is Engaged to D. E. Finley

Wedding to Take Place in Oatlands Estate, Virginia.

MRS. WILLIAM CORCORAN EUSTIS announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Morton Eustis, to Mr. David Edward Finley.

Miss Eustis is the daughter of the late William Corcoran Eustis, of Washington, and a niece of Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, of Westbury, Long Island. She is the granddaughter of George Eustis, member of Congress from Louisiana before the Civil War and the great-granddaughter of W. W. Corcoran, Washington philanthropist, who built and endowed the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

On her mother's side she is the granddaughter of Levi P. Morton, Vice President of the United States under President Harrison and Governor of New York, and of Mrs. Morton, the former Miss Anna Street, of New York.

She was educated at Foxcroft School and is a member of the Junior League and the Colony Club of New York.

Mr. Finley is the son of Mrs. David E. Finley, of York, S. C., and of the late David E. Finley, for many years a member of Congress. He is the grandson of Mrs. William C. Gist. He was educated at the University of South Carolina and the George Washington University Law School and practiced law in Philadelphia before coming to the Treasury, where he holds the position of special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The wedding will take place very shortly at Mrs. Eustis' country place at Oatlands, Va.

Associated with the "official group" for some years, Mr. Finley's engagement to the youthful Miss Eustis will be received with surprise by members of Washington society, where he has been much in demand as a charming bachelor for dinners, dances and various festivities of the social season. Gifted in various lines and a man of intellectual attainments, Mr. Finley has been "indexed" as belonging to a degree to the more serious set about town. His friendship with Secretary Mellon has long been one of intimate trust and of mutual admiration.

Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert and Mrs. William Bailey Lamar were received in audience by Pope Pius yesterday, according to a cablegram received last night by Washington friends.

Herridges in Canada From Honeymoon.

The United States Minister of Canada, Maj. W. D. Herridge, and Mrs. Herridge, who have been abroad since their marriage early in the spring, arrived in Quebec yesterday on the Steamship Empress of Great Britain and will come to Washington on June 20, after a brief stay in Ottawa.

Senator and Mrs. William J. Harris left Washington yesterday by motor for Bryn Mawr, Pa., where they will attend the graduation of their daughter, Miss Julia Wheeler Harris. They will return here for a brief period before going to their home in Georgia.

Representative and Mrs. Robert Bacon will open their gardens at Westbury, Long Island, on Thursday for the benefit of the Wayside Home for Girls at Valley Stream. Two other gardens at Westbury will be open to the public that day, those of Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss and Mrs. D. S. Iglehart.

Mrs. Bacon's rose garden, circular in shape and hidden from the rest of the gardens by a tall lilac hedge, is at its best. There also is a formal garden with quantities of perennials, centered around a circular pool. Sheltered walks lead through the wooded part of the estate to bird sanctuaries and there is a charming iris garden and a rock garden.

Capt. Clark Howell Woodward, U. S. N., sailed from Balboa, Canal Zone, on Sunday for New York, and will come immediately to Washington to take an examination for promotion to be rear admiral. His new rank will become effective July 1, according to his designation by the President, and his assignment will be Light Cruiser Division 3, with the Concord as flagship. Capt. Woodward has been detailed on duty as marine superintendent of the Panama Canal for three years.

Capt. William Ancrum succeeds Capt. Woodward as marine superintendent.

Lieut. Robert Hall Smith, U. S. N., and Mrs. Smith are guests at the Mayflower on their way to Macon, Ga., for a short visit.

Dinner and Swimming Party Today After Rehearsal.

Miss Margaret Mackall entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Chevy Chase Club in honor of Miss Isabel Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Devereux Green, whose marriage to Mr. Richard Chew Zantzinger will take place tomorrow. Miss Mackall will be one of the bridesmaids.

Other guests at the luncheon included the bridal party, Miss Devereux Green, who will be her sister's maid of honor; Miss Louise Zantzinger, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Anne Turner and Miss Elizabeth Fell.

Miss Green and Mr. Zantzinger were entertained at a dinner dance at the Chevy Chase Club on Saturday evening by Miss Devereux Green. Lieut. Lucien Ragonett entertained for the young couple that afternoon and Mrs. William Dent Beall was hostess at a supper party Sunday night.

Following the rehearsal late this afternoon, Miss Louise Zantzinger will entertain at dinner and a swimming party at the Manor Club.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock on Wednesday in Bethlehem Chapel with a reception following at the home of the bride's parents in Georgetown.

Senator James J. Davis is in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to attend a convention of the World War Veterans.

Representative and Mrs. Adam Wyant, of Greensburg, Pa., accompanied by their children, are at Wardman Park Hotel.

Representative and Mrs. Henry W. Watson will close their Washington house on Friday and, accompanied by their daughter, will motor to their estate, Beechwood, in Pennsylvania, where they will remain through the summer.

Col. and Mrs. W. T. Grant, of Fort Riley, Kans., accompanied by their son, Philip, are at Wardman Park Hotel.

Thirtieth Wedding Date Observed by Wests.

Maj. and Mrs. Parker W. West entertained at dinner last night at Soldiers Home in celebration of their thirtieth wedding anniversary.

Among the American mayors who are abroad during the pilgrimage to France is Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, who is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary D. Curley, both of whom made many friends here last winter during a visit of a week. Today Mayor Curley will be received by King Victor Emanuel, and ytesterday, with Miss Curley, was received by Pope Pius.

Mrs. Powell Clayton, of 1906 R street, was a recent visitor at Baden-Baden, the health and pleasure resort in the Black Forest of southwestern Germany, where she witnessed the international dancing exhibitions.

Capt. and Mrs. A. B. Cook have taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, where they will make their home while in Washington.

Lovely Brides Ushered in as June Begins

Dorothy Hayden Married in Bethlehem Chapel to Dr. Coon.

Miss Dorothy Hayden, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Edward Everett Hayden and granddaughter of the late Gen. and Mrs. J. J. Reynolds, and Dr. Gaylord Palmer Coon, a University of Chicago man and specialist in neuropsychiatry and brain surgery, were married at noon yesterday in the Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral. Only close relatives were present, and, after a quiet wedding breakfast at the Cosmos Club, the couple went North, to sail for Europe, where Dr. Coon will study for about a year under a fellowship from Harvard University. They will be at home after June 15 at the Curzon Hotel, London.

Several Washingtonians will go to Baltimore on Saturday to attend the wedding of Miss Silvine von Dorener Shughiff and Mr. Charles Chauncey Savage, jr. Miss Shughiff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shughiff and was named for her grandmother, the Baroness Silvine von Doremer, who was lady in waiting to Empress Elizabeth of Austria.

Going from Washington will be Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Marbury, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Claggett, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sypher and Dr. and Mrs. William Marbury.

The first day of June, the month of brides, ushered in several of importance which are linked with a bond of interest to Washington. In London yesterday in famous St. Margaret's, Westminster, took place the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Grosvenor and Lord Harcourt, son of Viscountess Harcourt, who recently visited in Washington at the British Embassy. The wedding was attended by 1,000 guests.

Viscountess Harcourt, who was in Washington about three weeks ago, was formerly Miss Burns, daughter of the late Mr. Walter Hayes Burns, of New York, and is a lifelong friend of Lady Lindsay, wife of the Ambassador of Great Britain.

Also of interest here was the marriage of Miss Janet Glazebrook, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis H. Glazebrook, of Morristown, N. J., and niece of Dr. and Mrs. Larkin Glazebrook, of Washington. She was married to Mr. George Barker, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barker, of Newark, the ceremony taking place at 4:30 o'clock in Grace Church, Madison, N. J., the Rev. Victor Mori officiating.

Owing to the recent death of Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook, which occurred on the ocean while he was en route home from consular service in Greece, the reception was small. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Glazebrook. Mr. and Mrs. Barker will live in Morristown.

Rear Admiral Clarence S. Kempff has gone to New York to join the U. S. S. Trenton. Mrs. Kempff, who has been in California for two weeks, will arrive home this week.

Mrs. D. I. Bushnell and son, D. I. Bushnell, jr., of Charlottesville, Va., are spending several weeks at the Hay-Adams House, en route to Toronto for the summer. Mr. Bushnell is a scientist connected with the Smithsonian Institution.

White House Garden Party Cards Issued

Function Honoring Disabled Veterans to Take Place June 10.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have sent out cards for a garden party for the disabled veterans on Wednesday afternoon, June 10, at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Hoover returned last night from Hollidaysburg, Pa., where she went to attend the graduation of her niece, Miss Janet Large, from Highland Hall. Mrs. Hoover was accompanied by Judge Thomas J. Baldridge and Mrs. Baldridge. Miss Large, who generally spends her short vacations at the White House, returned to Washington with Mrs. Hoover, and will be a White House guest for a short time. Her home is in California.

Although Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, of Great Britain, presumably will be a guest at the White House during a flying trip to Washington, his arrival had not been chronicled there late yesterday, although the Ambassador was to leave the home of Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow at Englewood, N. J., yesterday, bound for Washington. He has been a guest of the Morrows since his arrival in this country a few days ago. Ambassador Dawes plans to be in Chicago on Friday to confer with committees regarding the Century of Progress Exhibition. Ambassador Hugh Gibson, of Belgium, who has been a White House guest for some time, is still with the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. George Barnett has received a cable from Pau, France, of the birth of a son on May 20 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickey. Mrs. Dickey was formerly Miss Leila Gordon, daughter of Mrs. Barnett. For some time Mr. and Mrs. Dickey have made their home in Pau, where the former is United States consular agent.

Mrs. Barnett arrived home the latter part of the week from Waterbury, Conn., where she attended the wedding on May 29 of Miss Dorothy Chase and Mr. Edward Carmody, both of Waterbury. Mrs. Barnett will go to her home at Wakefield the latter part of the week and later expects to go abroad to visit the Dickeys in France.

Former Senator and Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock have gone to New York, where they are at the Plaza.

Honoring Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Lewis H. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armat gave a tea on Sunday at Greystone. Col. and Mrs. Watkins, who have been in Chattanooga for several years, are en route to Fort du Pont, Del., where Col. Watkins will be in command. Mrs. Watkins will go to New York for the month of June to be with her mother, Mrs. George Bliss. Before her marriage to the colonel a year ago she was Miss Ruth Bliss, one of the Capital's popular girls.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Wetherill, of Seattle, Wash., are guests at the Mayflower, following a trip to New York for the graduation of their daughters, Misses Sidonia and Marjorie Wetherill, from the Spence School.

Mrs. Frederic K. Struve, also of Seattle, made the trip East for the graduation of her nieces.

Blooms Take Home of New For Summer

Director of Bicentennial Commission Too Busy to Leave Capital.

Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, who have decided to remain in Washington all summer, have leased the house of Mr. Harry S. New, one-time Postmaster General, and Mrs. New, in Edgemoor, Md. They will take possession of Hemlock Lodge sometime after the middle of June, when Mr. and Mrs. New will leave for the West, where they will spend the summer at their lodge at Turtle Lake, Mich.

This year will mark the first summer that Mr. and Mrs. Bloom have elected to stay in Washington, either going to their New York home or, more frequently has been the custom, to spend most of the summer season abroad, where they have friends in many of the capitals of Europe.

This year while Representative Bloom is busy with his duties with the bicentennial committee, Mrs. Bloom and Miss Vera Bloom will make friends of their tenants, the birds, which Mr. and Mrs. New have sheltered for some years, as Hemlock Lodge is a bird retreat of splendid proportions.

Invitations have been issued by the director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, for a concert of Latin-American music at the Pan-American Union the evening of June 29.

The artists will be assitsed by the United States Navy Band.

The chief of division of Near Eastern Affairs in the Department of State, Mr. Wallace Murray, has with him as guest this week his mother, Mrs. Maude Murray Miller, of the editorial staff of the Columbus Dispatch, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Virginia Ashburn, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Percy M. Ashburn, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army-Navy Country Club in honor of Miss Catharine Berry, whose marriage to Lieut. Frank Jerdone Coleman, U. S. A., Air Corps, will take place June 8. The company included Miss Nancy Berry, Miss Mary Henry, Miss Barbara Woodruff, Miss Clara Bolling, Miss Virginia Coleman, Miss Catherine Fechet, Miss Smith, Miss Margaret Bouve, Miss Nary Shinn, Miss Frances Stearns, Miss Emiscah Davis, Miss Mary Ruden and Miss Lucille Swift.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Follett" occurs with a great many variations in the earliest English documents. Some of the commonest are "Follet," "Folliot," "Follitt," "Follette," etc. They are often found preceded by the French definite article "le" or the feminine "la." The above names all go back to the old French "fol" (modern French "fou"), meaning "mad" and "foolish." However, the diminutive forms, such as occur in the family names, have taken on the extended meanings of "silly," "playful" and "frolicsome." The Hundred Rolls includes the names of Nicholas Folet, Sampson Folyot and Jordon Folyot. An English document dated 1301 bears the name of Margery Folyet.

"The family names "Emsley" and "Emslie" are merely variations of "Elmsley" and Elmslie." Other common variations are "Emley" and "Embley." These names are all of English origin. They mean "the meadow near the elm-trees" and "the meadow with the elm-trees," and indicate early places of residence. There are towns called "Elmley" and "Emly" in Yorkshire and Worcestershire. A former residence in one of those towns has frequently given rise to the family name. Early instances of these names in English records are Albred de Elmeleie (1273), John de Emeley (1318), and Magot de Emley (1379). The above mentioned names should not be confused with "Elmey" and "Elmy," which have different sources.

The family name "Elmey" and "Elmy" have come down to us from two English sources. When they are derived from the Old English "elmleg" they mean "the island with or near the elm trees." When their source is the Old English "elm-haga" (Middle English "elm-hey") they mean "the elm-tree enclosure." In both cases these names point to original places of residence.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 1:10 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 1:45 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:55 p. m.

The planetary aspects of June 2 are adverse for travel, but fairly good otherwise, especially for workers of a creative type, such as artists, writers, musicians, &c. General business will progress, provided that changes are effected, and the unorthodox is substituted for the orthodox.

Children born on this June 2 will be studious, serious and self-contained; they will love good books and the finer things of life. Very powerful reasoners, they will be somewhat critical in their opinions. They will be devoted to their kith and kin, loyal to friends and kindly to all.

Born on June 2, you are not an intellectual giant, but have shrewd common sense, and a valuable intuitive faculty. Experience should have shown you that in following your "hunches you more often hit the nail on the head than when you act on the advice of others. Your first judgment of people is nearly always correct; your revised judgments invariably wrong. Your disposition is a good one, and though you are more frank than diplomatic, you have a way with you that both charms and convinces.

Your optimistic outlook enables you to belittle difficulties and overcome them. It is also contagious, and those who work with, or under you, always are enthusiastic about the tasks entrusted to them. You are, naturally, a good executive. Your plan is to be sparing of criticism and prodigal of encouragement. Your sense of justice is strongly developed and nothing "gets your goat" quicker than oppression of the weak by the strong. Your sympathies are always with the under dog. Your one outstanding weakness is that, overestimating your capability, you attempt too much. One thing well done is worth more than several things attempted and only half done. Home life appeals to you very strongly, and with you it is a home, not a resting place.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

David makes this adorable sport suit of red washable crepe, and applies unusual little incrustations to the bodice.

New York, June 1.

THE day when the woman of fashion chose her silks because of their luster has gone! Silk, like all else in the world, changes, and in its new state is far indeed from the shiny satins and crepes of not long ago. This, in my opinion, is a change very much for the better—not only does it widen the range of its universal becomingness, but it stresses the importance of the cut and drape of a gown itself rather than its fabric.

Everyone knows, these days, that a dull silk stocking will flatter a beautiful leg, and even improve an ill-shaped one somewhat. The absence of high lights lessens unsightly contours in a subtle and gratifying manner—and what woman, inclined to plumpness, doesn't know what horrible things a satin frock does to her in the way of emphasizing and highlighting her worst points? At any rate, such horrible happenings are a thing of the past, for to be smart as silk must be dull. This applies to crepe as well as satins, and to thin crepes and chiffons as well. And even more than silks are affected—the vast field of rayon fabrics has become less glistening, which is well, because this was the chief objection to it in the past. The leading manufacturers of celanese fabrics tell us, furthermore, that these materials will stay dull, no matter how many times they are washed.

It has been said that a "return to nature," in so far as its colorful beauties are concerned, is indicated by this dulling of fabrics. Certain it is that our supple velvets have become as beautiful as the down on a butterfly's wing, and now this new fashion in silken fabrics will make our clothes more than ever like the petals of our loveliest flowers!

Do you just love a bathing suit as nearly minus as possible when you're in the water, but justifiably desire to protect as much of your white skin as possible when you loll on the beach? Are you one of those whose swim is a short and vigorous one, but who has to dash up and get into regular clothes to keep from getting chilled on the beach? Are you—but, goodness, I'm not going to ask any more questions, 'cause I've sort of made a study of beach conditions, 'n' have designed a beach ensemble that disposes of every problem marvelously! And, of course, smartly! So do get that stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for this week's leaflet telling you all about the way to make this ensemble. It's easy—'n,' sh-h-h-h, ever so economical!

Of course, when we're interested in anything in the sports suit line—and we all do get interested sooner or later—we think of David, for no one else has the flair and genius of this particular couturier in costuming the smart woman for her sports. The informal little suit of red crepe that I have sketched for you today is charming, isn't it? 'N' it's practical, too, with its wide pleated skirt its loose, plain jacket with an incrusted border of white crepe, and the yoke incrusted right to the bodice! And best of all, it's washable.

• • • •

And doesn't this make you think, my darlings, that you'd be clever, too, to include a washable sport suit in your wardrobe this summer?

• • • •

Lovely! An evening bag in the style of the seventeenth century, all in pale green and brown on a dark and pale green foundation. And, something decidedly new in bag language—and practical, I'll say—a handle of uncut emeralds which can be unfastened and worn as a necklace! Oh, yes, the two cost something like a small fortune, but don't they look it?

You shouldn't overlook the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I have a number of tulip bulbs which I removed from my garden last fall. Up to now I have been unable to do any gardening. Now I have more time. Can you tell me what to do with these bulbs, which have been in the house in a bag since fall. If I am to plant them, how close must I set them and how deep? When should I set out gladiolus bulbs, also dahlias?

MRS. E. J. K.

I doubt if your tulip bulbs will amount to much after being out of the ground so long. Another thing, you did not tell me when they last bloomed. It is too late to plant them now, and I doubt if they will have strength enough to set buds a year from now. Better discard them and purchase new bulbs in the fall. In heavy soil, plant tulips 3 to 4 inches deep and set the bulbs 5 to 6 inches apart. Gladiolus bulbs should be planted about the first of May, putting in the smallest bulbs first and reserving the larger bulbs for later planting. Set larger bulbs 6 inches deep and smaller ones from 3 to 4 inches. Space them 4 inches apart. Dahlia tubers should be set out any time from May 15 until July 4. These are movable dates, depending on the location of your garden and on the weather.

Please tell me how to preserve a hydrangea given to us at Easter.

JESSIE T. R.

Plant your hydrangea in a lawn tub and set the container in a sunny place in your garden, unless your garden is by the sea, in which case you can plant the hydrangea in your border. By the sea hydrangeas are hardy, while inland they are not reliably so. When in a tub they can be lifted into the house in winter. They will winter well in a light basement, where they will only require water twice a week. In the warm whether they require water once, and in extremely hot weather twice, a day. Do not prune your plant. Merely remove the dead leaves. Plant in rich soil.

Please tell me what to do with five Easter lilies, the leaves of which are all dead. I watered them until they died. ANNE H. T.

Remove dead tops and shake off the soil from about the roots. Plant the bulbs in some sunny place in your garden and water them every day. If you give them a rich soil they will likely bloom in August. These bulbs will not be hardy in your locality, so bring them into the house before the frost. Keep them with your gladiolus blubs and plant them in the border next year.

Please tell me the name of a rapid-growing vine that I can set out at this time. RACHAEL T. H.

Polygonum is one of the fastest growing vines for general use. It is a little late to expect much growth this season and yet the vine may surprise you, as when planted earlier it is supposed to make 30 feet the first season. The polygonum has no insect enemies, is free from disease and perfectly hardy. It will not cling to a wall, but will ramble over anything that will support it.

Please suggest a remedy for rust, which even this early is attacking my hardy phloxes. MRS. FRANK T. P.

Better spray your plants with Bordeaux mixture. You will have to make at least three applications about ten days apart.

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Man's Opinion.

WE asked a man to give his opinion of why some girls are left sitting at home seven nights a week while others could have seven dates for every night in the week. We asked him if "goodness" or the lack of it had anything to do with the matter. We showed him the letter we had received from Janet, who hails from New Hampshire, and is convinced that virtue is not even its own meager reward. The man warmed right up to his subject—as we knew he would—that being why we picked him in the first place.

"It is about time girls quit being such poor sports," said the Bachelor. "It is time they began to realize that there is a reason for everything under the sun—including the wallflower. And it is nothing less than wicked for them to insinuate things against the girls who are taken around. Take for instance Beatrice B——, you know how popular she is. Can you imagine any man daring to start anything with Bee? Boy! Yet, can you imagine any one in our crowd having a party and forgetting Bee? If you account for her popularity with us by saying she is "fast," how account for her popularity with you and every other woman in the crowd? And Bee is not the only one. How about Adelaide? Isn't she the greatest thing in human form since Adam went to work? And try to tell me anything about Adelaide. All I want to know about any party is whether Adelaide will be there and the rest of the crowd does not matter. Yet where is there a more feminine, fastidious, female than Adel? She would be called fussy if she were any one but her own incomparable self.

"You say you want to hear about some of the ones I passed up and not just the ones I want to rave over for the next 200 years? Very well, Wise One, there is, for instance, that model X that you, may heaven forgive you, wished on me one never-to-be-forgotten New Year's Eve! Yes, you wanted to cheer her up. But what about me? I had to look at her, drag her around, hack comments out of her. And what were those comments? "How foolish" and "how silly." Now there can be no doubt that was a good woman. But she was as unpleasant a mortal as I ever met.

"At a New Year's Eve party she seemed to consider us all fools because there was no heavy thinking going on. When I, trying to make the best of a bad bargain, twirled her about in a faint hope of getting the motor started—what was my reward? 'Please'—in a voice of ice and vinegar. I never asked you where you dug her up or why. I have never until this moment even reproached you for your perfidy in decoying me such an evening. But I wish to state that no friendship should ever be strained to such extreme! Meaning your girl friend was a terrible example of the gal that gets left at home.

"As to taking girls out. Men go out because they want to enjoy themselves. They pick some girl who at some past time has enlivened an evening when under no compulsion to do so. Some girl who likes people and gets fun out of meeting them. She always is a girl who is well-groomed. No man escorts a freak anywhere. If she is pretty, that's fine, but she usually is only attractive, happy, healthy and full of life. And a girl need not be lively to be 'full of life. Some say very little. But she must really get a kick out of being alive and show it. And she will not have to prove that she is 'good,' either.

"My first requirement in woman? Immaculacy in every respect. I will take moral immaculacy for granted when physical immaculacy is evident. And that, Madam, is all I have to say on the subject."

And we would say that it was a plenty!

DeMolay Starts Ground School.

Kansas City, June 1 (U.P.).—An aviation ground school has been organized here by the local chapter of the order of DeMolay. The class, sponsored by officers of the Air Reserve Corps, who will furnish the instructors, will study the various phases of construction and operation of planes. There will not be any flying by the students, which now number 35.

Garfield Nurse Class Gets Diplomas Tonight

Twenty-nine graduates of the Garfield Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will receive diplomas at commencement exercises at 8 o'clock tonight at the hospital. The class of 1931 comprises one Washington girl, nine from Virginia, six from Maryland, the remainder from other States.

Diplomas will be conferred by Dr. Francis J. Eisenman, superintendent of the hospital, and G. Thomas Dunlop will address the graduates. Members of the class will be presented by Dr. F. X. McGovern, representing the medical staff. Prayer and benediction will be by the Rev. Charles T. Warner. Priscilla Marion Story will be the sole Washington girl to receive a diploma.

Holy Cross Academy Alumnae Will Dine

The annual banquet of the Alumnae Association of Holy Cross Academy, will be held at 7 p. m. tomorrow at the academy. Mrs. Martin McNamara, general chairman, is assisted by Mrs. Philip Brown, Mrs. George Thomaides, Mrs. Helen Seibold, Miss Mary Louise Darr, Miss Margaret Quinn and Miss Margaret Pearson. Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary of the Federation of Federal Employes, will be toast master.

Among the guests will be Miss Elizabeth Dolan, governor of the District chapter of the international federation of Catholic alumnae, Miss Mary O'Donoghue, and the sister superior of Holy Cross Academy.

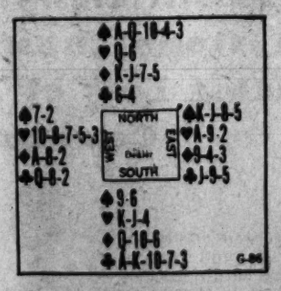
WORK ON BRIDGE

A CHOICE OF SUITS.



With the above hand at Contract Bridge, South would bid one Club, West would pass, North would bid one Spade, East would pass; South would bid two No Trumps, West would pass, and North would bid three No Trumps.

However, the hand was played at Auction Bridge, and at that game the bidding was: South one Club, North one Spade, and South one No Trump; West and East always passing.

In the play West opened with his fourth best Heart. East won with the Ace and returned the suit. South (having the Jack left) won dummy's Queen with the King and led the Nine of Spades, dummy playing the Trey. East won with the Jack and led the third Heart which South's Jack captured. South then led a second Spade and North finessed the Ten.

Declarer had the hard luck of finding the King as well as the Jack on the right of the finesse, but when East won the second Spade his Hearts were exhausted and he had to choose between leading a Club—a suit bid by South—up to dummy's weakness, or leading a Diamond—a suit not bid by South—up to dummy's strength. If West has the Ace of Diamonds he will surely get in with it, and as South might have bid one Club on the King-Queen of Clubs and the Ace-Queen of Diamonds (in which case a Diamond lead by East would give Declarer four Diamonds, three Spades and two Hearts). East led a Club which South won with the Ace and then led a Diamond. West cashed his Ace of Diamonds and two established Hearts, and so the adversaries took two Spades, three Hearts and one Diamond, saving game. Was game in the hand?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer, winning the second round of Hearts and having the suit still stopped, should have led a Diamond immediately so as to get that Ace out of the way if West held it. With the Ace of Diamonds played and the Heart suit cleared, the Spade finesses could take place just as above described; but with the two remaining Hearts both in the West hand, East would be unable to put West in because both of East's Club leads would be won by South, and Declarer would make game.

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

Jane finds Agnes' apartment in Greenwich Village and is greeted by Agnes' husband, Jimmy Trent, an engaging young newspaper man of Bohemian tastes and habits, who is frankly attracted to her and whom she instinctively likes. Agnes and Jimmy have a child, little Agnes, and while Jimmy is out of a job, Agnes is working in a department store to earn money for their expenses. Jimmy has been offered a temporary job as music critic on a Chicago newspaper.

JIMMY—CHAPTER IV.

"COME on," said Agnes.

Jimmy rose from the sofa as they entered the living room.

"Where are we going?" he asked. "Tony's?"

"I thought so," said Agnes. Then, turning to Jane, "Or do you hate Italian food?"

The night was so hot that Jane thought that she would hate food of any nationality.

"I love it," she said falsely.

They all walked down the corridor and the uncarpeted stairs into the odor of cooking cabbage and out into the comparative freshness of the sultry street.

"Tony's is just around the corner," said Agnes. She slipped one arm through Jane's and the other through Jimmy's. Little Agnes skipped on ahead of them. She seemed to know the way to Tony's quite as well as her parents did. Jane threw a glance over Agnes' clever, contented face to Jimmy's faun-like countenance. It was clever, too, but it wasn't very contented, Jane thought. In the gray September twilight Jimmy looked older than he had in the softer light of the chintz-hung living room. Suddenly he met her eyes and smiled.

Jimmy Irritating, But Has Charm.

"This is swell!" he said cheerfully. "But an embarrassment of riches! Taking two beautiful women out to dinner at Tony's the same night!" And suddenly he began softly, ridiculously, to sing.

"How happy could I be with either,
Were t'other dear charmer away!"

A wrinkled old woman, pulling a little wagon full of kindling, turned to smile toothlessly up at him at the sound of his artless tenor. He grinned at her pleasantly and resumed his song. Jimmy might be irritating, thought Jane, and, of course, he was a worthless husband, but he had charm.

The waiter's hand, which touched Jane's accidentally as he placed her demi-tasse before her, felt damp and warmly clammy. His collar was wilted, and great drops of perspiration beaded his swarthy brow. Throughout the meal Jane had seen him surreptitiously mopping it with the wrinkled napkins that hung over his arm. "Tony's" was hot and very crowded. Vaguely conscious of having eaten too much garlic in the salad and too much cheese in the spaghetti, and of having drunk rather more Chianti than was perhaps quite wise on such a warm evening, Jane was half-listening to Jimmy, who was conversing most intelligently on modern American music, and half reflecting that little Agnes, who had eaten quite as much garlic and cheese as she had herself, should have been in bed hours ago and would certainly be sick when once she was. The child was half asleep in her chair.

Every One Seems to Be Arguing.

Agnes was arguing with Jimmy, almost intelligently, on modern American music, and every one else within hearing at the little candlelit tables seemed to be arguing also. Across the room four dark-eyed, oily-headed, hairy-wristed young men were certainly arguing very vociferously in Italian on some unknown subject, and, just beyond them, a middle-aged woman with short gray hair and a green smock was arguing in undertones with her adolescent escort as to whether or no he should order another apricot brandy, and at the round table in the middle of the room an uproarious group of young men and women were shouting their arguments on the relative merits of Matisse and Picasso, two painters, apparently, of whom, until that moment, Jane had never even heard.

In spite of the heat and the garlic and the cheese and the arguments, and, possibly, Jane thought, partly because of the Chianti, she had enjoyed the evening very much indeed. It was fun to be with Agnes again and fun, after two months at Gull Rocks, to be chattering carelessly with contemporaries whose intellectual slant on life was the same as her own. Moreover, Jane, in the course of the evening, had become comfortingly reassured about Jimmy. Why, she almost understood, already, why Agnes had married him. He was certainly amusing and seemed also to be intelligent, and he was very much sweeter with Agnes and with his little daughter than Jane had expected him to be after his cavalier references to them in his initial advances toward her. He did not seem at all like Agnes' husband, of course. He did not seem like any one's husband. More like some young relative—a brother or a cousin or even a nephew—whose attitude toward his family was marked by humorous detachment, affectionate and appreciative, but distinctly irresponsible.

Mocking, Flattering Attention.

His attitude toward Jane had been marked by a mocking, but flattering attention and a rapidly increasing sense of intimacy. There was something in his manner, not at all unpleasant, that seemed subtly to suggest that he was always remembering that Jane was a woman and never allowing her to forget that he was a man. Jane could not think of any other American husband who was just like him. Bert Lancaster, of course, was always woman-conscious, but in a slimy, satyrish sort of way that bore no resemblance to Jimmy's cool recognition of a world in which you felt he thanked God that there were two sexes. There was a friendly matter-of-factness about Jimmy's frank admiration that made Jane feel very sure that they would get on well together. She was glad that he was coming to Chicago.

He was coming, almost immediately, to take up a friend's job as musical critic on the Daily News, while that friend spent the winter in Munich. He was bringing his fiddle and the unfinished concerto and he expected to get a great deal of work done in some boarding house bedroom, with no woman around to distract him. Agnes hoped that he would. She hoped to do some writing herself, in the evenings after little Agnes was in bed. Not the novel, of course—she would never finish that now; but she had plots for a couple of short stories that she thought she could sell and—Jane would laugh at her, she knew—an idea for a play about newspaper life that had never been done before.

Jane did not laugh at her. She had no high hopes for Jimmy's concerto, but she longed to see Agnes take up writing again. She thought that Jimmy would like Chicago. She would introduce him to all Agnes' old friends and Stephen would put him up at the clubs——

"He hadn't better do that," Jimmy had interrupted lightly. "At the only club I ever belonged to I was kicked out for nonpayment of dues. I shouldn't advise a conservative banker to back me at another——"

Jane had laughed at his nonsense, wondering, however, just how much Stephen would have laughed had he been present that evening. Jimmy did not seem just Stephen's kind. Something told her that Jimmy would not take the importance of bank mergers very seriously, and that to Stephen a man without visible means of support, who had spent ten years of his life writing a concerto for the violin, would seem rather one of the broader jokes—unless he seemed just an object of charity, in which case Stephen would be very kind and considerate and helpful, of course, but possibly not entirely understanding.

"Agnes," said Jane suddenly, in the midst of the argument on modern American music, "you ought to put that child to bed."

"I know I ought," said Agnes, rising regretfully from her chair, "but it's such fun to be with you again, Jane, and Jimmy's always so pyrotechnic in the presence of a third person! When I get arguing with him I never want to stop!"

Would Write a Good Bad Play.

"Not only," said Jimmy mockingly, "in the presence of a third person. Night after night, Jane, while Agnes is arguing with me, the child falls asleep on the hearth rug." He, too, was rising regretfully to his feet. He picked up his drowsy daughter.

"Can I get a taxi down here?" asked Jane.

"Jimmy'll cruise out and find one," said Agnes.

He left the restaurant with the child on his shoulder. Agnes sank back into her chair. Suddenly she leaned forward across the candlelight.

"If I could write a play, Jane," she said earnestly, "a good bad play, such as managers have confidence in, it might run for a season. If it did I'd make $50,000."

"Oh, Agnes!" said Jane reproachfully. "Don't talk like that! You never used to. Why do you want to write a bad play—just for a manager? Write a good one if it never gets on. I bet you could. You have lots of ideas—you always had——"

Must Have Money to Be Happy.

"Exactly," said Agnes, briefly. "I've always had more ideas than cash." Her face clouded a little under Jane's incredulous stare, then lighted suddenly with conviction. "If you think there's an idea in my head that I wouldn't sacrifice for a dollar, you're very much mistaken. Jane—you have to have money to be happy. If I could make $50,000, I'd put every cent of it in trust for little Agnes. It would clothe and educate her and take care of her as long as she lived. I'd never have to worry about the future again. I wouldn't feel anxious and driven any longer and I'd stop nagging Jimmy the way I have nagged him ever since Agnes was born, and if I stopped nagging him, we'd have time to talk together the way we used to—to be together the way we used to—Jimmy's adorable when he isn't nagged—I adore him when I'm nagging him. But I just can't help it. I'm growing cross and nervous and old before my time and——"

"Taxi waiting!" said Jimmy, at Jane's elbow. He looked a little curiously, Jane thought, at Agnes' face. But he asked no questions.

Terribly Sorry for Them Both.

Agnes rose from the table without speaking. Her hands were trembling a little as she picked up her daughter's hat from the back of her chair. Jane followed her out onto the sidewalk in silence. She was almost trembling herself from the contagion of Agnes' excitement. Or was it from the disconcerting glimpse she had had of Agnes' private life through the rent that Agnes had torn in the curtain that hides the private lives of all married couples from the eyes of the world. She was acutely conscious of the intimacy of the moment that had just passed between them. And terribly sorry for Agnes. And for Jimmy. And terribly thankful, in the dark of the uptown bound taxi, for a husband like Stephen, who was a banker and caught the 8 o'clock train every morning and didn't write concertos and lie in bed and goad her into nagging him until——

Jane was so preoccupied with thoughts of husbands and marriage, and what life did to girls who were once young and full of promise and sat on Bryn Mawr window-seats confidently assuming that the world was their oyster, that she almost forgot to feel queer as she passed through the lobby of the Belmont Hotel alone at midnight. But not quite.

SEASON POT-ROAST WITH SUGAR AS WELL AS SALT

Combined Flavors of Sugar and Salt Blend Deliciously with Meat

These are days when there are always bargains on the meat counter. A lady who bought a chuck-roast for 45 cents—made a tasteful discovery by cooking it as follows:

Sear and brown both sides of the meat in an iron or pot-roast kettle containing two or three tablespoonfuls of fat. Then sprinkle top surface of the meat with sugar as well as salt. Add about a cupful of water, then cover the kettle and cook for an hour. Turn the meat and sprinkle newly exposed side with sugar and salt. Continue cooking until the meat is tender, adding just enough water to keep the meat from burning. Serve with the gravy which remains in the kettle, thickened with flour if you wish. You'll be surprised at the unusual, full-bodied flavor in the meat as well as in the gravy.

Cheap cuts of lamb respond to this seasoning if you prefer that meat to beef. Vegetables also are more tasteful when a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is added. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

DOING THE IMPOSSIBLE

LOTS of things are supposed to be impossible. For example, being in two places at the same time, or making the old dollar go as far as it used to. But there is a very simple way to accomplish both of these.

The answer is standing right on your desk. It's your telephone. It will carry you hundreds of miles, yet you won't have to move from your chair. You can be in two places at the same time in just a matter of seconds. And never were out-of-town rates cheaper than today, nor transmission as clear, nor connections as fast.

To enable you to reach anyone, anywhere, at any time, quickly, clearly, and at a reasonable cost, is the constant aim of this company and the other associate companies of the Bell System.

Make station-to-station calls and you can talk about 25 miles for 25 cents, 50 miles for 45 cents, 100 miles for 60 cents. The greater the distance the less the cost per mile.

AMERICAN U. CLASS OF 105 GRADUATED

Dr. Cooper, Speaker, Urges New Set of Ideals for Educated Citizens.

Commissioner of Education William John Cooper held up a new set of ideals for "educated Americans" in his commencement address yesterday to 105 graduates of American University.

Expressing concern over the ability of college men and women to master their pleasures, as evidenced in the reported offenses of ne'er-do-well sons of the wealthy, Dr. Cooper said educated Americans should adapt themselves to American civilization as they find it, with a view to aiding all the people; set high standards of conduct, and manifest a Christian integrity toward "the corrupting influences of a pagan pleasure cult."

Diplomas were presented in the gymnasium-auditorium by Dr. Lucius C. Clark, chancellor of the university. Candidates were presented by Dr. George B. Woods, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and by Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, dean of the Graduate School and the School of the Political Sciences.

$5,000 Gift Is Announced.

Chancellor Clark received a gift of a $5,000 fund from the Women's Guild of the university, as a scholarship fund for young women, announced by Mrs. W. S. Dewhirst, treasurer of the guild. He announced the gift of funds from Chester D. Pugsley, of Peekskill, N. Y., for an Institute on Far Eastern Affairs to be held at American University next year, the receipt of publications of the League of Nations, from Thomas W. Lamont, and the gift to the university of the library of Fred M. Tryon, presented by his family.

Honors for the year in the college of liberal arts were announced by Dean Woods as follows:

James Elmer Swan, of East Greenwich, R. I., was awarded the college honor prize of $50 for the student who during four years made "the largest contribution to the college." His name will be engraved on the large silver Kinsman Cup in the college trophy case.

Four Debaters Are Honored.

Four debaters of American University were elected members at large of Delta Sigma Rho, the national honor society of public speaking—James Caiola, James Elmer Swan, Kathryn Heath and Ethelwyn Hine.

Faculty prizes for scholarship during the year for the whole school went to Robert Marcus and Mary Jeannette Brundage.

Class honors in the senior class for the second semester went to Dorothea Belz, James Caiola, Kathryn Heath, Nola Livingston, Jane Lytle and James Elmer Swan.

Fellowships awarded to graduates of last year went to Winston Manning, for a fellowship in chemistry at Brown University; to Otis Fellows, who has been in France this past year, a fellowship in romance languages at Brown University, and to Edwin Kelbaugh, a fellowship in economics at the University of Virginia.

Winner in poetry contest, Alfredda Scobey, of St. Eustis, Fla. Winner of Vergil essay contest, Audrey Belt.

Graduation honors went to Dorothea Belz, summa cum laude; Nola Livingston and Mary Cline, cum laude.

Graduates Are Listed.

The list of graduates is as follows:

Bachelor of arts—Clair Steven Altland, Samuel Carlton Ayers, Jesse Elmer Benson, Harriet Bittle, Calvin Francis Brown, James Raymond Caiola, Chester Allen Carter, Orrel Belle Claflin, Edgar Warren Collson, Lucille Sparks Cook, Norman Stanford Cramer, Roger Wilson Craven, Justine Crosser, Blake Branson Esper, Barbara Evans, Thomas J. Miss Bash Coming Here From Florida.

Miss Virginia Ballance Bash, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Louis H. Bash, of Washington, will come from Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., on Sunday and will spend a part of the summer with her parents. She is a sophomore at Rollins, a member of the Cosmopolitan Club of the college and of the Girls' Archery Team and of Alpha Phi Fraternity. Miss Bash will visit Canada this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart announce the birth of a daughter on Sunday at Garfield Hospital. Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart was formerly Miss Anstiss De Vean, daughter of the late Frederic C. De Vean, of New York.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles C. Drake were hosts at dinner last evening at the Shoreham Hotel, the company remaining later for the supper dance.

The guests included Maj. and Mrs. Roland Walsh, who will soon leave for the major's new Philadelphia post; Maj. and Mrs. W. R. White and Lieut. Don E. Lowry.

The senior class of Arlington Hall Seminary entertained their ushers at a luncheon yesterday at the Shoreham. Miss Eleanor Haynes, instructor at Arlington Hall, was the sponsor for the luncheon, and she and Miss Lois Ponnell acted as chaperons.

Those present at the luncheon were Miss Nancy Pepe, Miss Frances Stowe, Miss Jeannette Ward, Miss Ruth Marx, Miss Katherine Gibson, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Miss Margery Pitney, Miss Phyllis McMullen, Miss Jane Weber, Miss Helen Torbett, Miss Frances Gifford, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Miss Barbara Kirby, Miss Tai Ono, Miss Anne Callan, Miss Evelyn Hick, Miss Carolyn Miller and Miss Virginia Money.

District Order to Buy Property Is Reversed

A District Supreme Court order requiring the District commissioners to go through with an agreement to purchase a site in the Municipal Center area, was reversed by the Court of Appeals.

The appellate court held that the title to the land was not free, since there was a 7-year lease on it. The suit was dismissed so that the District could reopen negotiations, and make the holder of the lease, a party to the transaction. The land was owned by Michael J. Kane, and was to have brought him $62,500 in cash. Search of the title revealed the lease, which had a provision that it could be terminated if the Government took over the site. The court held, as partly affecting its attitude, that the District was not the Government.

Man Robbed in Theater.

Norman A. Deveny, of the Chastleton Hotel, reported to police yesterday that a billfold containing $36 was picked from his pocket Sunday night while in a downtown theater.

School Gardens Tour Scheduled for Today

Annual inspection of Washington school gardens, set for yesterday, was postponed until today because of inclement weather, it was announced by Miss Esther Scott, supervisor.

The gardens will be open from 9 o'clock until 3 o'clock. At many of the schools visitors will be received by committees of pupils and teachers. The movement to expand the school garden system is expected to be given impetus as a result of the tour.

'Family Car' Suit Lost By Man Injured by Auto

The "family car" doctrine, in so far as it applies to the liability of the owner, came in for another decision by the Court of Appeals yesterday.

In this case, the car had been given over to the son of the owner, who had in turn allowed a friend to drive it. The friend struck Ralph S. Turoff and severely injured him, it was alleged. Turoff brought suit against Mrs. Agnes Burch, owner of the car, and a jury in a lower court ruled against him.

RUPTURED?

Free Demonstration

at the Harrington Hotel, on Thurs. and Fri., June 4-5, by Dr. and Mrs. G. W. ELLIOTT. Ladies Receive Private Attention of Mrs. Elliott. From 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

It costs you absolutely nothing to receive a free ten-day test supply of the herbal muscle-tonic "Plapao," and to examine and have demonstrated to you privately—a scientific self-treatment, which so many others attest under oath rid them of their rupture and saved them from the knife.

FREE—PLAPAO—FREE

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are patentably different from the truss, being mechanico-chemico applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle tonic called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. Fabric soft as velvet—easy to apply——inexpensive. During 24 years thousands have successfully treated themselves at home—without hindrance from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome; Grand Prix, Paris and Honorable Mention, San Francisco. Process of recovery is natural, so no subsequent use for any kind of support.

BE SURE TO CALL!

Do not fail to call on Dr. Elliott, as you may not have another opportunity for some time.

Remember the time and place.

Manhattan Saves You Money a New Way . . . by Saving Your Clothes! Washed in Soft Net Bags They Look Fresher and Last Longer. Three Day Delivery, too, at No Extra Cost!

Home in 3 days! No wonder she smiles. Wouldn't you, if your clothes looked so nice : : : at no extra cost? Read below why she and thousands of other Washington women use Manhattan.

Do Your Clothes Get this Extra Care?

Net Bag Washing. Your clothes are placed in soft Net Bags before being washed. These Bags keep out all wear. No rubbing or scrubbing. As a result your clothes last far longer. This extra care at no extra cost saves you money.

Pure Palm Oil Soap. Everyone knows that palm oil soap revives fabric—refreshes fibers—gives longer life to clothes. That's why Manhattan uses it on everything. Its gentle suds swish through the Net Bags, rinsing every trace of dirt out of your clothes.

Soft, Filtered Water. Country people catch rain-soft water in barrels to use for washing clothes. They know that soft water makes clothes whiter and fresher. Manhattan uses soft water, purified by filters, on every piece laundered.

Three Day Delivery. This unusually fast service saves you money. You don't need as many clothes because we don't keep them long enough to miss. Why tie your money up in extra shirts, dresses undergarments, etc.? Why wait four or five days for clean clothes?

Many Money-Saving Services. Worked out to solve your needs . . : one to fit every purse. Just call Decatur 1120. A Manhattan representative will come to see you and help you fit the proper service to your home. No more worry. No more trouble. We save you both, while we're saving you money. And we're waiting to prove it—right now!

the only pad "like" Kotex is genuine Kotex

THE instant you hear the expression "just like Kotex," be on your guard!

These words cannot be sincerely spoken, except by one who is ignorant of the high hygienic standards of Kotex.

Unique, patented machinery makes Kotex from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital-like cleanliness. Materials used are superior, made especially for Kotex.

You don't have to take chances. Why should you? Kotex is available everywhere — the world's standard—the pad that is used by so many of the very finest hospitals.

Kotex is splendidly comfortable. And it may be worn with perfect safety on either side. Soft, filmy layers make adjustment easy. Kotex is treated to deodorize. It is easily and completely disposable. And thus offers every convenience as well as safety.

LAUNDRY EXPERT ADVISES CAREFUL "NET BAG" WASHING

Saves You Money By Saving Your Clothes

Present-day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System of washing.

Manhattan Laundry adopted the Net Bag for washing clothes six years ago. Clothes, they agreed, could be washed just as clean in net bags and would wear longer if rubbing and scrubbing were eliminated.

Manhattan's famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material and placed in individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subjected to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrate each garment and loosen every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every trace of dirt from the clothes and leaving the fabrics refreshed and clean. They are then dried, starched where necessary and ironed by the most modern methods.

That clothes wear longer and look better when washed in Net Bags has been proven by test after test. For instance, two shirts, exactly the same, were washed fifty times each, one in a net bag, the other by hand. At the end of the test the net-bag washed shirt showed absolutely no signs of wear, while the hand-washed shirt had become a sad combination of rough edges, torn seams and broken buttons. Other tests on all sorts of wearing apparel are being carried on regularly and in every case show the Net Bag System to be far superior in preserving the original sheen of the cloth. At Manhattan the Nets Get the Wear and the Clothes Get the Wash.

Customer Pleased By Long Wear Praises Net Bag Washing

In a recent letter to the Manhattan Laundry Mrs. E. R. D. writes:

". . . . But the one actual fact that pleases me most is that the clothes do not show as much wear as they did when I had my laundry done at home. . . . It is indeed a pleasure to recommend you. . . ."

This letter is typical of the many received by Manhattan from satisfied customers throughout the District of Columbia and Virginia.

Such letters bear out Manhattan's claim that "Net Bag Laundering Saves You Money by Saving You Clothes."

Everything Delivered in Three Days

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. You know when you'll get your clothes when Manhattan has them. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.

Many Money-Saving Services Each Receives Net Bag Care

Manhattan offers the housewife a wide selection of economical services—from Complete Finished Family to individual piece work. There is a service to fit every need and purse, and every service receives Net Bag Care.

Damp Wash is the most inexpensive service of all. It costs only 5 cents a pound, and as small as an 80-cent bundle can be sent. Clothes are returned damp, ready for the line. THRIF-T is another inexpensive service. Flat pieces are all ironed, but the wearing apparel is returned damp. Only 8 cents a pound with a minimum bundle of $1.

In the Rough Dry all the flat pieces are ironed, wearing apparel comes back ready to be ironed at home. Minimum bundle, 75 cents, only 10 cents a pound. In Economy another popular service, everything is machine ironed, including flat work, and returned ready for use. Men's shirts, 10 cents each additional. Few other articles may need retouching. Minimum, $1.25, only 12 cents a pound.

All Ironed Ready to Use. This covers all classes of Family Finished Laundry Service. These Ready-to-Wear services are reasonably priced according to the degree of niceties required. Our telephone operators will be glad to give any information regarding them.

There are many other Manhattan services to serve the housewife's every need. Shirts and Collars, Table and Bed Linens, Blankets, Rugs, Curtains and Dry Cleaning and Dyeing. All are economical. And the Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

A PLEASANT time is being had by all over Al Jolson's seemingly serious ambition to play the role of "De Lawd" in a film version of "The Green Pastures," the Pulitzer prize play of 1930.

Mr. Jolson, now playing the Bayes Theater in New York in "Wonder Bar," the cabaret novelty which had its premiere at the Belasco Theater in this city, proposes to acquire the movie rights to the famous play now being enacted by an all-colored cast at the Mansfield Theater, New York, out of his own private funds. It is not unusual, you will agree, for a comedian to aspire to the more serious forms of dramatic expression, although in this instance the boys are having rather more fun than usual at Mr. Jolson's expense because his stage work has always been of such an utterly irresponsible nature.

Personally, I have no doubt that Jolson could play "De Lawd" and acquit himself with fine credit. In a considerable period of close observation of his work—dating back to the days when he was an end with Dockstader's Minstrels, if you must know—I have seen more than one demonstration of just how successfully the pseudo-native son is able to submerge the comic in his nature under a distinguished ability to plumb the more profound emotions. But no matter how competent he might prove as a legitimately moving actor, I am afraid that that vast American public which recognizes him only as a blackface buffoon could not be made to take him seriously.

In this connection, confident as I am of Jolson's ability, I can not shake off the persistent memory of ZaSu Pitts' futile quest of recognition as a tragic star. No matter how legitimate Miss Pitts may be in her miming, she is always the comedienne in the view of the unthinking public—as witness her experience in "All Quiet on the Western Front," when Beryl Mercer had to make the mother sequences all over again because the public insisted upon laughing at Miss Pitts.

I'm not sure they wouldn't do the same at Al Jolson.

In a recent interview—the first, incidentally, that he has given for publication in quite some time—Samuel L. Rothafel, "Roxy," expressed the view of William A. Johnston, of the Motion Picture Herald, that it will not be long now until the picture houses of the country will be presenting motion picture entertainment exclusively, and vaudeville will experience a renaissance on its own account in its own theaters, just as it used to be presented in the old days when Keith's was B. F.'s instead of RKO's.

This is no new idea on the part either of Mr. Rothafel or of this column. As far back as when Sam still spelled his last name with a "p," the balanced picture program was his pet. He even assembled one once for general distribution throughout the country—and what a flop it was everywhere except on Broadway!

However, that is beside the point. If "Roxy" thinks picture shows should be picture shows, look out for what will happen at Radio City!

And that reminds me. What has become of the much-stressed announcement that hereafter — or, rather, thereafter—the Fox Theater in this city and the Roxy Theater in New York were to present all Fox feature productions day and date—meaning simultaneously? The Roxy at the moment is presenting "Women of All Nations," starring Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe and Greta Nissen, while we are viewing Elissa Landi and Lewis S. Stone in "Always Goodbye" and next week will witness what I suspect will be the world premiere of the Fox dialogue version of "Daddy Long-Legs," starring Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, considerably in advance of the New York showing.

How come? Not that I am kicking, mind you!

The tragedy of old age has overtaken Farina!

At 11, the colored lad who for nine years has been the comedy screen's symbol of frustration, finds himself high and dry in the discard, because in such a few short years he has completely outgrown the attributes that made him one of the most stupendous figures ever developed by the cinema.

Although compelled to masquerade as a girl with tightly twisted pigtails through most of his triumphant career, Farina, in reality, always was Master Alan Clay Hoskins, jr., born on August 9, 1920. He first appeared on the screen when at the age of six months he was carried through a scene in an "Our Gang" comedy, on the Hal Roach lot. He has been there ever since.

While Farina seems in a fair way to be succeeded by little Stymie, there is still the hope of a musical career to look forward to. Master Hoskins is said to show promise as a violinist.

Lew Leslie's "Rhapsody in Black" has been chalked up in the hit column at the Sam H. Harris Theater in New York. Its second week grossed $2,000 more than its first; its third $2,000 more than the second. So Mr. Leslie discerning that he has a hit on his hands, has had a batch of tickets printed up and they are now on sale eight weeks in advance, with an all summer run anticipated. That is the way I have felt about it from the start.

It was the plan to raise roses and peonies out in the back yard—rose garden to you—but we have switched to ducks!

Disabled Draftees Get Job Preference

Court Orders Civil Service to Favor Man Freed Before Army's Call.

World War draftees who were discharged from the service for disability before being finally assigned to military service are entitled to preference in civil service positions, the Court of Appeals held yesterday.

Howard L. Crawley, it was shown, had taken an examination and had made a passing grade. His claim for preference was disallowed and he brought suit. The Secretary of War and the Civil Service Commission have been directed to give Mr. Crawley the preference that is due former soldiers.

Mr. Crawley was drafted, then sent to a hospital because of disability. He was honorably discharged for disability after having spent all his time in hospitals, either as a patient or an employe.

Ice Cream Venders Barred.

Park Police announced yesterday that ice cream venders will be barred from selling their wares near the baseball diamonds in Potomac Park. The order followed complaints that venders were annoying patrons of the recreation grounds.

MAC SMITH'S 70 LEADS BRITISH OPEN QUALIFIERS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS column's knowledge of the unhappy history of the prize fight industry in Washington and its environs caused the hoisting of an eyebrow and the poking of tongue in cheek at the announcement that the Mid City Boxing Club, Inc., would hold forth midway between Washington and Baltimore, at Laurel, for the edification of the paying public this summer.

The announcement sent this column on the trail of the enterprising man who would be so bold as to start another fight club for Washington patronage, having in mind the ill-starred ventures at Berwyn, at Kenilworth, at Fort Myer, Arlington Beach and Washington Barracks where the county commissioners tied the reformers and military authorities for first place in total evictions.

I envisioned as the promoter another of the gentlemen from Baltimore's prize fight colony, who at different times have descended on our fair city with noble intentions of creating anew the fight-consciousness of our citizens; with a cigar stuck in his face, a coterie of plug-uglies at his back and the air of a "big shot" manifest. I found instead Angy Gerrin, sleek, suave Frenchman, by profession a connoisseur of art, with galleries in Washington an Paris, a better than speaking acquaintance with the Four Hundred and an inquenchable love for boxing.

Likes Gymnasium

Angy Gerrin likes to mix with the boys who don't know a Rembrandt from a Gayety poster, who thinks a Boulle cabinet of Louie the XIV is a royal cow pen. He told me that at the end of a long day with dowagers, art and antique hunters and the plain nouveau riche, he likes to rush out to his gymnasium on the rear of 1731 K street, round up one or the boys and go six fast rounds. He said he feels refreshed at the finish.

Unbeknown to the prize fight public of Washington, Guerrin has conducted a private gymnasium here since his arrival from France in 1922, and the place has been open to any fighter who felt the will to train there, without the charge of a sou. He just likes to be on the scene when the resin dust is thickest. The thudding of leather against trained flesh is music to his ears.

Under his management he has one fighter, Arthur De Beve, former lightweight champion of France, whom GeGrrin is grooming for a title shot in this country. His association with De Beve dates back to 1918, when they met while both were sailors in the French navy en route to Archangel on the cruiser Amiral-Aube, when Gerrin was a lad of 18.

Son of Sculptor

Son of a Versailles sculptor, Gerrin was born amid the art colony of his native heath, but his early training was directed along electrical engineering lines on the advice of his father, who pointed out the economic disadvantages of art with the admonition that he could expect to be broke until he was 50.

Came the war, and Gerrin enlisted as a youth of 17 in the French navy. But with the German fleet safely bottled up the need for men in the trenches was greater and Gerrin soon found himself in the Marne sector, where he spent eighteen months between a wound from the revolver of a German officer, that sent him to the hospital for two months, and another wound from flying shrapnel that has left a livid scar across his forehead.

He was called back to the Navy in August, 1918, and was assigned to the cruiser Du Petit Thouars to convey 24 cargo ships on the latter half of the journey from New York to Brest and the armada was making for port when a fleet of six German submarines appeards at dusk, torpedoed the cruiser and seven other ships to the bottom and scattered the remainder of the fleet.

Takes to Life Raft

Only three of the cruiser's lifeboats survived the hurried dumping into the sea and as these were devoted to the wounded, Gerrin found himself with a dozen others on a life raft, knee deep in seawater. With the cruiser dispatched to the bottom and danger no longer near, the flagship of the submarine fleet drew alongside the raft and in perfect French the German commander informed the survivors that American destroyers at Brest had already received rescue messages and that help would be near in 24 hours. He tossed aboard a bag of food and water, took an oar and two sailors' caps from the raft to certify his conquest and was begone.

Drifted 33 Hours

Gerrin and his companions drifted 33 hours before the rescue by the American destroyers Porter and Fanny. Back in France he received a 40-day furlough in recognition of his experience, but the next month found him en route to Archangel to fight the Bolsheviks.

En route he met De Beve, a companion spirit, as it were, for De Beve was a prize fighter by trade, and both bemoaned the lack of a boxing team on the ship with the added reservation that it was no ship that didn't have a boxing team. But at Archangel the Bolsheviks wouldn't give fight, retreating inland rapidly, and the war ended while the French were in possession of the port.

Gerrin didn't go back to electrical college. The art and antique trade in Paris was soon to boom and he found his profession there. He came to Washington in 1922, brought De Beve three years later and has been campaigning him in fights in Philadelphia and New York with varying success. But his yen is to be a matchmaker and promoter, not a manager. He wants to match heavyweights at the Midcity Boxing Club, Inc. "The crowd likes to hear 'em fall to the floor," he said.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

UNLESS the Nationals turn a complete flip-flop, they should score quite a number of victories during the next sixteen days, when they tackle the Western clubs of the circuit in sets of four games each. Indeed, it will be necessary for them to do so if they want to keep in the pennant race, for their rivals—the Mackmen and Yankees—also will be facing the same foes, although, of course, in different order.

Bucky Harris and his Detroit Tigers will open the West's first invasion of the season here this afternoon. His team was able to down the Nats but once in the Ford City last month, and it shows up here handicapped because of injuries to several of his regulars and in the doldrums of a slump which has netted but two victories in the last fifteen starts.

Whitehill, Nat Enigma, to Hurl for Tigers

Harris still holds one ace in his hand, as far as the Washington club is concerned, in Lefty Earl Whitehill, and he is expected to use this flinger today, having saved him for the Nats ever since last Wednesday. Whitehill was the only one of several "jinxes" which the Johnsons were unable to chase on the last trip West, which saw the downfall of Walter Stewart and George Blaeholder, of the Browns, and Wesley Ferrell and Walter Miller, of the Indians.

Whitehill did not have his usual stuff at the start of his game against the Johnsons but managed to hold his own, then got better as he went along, and finally won out. The Nats are determined to "get" him today and the job of opposing Earl on the hill will be assigned to another southpaw, young Carl Fischer.

On the East's last month's invasion of the other sector, the Western teams appeared to be woefully weak and their combined efforts against the East's "Big Three" netted the almost unbelievable record of but four victories in 31 games. The Nationals' showing was exceptional—nine wins and only two losses—until one takes a slant at the leading Mackmen's string of eleven straight, with the Yankees coming in just back of the Capital Cityans with seven triumphs in nine starts.

Nats Must Travel Fast Even To Hold Own

So, while the dope based on the Nats' showing in the West promises much during the balance of this home stay against the same clubs, the Mackmen and Yankees should do equally well on their "past performances." This indicates that Johnson's charges must win consistently even to hold their own with their Eastern rivals, with little hope held out for any considerable gaining unless either the A.'s or Yanks should slump.

Pitcher Ad Liska's 1931 fate as a National rests in the hands of the club physician, President Clark Griffith announced last night. The subway ball hurler, who reported with a sore salary wing at Biloxi this spring, has failed to benefit sufficiently to make him of any use to the team from treatments received from so-called miracle men at both Youngstown, Ohio, and Dwight, Nebr., and faces retirement.

"I've turned Liska over to our club physician," said Griffith last night, "in the hope that he can find what is wrong with the pitcher's shoulder and can correct it. If he fails, I don't know exactly what steps I will take. I know that Liska, when right, can win in the majors, but he is of no use to us in his present condition."

Liska in Hands of Club Physician

The club physician stated last night that he has not yet had time to make the required examinations and probable X-rays needed and probably will reach no decision as to Liska's chances of returning to active duty for several days.

Should these examinations hold out no hope for return to form in the near future, Griffith would like to option Liska to some minor league club, but admits that he probably could not get any one to take a chance on him. So indications are that, if no cure is made, Liska will be sent home and his name placed on the "voluntary retired" list until and if he recovers sufficiently to attempt a comeback.

With Liska out of consideration for the time being at least and with Red Marberry not expected to be ready for perhaps a week because of a leg injury, Manager Walter Johnson finds himself with only six pitchers available, and indications are that Walter Tauscher, at Chattanooga on 24-hour option, will be recalled.

At present the Nats must depend upon "Sad Sam" Jones, Al Crowder and Irving Hadley, right-handers—and only the first named has been hurling winning ball—and on Lloyd Brown, Carl Fischer and Bobby Burke, southpaws, with Burke not yet having proved his right to be called a starter. Fortunately, no double-headers will be played on the present home stand, which is the only reason the Nat leader has a chance of getting by with his depleted mound staff.

DEAN STOPS GIANTS.

Columbus, Ohio, June 1 (A.P.).—The Columbus American Association Club defeated the New York Giants, 3-2, in an exhibition game here today. Paul Dean, 17-year-old brother of "Dizzy" Dean, had the best of a pitching duel with Chaplin. Two base hits by Earl Smith and Marvin Gudat provided the winning run in the eighth inning.

CARDS BEAT REDS IN 12TH, 6 TO 5

Adams' Single Scores Wilson to Win Only Game.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 1 (A.P.).—Adams' single scored Wilson to break a tie and give St. Louis a 6-to-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the twelfth inning today in the only game in the majors.

The Reds scored two runs to even the count in the ninth and then played three more innings in an effort to take the sixth and final game of the series from St. Louis.

Hendrick hit safely his first five times at bat in today's contest and was walked his last time up.

Watkins, starring for the Cardinals in batting, was responsible for two scores, one of which he made by stealing home. Each side used three pitchers.

McKimmie Golf Pro At White Flint Club

R. Cliff McKimmie, former Middle Atlantic open champion and professional at the Army and Navy Club, has been engaged as the pro of the White Flint Country Club.

The White Flint Club is now operating on a semipublic basis, it was announced yesterday by Walter McEachern, manager of the Rockville pike layout. The new order will last until July 1. Locker and shower service will start Saturday.

Hurt Army Trackman Reported Improving

Morganstown, W. Va., June 1 (A.P.).—Improvement was reported tonight in the condition of James Glattly, 23, of Hot Springs, S. Dak., a member of the track team of the United States Military Academy, injured in the Army-West Virginia University track and field meet here Saturday.

Although the butt of a javelin which had struck the ground entered his mouth when he ran into it, Glattly continued in the competition and won second place in the javelin throw. He later complained of pains and was removed to a hospital.

At the hospital tonight, it was said that Glattly had concussion of the brain, but was resting comfortably and probably would be able to leave for home by the end of the week.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 1.—Frank (Jeff) Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Williams, 220 W. Howell avenue, Del Ray, has been awarded the medal for the best athlete at Hargrave Military Academy in Chatham, Va.

The presentation was made to the Alexandria boy at the exercises held at Hargrave on Saturday. Williams won five letters in sports during this past campaign. He was on the track, football, baseball, basket ball and tennis teams.

Williams formerly starred in athletics for George Mason and Alexandria high schools. He is a big, strapping youngster, standing over 6 feet and weighing around 175 pounds. Williams graduated from Hargrave this year. He may enter Georgetown or Richmond U. this fall.

Other Alexandria boys at Hargrave, who starred in sports, were George Beach, captain of the football team; Parke Bell and Russ Sutton. Robert Arnold also was a member of the varsity football squad.

The Alexandria High School athletes will be presented their varsity monograms next Wednesday at the assembly exercises, which will be held at 12 o'clock. Jack Tulloch, sports editor of the Gazette, will make the presentation.

New Garden Loses Swank From Continued Presence Of Prize Fight Characters

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Old Madison Square Garden has been gone so long that it is not easy even to remember the smells of the place, but the new plant is beginning to mature now and is developing a character and a sort of bouquet which will endear it to the talent in years to come. The entrance is assuming that grimy appearance common to all sport arenas, however pretentious, and the lobby on prize fight nights is a hive of gossip, intrigue and enterprise, some of it legitimate, as the customers pass through on their way to the executions.

It is an odd thing that the stockholders of this first of the big prize-fight firms find themselves maintaining a town pump around which their rivals gather to do business in competition with the Garden.

Sink Into Expensive Leather Chairs

They drop around in the afternoons to sink into the Garden firm's expensive leather chairs, the promoters and matchmakers of other prize-fight clubs in and out of New York, and proprietors of fighters, framing their little deals and conspiracies to thwart the big store of some objective or hold up the Garden for an extra margin of profit, yet using the place for their headquarters because it is warm in winter and the rooms are spacious and the management easy-going.

Of late, on prize fight nights, ropes have been rigged in the big main lobby to provide more or less clear lanes of access to the arena for the paying customers and also to segregate the sinister element of managers, old fighters and so forth who wish to spend a social hour or so rocking on their heels and blowing smoke at their smudgy ceiling while the preliminary boys are spanking one another with soggy leather down in the center of the arena.

Detectives Swagger Through Crowd

Detectives swagger through the crowd, mysterious, conspicuous and apparently all-knowing, but it is strange to me that, although the faces and reputations of all the hoodlums are known to every delicatessen clerk in that neighborhood, when there is a killing such as the shooting of Frank Marlowe or the Rothstein coup, the detectives invariably are baffled. Being so close to the boys and knowing their rackets and grudges and all so well, I should think they would merely have to telephone the guilty parties and say: "Meet me in the Garden lobby on Friday night; I want to arrest you for that murder."

But I see people to like there, too. Mr. Jimmy Bronson, who used to run a bar in Joplin and saw Big Joe Cox chase Jess Willard over the top rope and up the aisle to the dressing room in a fight down there in 1913, is likely to be around. Mr. Bronson has been having reverses lately. He had a middleweight from Belgium by the name of Rene De Vos, who was a very promising bit of property for a couple of years, but Mickey Walker wouldn't give Mr. Bronson any business for the championship, and after a while De Vos deteriorated. One night Mr. Bronson got him a job fighting an unknown boy for rent money, and Rene was so far gone

151 Net Best as Rain Mars Departmental League Play.

Lynch Has Low Gross With 168; Balance Competes Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

A HEAVY rain storm seriously interfered yesterday with the opening of the fifth annual golf tournament of the Inter-Departmental Golf League on the course of the Indian Spring club. Nearly 100 contestants, one-half of the entire field, were assigned to play 36 holes yesterday. Only 64 were willing to brave the dismal weather conditions, but of this number only two failed to turn in their cards. All the rest were the victims of high scores and an involuntary drenching.

When the tournament concludes this afternoon the team of four players turning in the lowest gross score for 36 holes will be awarded the trophy presented by Secretary Mellon. There will also be trophies for teams in Classes B and C, while prizes will be given to individual players in each class, with low gross and low net scores.

Young Low Net Leader

At the close of play yesterday, the now net leader was W. H. Young, of the Department of Agriculture, with a card of 193—42—151, closely followed by J. J. Lynch, of the Treasury Department, and a member of the Argyle Club, with 168—16—152. These two players had a substantial lead over the rest of the field, their nearest competitors being C. C. Diller, Bureau of Standards, 202—46—156, and J. E. Voll, Agriculture, 180—24—156.

Although a total of over 125 rounds were played, less than 20 were recorded under 100. The heavy condition of the course and the downpour of rain were handicaps not easily overcome. Lynch, with his total of 82—86—168, led the field with low gross. T. M. Belshe, War, and one of the Indian Spring Club members, scored 91—91—182. His high score was unexpected, as he was the medalist last year, and in a tournament on his home course he had no trouble in negotiating a 78.

Voll Gains Place In Front Rank

Voll's 180, 12 strokes behind the leader, places him in the front rank, while the 183 of E. J. Cogan, Interior, and the 184 of H. S. Pope, General Accounting, were most creditable under the adverse conditions of play.

The contestants who have the good fortune to compete today will apparently have the advantage of good weather and as the list includes many good players it is hardly likely that yesterday's cards will be decisive. While it can not be predicted what team will win the Mellon Trophy a large number of yesterday's players

Motor Race Officials Disallow 2 Protests

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1 (A.P.).—The standing of the leaders in the 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will remain unchanged the contest board of the American Automobile Association announced late today, in disallowing protests filed by Harry Hartz, Los Angeles, and by Louis Meyer, Southgate, Calif.

The action of the contest board was announced after a thorough investigation and rechecking of the records of the timers.

Hartz had contended Fred Frame, also of Los Angeles, dryer of a car entered by Hartz, should have been declared winner instead of Louis Schneider, Indianapolis.

Meyer, who finished in Myron Stevens' racer, claimed he had gained third place instead of Ralph Hepburn, of Los Angeles.

One protest was allowed. It was that of Phil (Red) Shafer, Des Moines, Iowa, against the race officials' action in flagging him to the pits for conference after a complaint that he passed a competitor in violation of rules when the drivers were slowed down during a rain that interrupted the race. This gave Shafer twelfth place, and shoved into thirteenth position Dave Evans, of Evansville, Ind., driver of the Cummins oil-burning racer.

MAC DONALD SMITH.

Manero Second With 72 in Rain, Wind at Carnoustie.

Other U. S. Pros Are Near Top; Armour May Not Qualify.

By FRANK H. KING.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 1 (A.P.).—Macdonald Smith, an American citizen, but a native of these blustery North Sea shores, plodded through wind and rain over the Panmure Club course today to score a 70 and take the lead in the first qualifying round of the British open golf championship.

Smith is a Carnoustie boy, who left his home here in a successful hunt for golf fame in the United States. Smith got away to a flying start on the quest of his first major golf title in 20 years of championship play.

Close on his heels came Tony Manero, New Jersey professional, with a 72. Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, both former United States open champions, had 75s; Joe Turnesa and Horton Smith took 76s, Joe Kirkwood and Willie Hunter had 77s, and Tommy Armour, also a former United States open king, scored a 79.

Armour's 79 On Border Line

These scores assured the American leaders of a place in the list of 100 who will qualify at the end of 36 holes of play for the tournament proper if they do as well tomorrow. Armour's 79 was just on the border line, however, and calls for better play in the last eighteen to win a place. It was believed a 36-hole total of 157 or 158 would do.

The two Smiths, Manero, Hunter and Armour played over the Panmure course, at Barry, a par 72, like old Carnoustie, but considered by the golfers an easier test. Manero believes it is three strokes easier.

On that basis the 72 of R. A. Whitcombe, over old Carnoustie would be considered the day's best score, and those of Farrell and Sarazen, who, with Turnesa and Kirkwood, played their rounds there, as good as was Manero's 72 at Panmure. The two groups change courses tomorrow to finish out their play.

Whitcombe's 72 was a record at old Carnoustie as it is now laid out. Arthur Havers, who won the open at Troom in 1928, the only Briton to win in the last ten years, was close on Whitcomb's heels with a 73.

Postponement of Play Loomed

The day for the start of championship play dawned dark and dreary with rain pelting down relentlessly. Postponement seemed inevitable, but the greenkeepers found spots where they could cut new hols and reported it was possible to circumnavigate the course without getting drowned.

The storm solved the problem of the crowds for only about a thousand hardy Highlanders braved the day, most of them draped like fishermen in long slickers and carrying huge umbrellas.

Toward midafternoon the rain let up, but the wind increased.

It was under such circumstances as these that Smith got his 70, which, had a 5-foot putt dropped on the last hole, would have been a record 69.

For two months Smith has been practicing over the Panmure and Carnoustie courses and this practice appears to have served him well.

Lakes and Pools Cover Course

The fairways and greens in reality were but a long chain of lakes and pools, strung together by narrow strips of dripping grass. Some of the greens were big pools, framed by narrow fringes of smooth-putting surface. On these the flag was placed and the privilege given of lifting and placing balls on the green for a water-free line to the cup. Sometimes it was impossible to find such a path and it was necessary to take a mashie and pitch across a lake to the hole.

The surprising thing was that the bulk of the scores were as good as they were. Only a few of the real headliners were over 80, but among these was Charles Whitcombe, British Ryder Cup captain and one of the tight little island's best players. He had an 82 and must scramble tomorrow to get in the tournament. John De Forest, the rich young baron's son from London, who was runner-up in the amateur championship at Westward Ho, scored a 77 to put himself within easy scoring distance of a qualifying place.

Following are the leading scores in today's first round, with higher scores made by some of the United States players:

MacDonald Smith, New York, 70; Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., 72; R. A. Whitcombe, Parkstone, 72; Archie Compston, Coombe Hill, 72; A. G. Havers, Sandy Lodge, 73; W. H. Davies, Wallasey, 73; Mark Seymour, unattached, 73.

Henry Cotton, Langley Park, 74; W. A. McMinn, Ravensworth, 74; T. Genta, Buenos Aires, 74; J. Donaldson, Cuddington, 74; J. O. McCartney, Ormeau, 74; Johnny Farrell, New York, 75; Gene Sarazen, New York, 75; Percy Allis, Berlin, 75.

George Duncan, unattached, 75; Syd Easterbrook, Knowle, 75; Bert Hodson, Chigwell, 75; S. Fairweather, Malone, 75; T. Dobson, East Renfrewshire, 75; Horton Smith, New York, 76; Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 76.

PLAYGROUND MEET DUE TODAY

600 Boys Compete in Finals on Central High Track.

MORE than 600 schoolboy athletes, point scorers in the various sectional meets under the direction of the Municipal Playground Department, will compete in the city championships at the Central High Stadium today starting at 2:0 o'clock. The meet, one of the largest ever staged here, will be conducted by Richard S. Tennyson, acting supervisor of playgrounds.

With virtually every graded school in the District represented, some of the keenest competition in playground track history is anticipated. Individual performances in the qualifying meets indicate that several long-standing records may fall before today's performers.

Monroe Among Favorites

Due to the number of eligible boys and the quality of their previous performances, it is expected that one of the following schools will carry off the coveted first place: Monroe, E. V. Brown, Langdon, Park View, Wheatly, Lennox, Peabody.

School competition in playground meets has produced many star athletes. Calvin Milans, who recently broke a meet record with a high jump of 6 feet 4 inches for Dartmouth, started his jumping career by winning in the 85-pound class.

A. A. U. Cancels Meet When Only 15 Enter

Owing to lack of interest as shown by the fact that only fifteen entries have been received, the Distric tof Columbia amateur track meet, scheduled Saturday at College Park, has been cancelled, it was stated last night by J. Kip Edwards, chairman of the committee in charge.

Mr. Edwards said a program of sixteen events had been planned and that the committee deemed unwise an attempt to conduct such a program with less than 100 contestants.

Next year, asserted the committee chairman, an earlier date will be set for the meet, probably in the first week of May, at which time all of the local college and high school track teams might find it possible to compete.

This year's date following the close of the academic season.

D. C. Man Wins $500 Prize In Irish Sweepstakes Draw

THERE was no bloom last night in the home of John Riley, 1843 Fenwick street northeast, and 40 years a worker at the Washington Terminal's "Round House," for on the dining room table lay a cablegram from Dublin, Irish Free State, informing him that he was one of nearly 150 Americans who had won consolidation prizes of $500 each in the drawing for the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes on the English Derby to be run at Epsom Downs tomorrow.

The little old man looked back on 40 years of polishing and mending of "iron horses" last night to reflect that at last he had gained quick and toothsome reward from association with horses of another color and consistency. The horse that Mr. Riley drew in the Sweepstakes will not run, having been scratched, but the prize results from the fact that the steed was nominated.

"Some fella just came along selling those tickets," Mr. Riley told The Post last night, "and something told me to buy one. I don't know why, because I never do take chances on anything like these things. Anyhow, I bought it. Cost me $2.50. The only thing worries me is the telegram says 'You win 100 pounds.' What's a pound, anyway?

"What am I going to do with it? I'm going to plunk it right down on this house I'm buying. At least I think I am. You know, this thing's got me all up in the air."

Mr. Riley went to work for the Washington Terminal Co. in the days when smokestacks were more mountainous affairs than they are now. He and Mrs. Riley moved out Fenwick street way about two years ago. He catches the 7:30 o'clock work train each morning at the Second street siding of the railroad and leaves the "Round House" at 4 o'clock. In his late fifties, he has no intention of retiring.

The eyes of the world again turn to Dublin today as drawing of the names in the distribution of the fabulous awards continues. Nineteen hundred more $500 winners will be named today, and tomorrow there will be the drawing for smaller prizes

JOHNNY EVERS, JR. NAMED G. U. BASEBALL CAPTAIN

Hoyas Select Three Other Leaders

Dooly Mitchell, D. C. Boy, Will Head Tennis Team.

J. Kelly, Fisher Lead on Track; Golf, Respectively.

JOHNNY EVERS, JR., 21, son of the famous old Chicago Cubs second baseman, was named captain of the 1932 Georgetown University baseball team yesterday when Hilltop lettermen met to elect leaders in four sports for next year.

Thus for the first time young Evers crashed through to the position of prominence in Georgetown baseball that Hilltop observers had been expecting of him for two years. During his first two years at the Hilltop, Evers failed to get the breaks, as the boys say.

Fails at Second, Earns Outfield Berth

When he came to Georgetown, heralded as a promising second baseman who might some day reach the heights of stardom as did his daddy, young Johnny immediately was blocked from climbing the ladder in competition due to the freshman rule, barring first year students from intercollegiate play.

Last year, as a sophomore, Johnny again was held back due to the fact that the position he sought already was occupied by a veteran, Johnny Scalzi. But withal, Evers found his way into the line-up frequently, substituting at first base, second base and right field, and Hilltop fans became confident that he would ultimately scale the heights.

With Scalzi still blocking his path to the second base assignment this season, Johnny concentrated his efforts on winning an outfield position and succeeded. He played in every one of Georgetown's seventeen games, either in right or left field.

Like his father, Evers has demonstrated marked fielding ability, but as yet has been unable to wield his bat very effectively. His hitting average for the 1931 season was about .250.

Evers, junior, is taller than his father but is slight of build, as is his more illustrious sire. He resembles his parent also with sharp facial lines. His home is in Albany, N. Y., where Evers, sr., runs a sporting goods store.

Mitchell, D. C. Boy, Leads Netmen

Dooly Mitchell, 23, of this city, was elected captain of the tennis team; Jim Kelly, 23, of Philadelphia, was named leader of the track team, and Louis A. Fisher, 21, of Detroit, was made captain of the golf team.

Mitchell for two years has been one of Georgetown's most dependable tennis players, occupying the No. 2 position in the line-up, behind Gregory Mangin, national star, whom he succeeds as captain. Mitchell holds the Maryland State indoor singles championship and will be battling for the City of Washington crown this afternoon in a match with Tom Mangan.

The election of Jim Kelly to head the track team was foreshadowed by a succession of fine performances throughout the winter and spring seasons. Only last Saturday, Kelly ran the greatest half-mile of his career when he finished in 1 minutes 55 seconds to gain third place in the intercollegiate championships at Philadelphia. Track critics believe Kelly will be outstanding in the college ranks next year.

Fisher's achievements have kept him in the forefront of golf at Georgetown for the past two years. He gained several notable victories this year in the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

GARDEN IS LOSING SWANK APPEARANCE

from discouragement and waiting and pining for a chance that he forgot to duck as the other boy knocked him flat.

Profession Entertained By Mr. Diddle

They had a big society fight for De Vos a couple of years ago, with all the dress-suit trade on hand and Young Tony Biddle lending his name and prestige to the affair as honorary manager of the Belgian boy. Afterward Mr. Biddle, being very democratic, invited the very cauliflower of the profession to a midnight supper with him at a high-class and exclusive joint, and when the help counted the silverware at 4 in the morning there wasn't enough silver left to stir a cup of weak tea. Mr. Biddle hasn't entertained the profession socially since then, realizing, I suppose, that east is east and west is west and that no lasting good comes of having them meet.

Mr. Bronson is the only man I know who recalls a great ten-round fighter of fifteen years ago named the Mexican Kid, who used to fight a colored bout in St. Louis and refresh himself with a crock of beer in his corner in every intermission between rounds. They had a color line in St. Louis and as this boy apparently had elected to regard himself as a colored man he never enjoyed any professional relations with the white lightweights. But he massacred all the Negro fighters who took a chance with him and when he couldn't get a match in a main event he was democratic enough to step into a battle royal and knock out four frightened, assorted opponents for beer money.

Mr. Bronson says the Mexican Kid was one of the greatest natural fighters he ever saw and that with good management and training he might have been a champion. That confirms my opinion and makes Mr. Bronson all the more likeable.

Dumb Dan Morgan Usually Present

Mr. Dumb Dan'l Morgan is likely to be around. Mr. Morgan used to have Jack Britton and Knockout Brown, the lightweight, and plenty of money. As to whether he has plenty of funds nowadays I do not know, but he succeeded to the title of the most amusing free hand reconteur in the profession when Leo P. Flynn regrettably up and died quite a spell ago.

Somehow, those old parties who used to pick up champions on street corners, when their old fighters retired on them, seem unable to get along again. Mr. Morgan was one of the organizers of the great welcome home demonstration for Gene Tunney when Merton of the cauliflowers returned from his honeymoon. He led a large delegation of the boys, white and colored, down to the pier under a wide, canvas banner reading: "Welcome to Our Old Pal." This irritated Mr. Tunney.

James J. Johnston, Of Course

James J. Johnston will be there, of course, leaning on the rope of the betting ring, his derby canted over one squinty eye, jabbering endlessly but refreshingly, unless Mr. Walker, the mayor, comes by with his cops, bound for his seat, in which case Mr. Johnston will come to attention and stand for one minute of silent veneration. Mr. Johnston has been one of the most deserving Democrats in town under the current regime and the U. S. Secret Service is on him constantly as the principal suspect in the great royalist plot to make Mr. Walker king.

But I was describing the Garden lobby on fight nights.

High-colored lithographs of old champions in gilt frames, faded photographs of old promoters and gamblers wearing big, fur mustaches and rowboat derbies, smoke babble, gritty tile floor, brass vessels with dead cigarettes strewn around them, garish females and some more gentle ones, the smell of hot dogs, and shoved into a remote corner, the Tunney-Muldoon tombstone, sardonic trophy of the heavyweight championship of the world, the capital prize of the racket.

WASHINGTON NET FINAL TODAY

Mitchell, Mangan to Meet for Jock McLean Cup.

THE Jock McLean Trophy, emblematic of men's singles championship of Washington, will be awarded today, for a year's keeping, either to Dooly Mitchell or Tom Mangan, who clash this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Reservoir Courts at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets. Survivors of a field of more than 100, Mitchell and Mangan commenced their long-awaited final match Sunday, only to be rained out with Mitchell leading, 3 to 1, and duece.

In keeping with the rules of the game play today will go on from where rain interfered with the match. It is Mangan's service. His delivery was broken and held once in the four games played Sunday.

Mitchell's superior aggressiveness, displayed in its embryo Sunday, is expected to carry him to the championship today, possibly in straight sets over the player who twice has held the District championship.

Only Bona Fide Residents Eligible for Event

The City of Washington championship, the official designation of today's final match, differs from the District championship in that it is closed to bona fide residents of Washington. The District championship, which starts July 4, is an open tournament, with no geographical restrictions placed upon the entrants.

The Jock McLean Trophy has been in competition three years. In 1929 it was won by Tom Mangan, who yielded it last year to Bob Considine in a four-set finals match. The winner of today's match will receive, besides the trophy, the special golden anniversary U. S. L. T. A. medal. These medals also will be presented to Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frederico Sendel, winners of the mixed-doubles championship over Corinne Frazier and Maj. J. H. Hills, 1929 title holders, by the score of 7—5, 6—1.

Ft. Washington Bouts Carded for Tonight

Matchmaker Frankie Mann's opening fight show at Fort Washington, Md., will be held tonight ith no changes in the program as announced yesterday before rain caused a postponement. The first bout will begin at 8 o'clock.

The feature clash, calling for 10 rounds or less, brings together two hard-punching Baltimoreans, Jack Portney and K. O. Phil Raymond. Both are lightweights and southpaws.

In the semifinal, also scheduled to go 10 rounds, Reds Barry, local light heavyweight, will meet Joe Finazzo, of Baltimore. The main preliminary, another 10-rounder, will present Sailor McKenna, local lightweight, against Clarence Sloat, of Baltimore. Frank Vance, Georgetown University law student, will battle Soldier Burke in a 6-round affair while Soldier Marchyn will trade wallops with Soldier Clark in the opener of 4 rounds.

7 D. C. Golf Women Seek Maryland Title

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 1.—At least 75 of the best women golfers in Maryland and the District of Columbia will be playing their way toward the Maryland State championship this week at the Rolling Road Golf Club.

The pairings includet ee-off times for 70, starting at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow. That number is expected to be increased, however, as post entries will be accepted.

District of Columbia clubs affiliated with the Maryland State Golf Association will be represented in the title competition for the first time, and the presence of seven Washington players h s served to create additional interest. The Capital players are viewed as a menace to Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow's aspirations for a sixth State crown.

Qualifying pairings of Washingtonians follow:

10:15—Mrs. H. A. Knox (Congressional) and Mrs. Paul Darrington (Rogers Forge).
10:20—Mrs. J. M. Haynes (Columbia) and Mrs. Jerome Bloman (Suburban).
10:25—Miss Virginia Williams (Congressional) and Miss Ann Cochran (Elkridge).
10:30—Mrs. Frank R. Keefer (Chevy Chase) and Mrs. Lester Levy (Suburban).
10:35—Mrs. Betty Meckley (Indian Spring) and Mrs. M. L. Bell (Rogers Forge).
10:40—Mrs. J. T. Powell (Manor) and Mrs. Robert Bonnell (Green Spring).

Norris Cup at Central Awarded to St. John

Bob St. John, captain of the track team, and its ablest middle-distance runner, was named last night as the first winner of the George W. Norris Trophy, emblematic of the title "most representative athlete" at Central High School. The trophy will be presented to St. John this morning at assembly by Dr. Smith, principal of the school.

"For leadership in school spirit, good scholarship and character," is the salutation which goes with the award. Mr. Norris, himself a former bulwark of the Central track team, and now president of the C Club, sought the advice and counsel of the principal and Bill Foley, south of before deciding on the name of Bob St. John.

St. John has confined his high school athletic career to track. Under the tutelage of Foley he has consistently increased his spot in the local scholastic track world. This year he made a name for himself as a miler of note by winning the Maryland interscholastic mile and showing in the Catholic University, interhigh and C Club miles. He ran third to Reichman and Achstetter, of Tech, in the interhigh 880.

Maryland Nine Host To W. & L. Saturday

Maryland University's Baseball Team, having defeated both Navy and Army within the past ten days, has but two games, both with Washington and Lee, remaining on its schedule. The first of the clashes with the Generals will be held Saturday in Byrd Stadium as part of the Maryland commencement day celebration. The second is scheduled for a week from today at Lexington, that game occuping a place on the Generals' graduation day program.

With the wins over the service teams, Maryland now sports a record of eleven victories and six defeats for the season. Additional triumphs at the expense of Washington and Lee are greatly desired by Coach Shipley's team. Already the Generals have bowed twice to the Old Liners in Southern Conference contests. The forthcoming pair will not be counted in the conference standings.

Hunter and Diffenbough Win M. A. Pro Golf Event

THE best ball pro-pro tournament at the Manor Club yesterday under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association, resulted in a victory for J. Munro Hunter and George Diffenbaugh, professional and assistant professional at the Indian Spring, who had a best ball card of 32—32—64.

Hunter had three birdies in the round, while Diffenbaugh had no less than five, of which four, played on the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes, came in succession. Diffenbaugh came within three inches of scoring an ace on the short water hole. The card:

Out ..... 4 2 3 4 4 4 3 3 5—32
In ..... 4 3 3 4 4 4 4 3 3—32—64

Ralph Beach, of the Suburban Club, Baltimore, and Cliff Spencer, unattached, Baltimore, won second money with a best ball of 34—32—66, and Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, and A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, were third with 37—32—69. Beach, with 34—35—69, won the prize for individual low score, with Spencer second, 35—37—72. Hunter and Diffenbaugh were third each with 73, although the latter lost second money when he took three putts from a distance of three feet on the home green. Other scores were:

Warner Mather, Woodholme, 82; Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, 75; Walter Cunningham, Burning Tree, 79; Frank Cunningham, Burning Tree, 83; Gene Larkin, Chevy Chase, 75; C. R. McMaster, Rolling Road, 82; John Flaherty, Ellicott City, 80; Al Treder, Manor, 83; Eddie Stevens, Manor, 83.

WASHINGTON PARK RACE TRACK, Chicago, Ill., June 1.

An allowance affair for 3-year-olds exclusively, which brings together a select field of six routers, will feature the program here tomorrow. The Lillies of the Valley Purse, another allowance race for 3-year-olds and upward, will be decided over the 6-furlong distance. This event will be run as the fourth number and supports the main event on a well-balanced card.

In the headliner, PITTSBURGER, consistent colt in the Shady Brook Farm's string, appears well suited by the conditions and figures to romp to victory over the mile and 70-yard route. The In Memoriam colt will encounter stern competition from the Dixiana's SWEEP ALL, but over the slow track the former should show the way. SCOTLAND'S GLORY, a steady bay colt, won several races at the Downs and figures best of the others for the show award.

In the secondary feature, SISTER ZOE, a superior mudder, has trained briskly for her Chicago campaign and rates the call over her five rivals. FLIMSY, from the C. V. Whitney string, will favor the route and is given the place call. LADY FINGERS has been freshened up and may finish closer than third.

FIRST RACE—PRINCESS CAMALIA, a winner at this track, has shown mud-running tendencies, and on her recent effort figures to annex the purse. GALAFLIGHT is well fancied by the clockers and figures second best. JALIE, from the G. E. Hunt stable and an easy winner in her debut at Aurora, should save the show.

SECOND RACE—The Middleburg Stable's erratic Wise Counselor colt, PHANTASIME, which showed a return to his top form last start, appears best. PERE NOEL is fancied for the place, with SCAPEGOAT selected for the short end of the purse.

THIRD RACE—Of this cheap lot of twenty CHARLIE has shown the most consistent form and rates the call. ST. AGNES and OSLO are closely matched for the place award.

SIXTH RACE—NUSAKAN, a former high-class steed, should take down the major portion of the $1,300 purse. WHO WIN, coupled with OUTER HARBOR as the Coughlin entry, is well fancied. GOLD STEP has a couple of good races to his credit and rates the show call.

SEVENTH RACE—WOODLOT, from the J. W. Parrish string, scored easily in his last winning effort at this track and under the same conditions figures to repeat. VOLTMETER followed the top one home in their last meeting and should go as well here. SWEET MANDY has not raced lately and may need this. However, she appears best of the others.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sarsaday

WHY WE USE TEN PINS.

THE PURITANS BROUGHT WITH THEM A GAME CALLED NINE-PINS, WHICH WAS MUCH LIKE OUR PRESENT BOWLING GAME, EXCEPT THAT IT WAS PLAYED OUTDOORS. THE PURITAN LEADERS WHO DIDN'T APPROVE OF AMUSEMENTS, PASSED A LAW FORBIDDING THE GAME. TO EVADE THE LAW OUR ANCESTORS ADDED ONE MORE PIN AND PLAYED TEN-PINS — AS WE DO STILL.

SPICK AND SPAN

"SPAN" WAS AN OLD MIDDLE ENGLISH WORD FOR A CHIP, NEWLY BROKEN OFF, AND BRIGHT. "SPICK" WAS A PROVINCIAL WORD FOR SPIKE; SO, "SPICK AND SPAN" MEANT BRIGHT AND NEW-LOOKING AS A NEWLY CUT CHIP AND A BRIGHT SPIKE.

RAINBOW'S END

AN ANCIENT PERSIAN LEGEND AFFIRMED THAT AT THE POINT WHERE EACH END OF A RAINBOW TOUCHED THE EARTH A POT OF GOLD WAS BURIED. CREDULOUS ANCIENTS ACTUALLY SOUGHT THE RAINBOW'S END.

TOMORROW—Walking Spanish; For Better or for Worse; Toadstools.

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

A METHOD OF SKIN TESTING.

DR. F. R. SCHMIDT gives a simple method of testing the skin to discover whether a given skin disease is the result of exposure to some substance in the course of work. It is known as the Jadassohn. The method of using it is as follows: Some of the substance suspected of causing the eruption is secured.

A normal skin area is selected, one entirely free from any kind of an eruption. An area of such skin, two or three inches square, is washed clean with soap and warm water, followed by washing with alcohol, if that is available. Some of the substance to be tested is made into a solution, an ointment, or a powder, according as is most convenient. A piece of clean cloth one inch square is soaked in this solution, greased with this ointment, or dusted with this powder. This is then applied to the patch of freshly cleaned skin.

Over it is placed a piece of rubber dam, and the whole is held in position by adhesive. At the end of 24 or 48 hours the dressing is removed. If the substance tested is the cause of the skin trouble the tested inch of skin will be blistered or, at least, it will be very red. Should there be no evidence of inflammation, blistering, or considerable irritation, tests should be made with other suspected causes. No such tests should be made with violent skin irritants such as croton oil, mustard, cantharides, turpentine, poison ivy, or strong liniments.

Among the more frequent causes of occupational dermatitis are soap, flour, face powder, dyes, bicarbonate of soda, insect powders, pyrethrum, nickel, white gold, orris root, zinc oxide, rock salt, sugar, chemicals used in photography, pigments used in rotogravure, antiseptics, sawdust, and other dusts.

There are poisons that act on the skin immediately. Among these are croton oil, mustard, and so-called mustard gas. These do little harm, as a rule, because the sufferer recognizes at once the cause of the trouble and thereafter he avoids it.

The more important substances are those which cause the skin to be sensitized. The skin trouble they result in is kin to hay fever, asthma, and migraine. The cause operates so slowly and, for a time, so mildly, that it often goes unsuspected for a long time and when it comes under suspicion the proof is not easy to get. After sensitivity has been set up even minute traces of the poison or very trivial exposures are liable to set the skin on fire.

STOCK PRICE DROPS AVERAGE 4.9 POINTS

Net Losses Heaviest in 1931; Most Issues Close at New Low Marks.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The stock market gave way to a bad case of nerves today, digging still deeper into new low ground in the first 3,000,000-share session since April 30. Net losses ranged from 2 to 6 points in most of the favorites; numerous issues returned considerably larger declines. The average loss of 4.9 points was the largest decline of the year.

Perhaps it was the absence of favorable news over the prolonged week-end, or a belief that no cheer was in prospect for the near future that sent prices spinning downward. Whatever the reason, liquidation piled up in increasing volume and the market got only momentary breathing spells. There was a spotty recovery in the late trading, but most stocks closed at the bottom. Sales approximated 3,100,000 shares, considerably above recent turnovers.

Rails set a bad example from the opening gong. Utilities and industrials seemed content to stay within easy striking distance of last Friday's close during the first hour, but by noon the weakness of the carriers had spread to pivotal issues elsewhere. United States Steel slumped to 84⅝, against the previous close of 91 and closed at 85¼. The net loss was figured at 4 points, inasmuch as the stock sold ex-dividend.

Favorite Stocks Lose.

American Telephone, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central, Eastman Kodak, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, North American and other favorites gave up 3 to 5 points net. Norfolk & Western and Central Railroad of New Jersey, lost 16 to 13, respectively, in small sales. Auburn was off 15 at the close.

General Motors and General Electric both made new lows. The former was heavily sold in the afternoon, when one 25,000-share block changed hands at 32. Both issues lost more than 2 points on the day. Kennecott sagged with the dividend cut from a $2 to a $1 annual basis. Foods repeated their weak performance of Friday. National Dairy was conspicuously soft, off 6 points.

The day was devoid of news on which to base the market's weakness. There had been some hopes of a recovery in view of the fact that occasionally spirits pick up after a double holiday, but in its present state of pessimism speculative and investment sentiment was not to be satisfied by the rather negative opinions expressed in month-end reviews. Some of these held that although many lines of business were experiencing setbacks, the reaction was seasonal and the spring gains had not been lost. There was a rather general belief that a stabilization process either was already at work or was soon to make itself evident.

Heavy Selling Begins.

Many brokerage houses have long felt that the market would require what is known as a selling climax before a technical recovery of any importance could be expected. Today's decline was obviously facilitated by real liquidation which encountered thin bids on the buying side. It was reported that a few large individual accounts, holding large blocks of rail issues, were being sold.

Pressure against Steel common doubtless reflected a belief that the opening of the second quarter's final month found business on an unprofitable basis, which would be shown in earnings for the current three months. Selling of the dairy stocks was accompanied by reports of smaller sales. The president of one large company of that description said there was nothing in the fiscal position or dividend prospect of his concern to account for the break. Earnings of the food corporations generally have been regarded as satisfactory.

Weather and crop conditions, as well as the stock market's weakness, were responsible for declines in grain futures and cotton. Government support of wheat passed with the new month. Losses in that commodity ran from 1 to 1¾ cents, while corn was off slightly less. Cotton went to new lows, and net losses were between $1.10 and 1.20 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were strong. French and Swiss currencies rallied vigorously, which apparently meant that more funds were being repatriated. Sterling cables moved up 1-16 to $4.86 9-16. The weak spot was the Spanish peseta, which lost about ⅜ of a cent, establishing a record low.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Prices for all positions in cotton made new low records for the season today.

October contracts broke to 8.75, or 29 points net lower, but trade buying became a little more active at this figure and there were recoveries of a few points later on covering or rebuying. October closed at 8.80 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 22 to 24 points.

The opening was barely steady 11 to 16 points lower on a feeling that the showers reported in the South over the holiday would not be harmful and in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. The initial offerings were fairly well taken by covering and trade buying, but the selling continued and appeared to become more active following reports of weakness in the stock market. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the sellers here on the decline while there was considerable pressure from local and Wall street sources and some selling through commission houses.

Buying was mostly on scale down orders with the decline extending to 8.40 for July and 8.96 for December contracts during the early afternoon or about 29 to 31 points net lower. At these figures, covering became more active while there was an increased trade demand during the last hour and closing quotations showed rallies of 5 to 7 points from the lowest on the more active positions.

Trading was moderately active but was mostly in small lots and the selling seemed to come chiefly from houses with foreign connections and Wall street sources. It was supposed to include some liquidation of contracts bought on the preholiday rally, owing to the fairly favorable weather reported over the holiday and week-end and the prospect for continued favorable conditions over the greater part of the belt.

Liverpool cables reported local, Continental and Bombay liquidation in the market, which may have been influenced to some extent on declines of 24 to 52 points in the market for Egyptian futures at Alexandria. The Indian spot quotation in Liverpool was 5 points lower. Exports today 3,610 making 6,390,472 so far this season. Port receipts, 2,427. U. S. port stocks, 3,206,568.

NEW FEDERAL BOND ISSUE RECORDS GAIN

Losses Are Common Among All Other Groups; Day's Sales $13,472,000.

New York, June 1 ((A.P.).—The most important event of the bond market today was the announcement of the financing plans of the United States Treasury.

This news was regarded so favorably that transactions in the new bonds on a when issued basis were made above par before noon, and the price advanced to 100½ by the end of the day. That may seem like only a moderate advance, but it is sizable because of the narrow thirty-seconds of a point in which fluctuations in Government bonds are quoted.

Another evidence of the generally favorable reception of the announcement was the fact that the certificates of indebtedness due on June 15, which are exchangeable for the new issue up to a maximum of $325,000,000, advanced moderately, whereas issues of such short maturity usually are steady in price. Outstanding Government bonds made good gains.

The action of the rest of the bond market was a curious contrast to the popularity of the Treasury issue. Losses were common among all groups and a number of new low record prices were reached. The average prices of ten industrial and ten railroad issues and the composite average for these two groups and for ten utilities all reached new bottom levels. Sales totaled $13,472,000 at par value, the largest daily aggregate in about eight weeks which was another evidence of selling pressure. Even some bonds of high grade or gilt edge rating did not resist the general trend, but, of course, the losses among them were smaller than among the speculative issues.

Active issues recording some of the larger losses included Italian 7s, City of Milan 6½s, City of Rome 6½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933, American International 5½s, Rock Island Refunding 4s of 1934, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1955, Interborough Refunding 5s, International Telephone 5s and Convertible 4½s, National Diary Products 5½s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s of 1978 and series 4s.

Argentine, Chilean, Colombian and Brazilian loans were generally higher.

GEORGETOWN LIGHT BOARD ADDS PEIRCE

Chicago Man Is Elected to Succeed Fred Burroughs; Others Rechosen.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Albert E. Peirce, Chicago, president of Central Public Service Corporation and Central Public Service Co., was elected a director of Georgetown Gas Light Co., at the annual meeting of that company's stockholders yesterday. He succeeds Fred S. Burroughs, of New York, who resigned to devote more time to other business interest, it was announced.

All other directors were reelected and the the following: Robert D. Weaver, George A. G. Wood, Wilton J. Lambert, Charles C. Glover, jr., James M. Green and George B. Fraser. At the meeting of organization following the annual meeting all officers were reelected. They are: Robert D. Weaver, president; George A. G Wood, George B. Fraser, vice presidents; Frederick K. Heupel, secretary and assistant treasurer; Edward T. Stafford, assistant secretary; A. Gray Dawson, treasurer; Richard A. Ennis, general auditor; Wilton J. Lambert, attorney.

That building construction is one of the few general business indices which offers encouragement at the present time, is the opinion expressed in the monthly survey of business by Dr. Stephen I. Miller, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, sent to the association's 25,000 members yesterday.

Building Permits Increase.

Building permits in 215 leading cities for April, Dr. Miller points out, showed an increase of 6.4 per cent over March, against an average seasonal increase of about 1.5 per cent. "Considering the present depression, building permits were one of the first busines indices to fall off, and it is more than possible that the construction industry will be the one to lead the procession back to prosperity street."

On Memorial Day the directors of the Bank of Bowie held their regular monthly meeting for the consideration, among other things, declaration of the semiannual dividend of 3 per cent on the bank stock, which they have been able to issue uniformly since placing the institution on a dividend-paying basis.

It was stated following the meeting that while the bank is largely dependent for support on the surrounding farming community, adversely affected by the unprecedented drought of last year, it had not receded in its earnings for the past six months, but had considerably increased them and made such a substantial addition to its undivided profits as to justify affirmative action.

Dividend Is Declared.

A semiannual dividend of 3 per cent was therefore declared, payable June 30, to stockholders of record June 25. Bank directors present were Thomas P. Littlepage, vice president; William Luers, cashier; Bernard A. Stenner and Daniel B. Lloyd.

All trustees of Northern Market Co. of Washington City were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday. They are the following: W. W. Millan, Edward W. Donn, jr., Charles Morgan, Floyd E. Davis, R. E. L. Smith, A. F. Harlan, J. Enos Ray, jr., Frederick L. Vogt.

The place for the annual golf tournament for members of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has been changed from Beaver Dam Club to Indian Spring Club, it was announced yesterday. Dates have been changed from June 3 to 5 to June 4 and 5. The large number of entries necessitated the changes, it was stated.

Rise in Silver Depends On Uses, Briton Says

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—The only hope for betterment in the silver situation that Sir James Arthur Salter sees is in the discovery of new technical uses for the metal.

Sir James, who was general secretary of the reparations commission from 1920 to 1922, told the Academy of Political Science today that all existing schemes for remedying the silver deflation have material defects.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 1 (A.P.).—Dominated by stock market downturns, all grains swept lower today, with wheat and corn outdoing the season's lowest record. Setbacks of grain values were in the face of corn-stimulated sponsored purchasing of cash wheat at pegged prices much above the current quotations on July wheat contracts representing the new 1931 crop. For the time being, also, little consideration was given to severe drought complaints from Canada, the Dakotas and Montana.

Wheat closed unsteady, 1¼@1⅞ cents lower, corn ¾@1¼ cents down, oats at 1¼@½ cent decline and provisions 12@25 cents up.

Reports of showers affording some relief to drought districts in Canada gave wheat bears an early advantage that quickly gained momentum from action of securities, especially the fall of United States Steel. Another weakening factor was word that transatlantic call for North American wheat appeared poor, with the Liverpool market closing ¼@1 cent off, although supplies afloat showed 3,344,000 bushels decrease for the week. A further depressing influence was a 2,106,000 bushels increase of the United States wheat visible supply total.

Likelihood that monthly unofficial crop reports due tomorrow would have a bearish aspect added to the downward impetus of wheat, and so likewise did heavy selling of September wheat, selling that was ascribed in part to a widely known speculator. Crop reports from domestic winter wheat territory continued to indicate yields much in excess of the official May forecast.

Government-sponsored buying of future deliveries of wheat, which until the end of May had formed an outstanding feature of the Chicago market, was apparently confined today to June contracts. The June purchasing served to bring about a late rally to 72 cents in that month, as against 70¾ earlier. The Farmers National Grain Corporation, a subsidy of the Farm Board, paid 81 cents for No. 2 hard wheat in the cash market here, and bid that price for more. There was also pegged price old crop cash wheat purchasing today for Government allies at Kansas City.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat and as a result of favorable weather conditions. Scarcity of offerings advanced provisions.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 58¼; 59¾; September, 57⅞@57¼, 58½; December, 60¼, 61⅛. Corn—July, 54¼@55, 58¾; September, 52¼@52¾, 53½; December, 48½, 47⅝.

Cash grain:

WHEAT—No. 1 red, 81; No. 1 hard, 81¼; No. 1 Northern spring, 81¼.

CORN—No. 1 mixed, 55@55½; No. 1 white, 57½@57¾; No. 1 yellow, 55½@56¾.

OATS—No. 2 white, 27½; No. 3 white, 26½.

RYE—No sales.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 1 (A.P.).—Organization of a new subsidiary, Minute Tapioca Co., Ltd., with headquarters and factory at Montreal, was announced today by General Foods, Ltd., Canadian affiliate of General Foods Corporation. The new unit, which will take care of the company's tapioca requirements for the dominion, will not affect production or employment at the main tapioca plant at Orange, Mass., the announcement said. General Foods, Ltd., also has opened new divisional headquarters at Winnipeg to direct distribution of all General Foods Products in western Canada.

Holders of $2,534,000 par value of outstanding $3,089,000 5-year 5½ per cent gold notes, due June 1, 1931, of American-La France & Foamite Corporation, have deposited or pledged their notes with a committee of directors under an exchange and extensive plan. The plan proposes the exchange of new 5-year 5½ per cent notes, due June 1, 1936, for the old notes and payment of cash premiums of 2½ per cent on the par value of the principal of the old notes, as well as interest on the old notes due June 1.

An official statement said the estate of C. C. Dula, former chairman of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., has not sold any of its holdings of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. stock. Reports have been current that selling by Mr. Dula's estate was responsible for weakness in the stock.

Release of additional first quarter income statements during the past week has expanded the total of corporations thus far reporting for this period to 357, and the aggregate net income to $239,647,000, which represents a decrease of 46 per cent from the corresponding three months of 1930, a survey by Standard Statistics Co. says.

Stockholders of Advance Rumley Corporation have approved the proposed merger contract with Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

Directors of Foote Bros. Gear & Machine Co. and Dodge Manufacturing Corporation have approved a plan for consolidation into Dodge-Foote Corporation, through an exchange of stock. The basis would be three-tenths of a share of new common for each of the 310,697 shares of Foote Bros. $6 par common; 1½ shares of new common for each of the 32,000 no-par common shares of Dodge Manufacturing; 1 share of new participating preferred and 2 shares of common for each outstanding preferred share of the constituent companies.

W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, said car-loading for May continued to show about the same percentage of decrease as in April, but the management has no idea as yet as to what the gross and net income will be.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, said at the annual meeting that, due to the generally depressed conditions, the outlook at present is less favorable than it was at this time last year, "but we are hopeful for an improvement."

V. V. Boatner, president of the Chicago Great Western Railroad, said business in the Northwest this year depends upon basic factors like weather and crop yields. "Nothing better could be asked than the prevailing viewpoint of the Northwest at this time," he said. "The business community is fact-minded and basing its plans on solid and measureable data. Forced optimism and artificial cheer are now quite generally tabooed, with the certain result that all progress achieved will be sound and enduring."

Brown Shoe Co. and subsidiaries, for the six months ended April 30, today reported net profit of $568,003, equal to $1.75 a share on the common stock, compared with $598,271, or $1.82 a share, in the like period of the previous fiscal year.

Diamond Match Co. for the March quarter had net profit equal to 39 cents a common share, compared with 42 cents a share in the like quarter of 1930.

Utah Copper Co. directors reduced the annual dividend basis to $6 a share from $8 by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1.50.

Baltimore Jewel Thieves Sentenced

Three Men and Woman Go to Prison in Robbery of Opera Party.

Baltimore, June 1 (A.P.).—Six wekes after the robbery of a homeward-bound opera party of $50,000 in jewelry two young men who pleaded guilty to the hold-up and a man and a woman convicted as accessories were sentenced at Towson today.

John Parson and Leon Navarro were sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary each following their admissions that they robbed the party of C. Wilbur Miller, a manufacturer, the night of April 17.

Marion Cusimano was given six years upon his conviction of helping the two bandits in their efforts to sell the stolen jewelry, and Mrs. Blanche Du Va, was sentenced to eighteen months in the house of correction.

Salvatore Nucci was freed upon Mrs. Du Val's testimony that he went with her and Cusimano to New Yrok to dispose of the jewels, but did not know the purpose of the trip. Nearly all the jewelry was recovered.

Fort Smith Railway Placed in Receivership

Fort Smith, Ark., June 1 (A.P.).—The Fort Smith & Western Railroad Co., with main offices here, was placed in receivership today under an order by Federal Judge F. A. Youmans. Louis B. Barry, jr., vice president and general manager of the company, was named receiver.

The action was taken on the application of the Central United National Bank, of Cleveland, Ohio, which stated it held mortgages on the company's properties to secure an original bonded indebtedness of $3,500,000.

Man Dead in Staunton Remains Unidentified

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., June 1.—Police tonight still are without information as to the home or relatives of a man believed to be Walter C. Bryant, about 57, itinerant umbrella mender, who died near the brick plant here Sunday morning.

Unconfirmed report had it he was from Richmond, Va., and at one time was a machinist in the Navy; also that his wife lived at Toms Brook, Shenandoah County, Va., but messages to these points went unanswered. The initials "W. C. B." are tattooed on left forearm, and a cross on upper left arm. On upper right arm is a bust of a girl in sailor packet and cap.

Crash Near Cumberland Hurts Capital Woman

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 2.—Mrs. Edna Richter, 55, of Eastern avenue northeast, Washington, D. C., was seriously injured this morning when the car in which she was a passenger skidded from the National highway at Naves Cross Roads, about three miles east of here, and was wrecked.

Mrs. Richter sustained head injuries and a fractured left shoulder. The car was operated by Archie Carly Worren, who, State police said, was a boarder in Mrs. Richter's home. He suffered minor injuries. Both are at Allegany Hospital. Mrs. Richter was en route to Washington from a vacation. Wet roads were blamed.

Coastal Highway Group Assembles in Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—The military importance of the Atlantic coastal highway, and its advantage to the industrial and commercial development of the seaboard, were stressed today by Col. Joseph C. Stehlin, president of the Jacksonville, Fla. Chamber of Commerce at the opening of the eleventh annual convention of the Atlantic Coastal Highway Association here.

Col. Stehlin said this year's convention marked two vital milestones in the work of the association. First, he said, the more than 3,000 miles of the Atlantic coastal highway, is now paved. Second, more adequate automobile ferry service across Chesapeake Bay, from Norfolk to Cape Charles, had welded what was considered the most needed link in the route.

Wilmington, N. C., Quits Highway Association

Norfolk, Va., June 1 (A.P.).—Wilmington, N. C., today withdrew from membership in the Atlantic Coastal Highway Association, charging that the organization had been unfair in printing on its map alternative routes from Norfolk, South by way of Fayetteville, New Bern and other North Carolina cities.

Mayor Blair, of Wilmington, took the floor at the eleventh annual convention of the association this afternoon and charged the organization with having discriminated against his city.

Reffit Must Face Grand Jury Action

Husband of Woman Shot to Death in Scuffle Held by Court.

John Franklin Reffit, 50 years old, Burdette, Md., huckster, was held for action of the Montgomery County jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter by Judge Charles W. Woodward, in county police court at Rockville.

Reffit was charged with murder by Rockville police following the fatal shooting of his wife last Tuesday at their Burdette home. The charge was changed to manslaughter after the evidence had been heard by the court. Bond was fixed at $1,500.

A 16-year-old son, Benjamin Lloyd Reffit, corroborated his father's statement that the shooting was not intentional. The youth said that his parents had been quarreling and that his father went to another room and procured a revolver. Returning to the kitchen, where the wife and five children were gathered, he threatened to shoot himself. When he pointed the pistol at his head, the wife attempted to wrest it from him, the boy said, and was shot in the course of the struggle.

Divorce Granted O'Brien's Daughter

Mrs. Ruth Lamp Gets Decree in Reno on Grounds of Nonsupport.

The stormy married career of Mrs. Ruth M. Lamp, daughter of Clarence O'Brien, Washington patent attorney, with Adrian H. Lamp, an artist, was terminated in Reno, messages received here said. A divorce was granted Mrs. Lamp on the grounds of nonsupport.

Mrs. Lamp, then Mrs. Ruth A. Cady, eloped to Rockville, Md., and married Mr. Lamp, after a brief courtship. The couple met on a liner returning from Europe. Early in January of this year Lamp filed suit for $75,000 against Mr. O'Brien, alleging alienation of his wife's affections and false arrest. Later he accused Mr. O'Brien of being behind attempts to have him deported. The artist is a native of Holland.

Mr. O'Brien, in his answer to the suit, made a counter charge that the Rockville ceremony was illegal, alleging that Lamp had another wife. Mr. Lamp droped both the alienation and false arrest suits on April 10, 1931.

Capital Man Held After Fatal Crash

Lawrence McCullough Giv Up in Montgomery; 2 Autoists Dead.

Lawrence McCullough, of Ellicott street near Forty-third street northwest, yesterday surrendered to Montgomery County Policeman Windsor C. Poole, of the Methesda substation, who served a warrant charging manslaughter. McCullough was accompanied by his lawyer, Kenneth Lyddane, who arranged for bond.

The charge grew out of an accident May 17 when an automobile operated by McCullough collided with a telephone pole on the Rockville Pike about 3 miles from Bethesda. Two youths were killed and a fourth escaped injury. McCullough was injured in the crash.

The two youths killed were: Ludwell Lee and Calvin Brown, both of Bethesda, Md. Cecil Baker, of Bethesda, escaped injury. The youths had taken a comrade to Rockville after a night at an amusement park on Conduit road and were on their way home just before daybreak.

Taxi Driver Flees As Fare Pulls Gun

Informs Police Passenger Tried to Rob Him at End of Virginia Trip.

Myer Rodis, taxicab driver, of 641 Keefer place northwest, Washington reported to Alexandria police yesterday an attempted holdup by a passenger whom he had picked up in Washington.

Rodis said he was accosted by a young man, apparently about 19 years old, who said he was a car repairer and wished to be driven to the Fruit Growers Express plant in Alexandria. On arriving at the plant, he says, his passenger produced a revolver and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Rodis, according to his story, sprang out of the taxicab and took to his heels, the bandit firing several shots at him as he ran, but missing. Later Rodis returned to his cab and found it

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

DIPLOMAS AWARDED AT ARLINGTON HALL

Class of 24 Graduates From Girls' College; Chapel Filled by Friends.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With the chapel of Arlington Hall College for Girls filled to its capacity the fourth annual graduating exercises were held last night.

The exercises opened with the invocation given by Dr. William E. Martin, president of the college. The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, the principal speaker, congratulated the 24 members of the graduating class.

Dr. Martin president, in presenting the diplomas, said, "Do not be satisfied now that you are about to receive your diplomas denoting that you have completed your course of study here at Arlington Hall, but as the years come and go continue to strive to learn more.

"Arlington Hall is a small school and there are those that love it.

Grown From 40 Students.

"This is the closing of our fourth year. We have grown from 40 students the first year to 130 this year. We hope to have 150 next year, and the next 200, then we will stop for a while and continue to have a small school, but one that is filled with the most pleasant memories by those who leave us.

To Miss Amy Outerbridge, of Bermuda, went the highest honors, with Miss Virginia Vook, of Colorado, and Miss Nancy Atlee, of Iowa, tying for second honors.

In the art department Miss Adelaide Beck, of Tennessee, carried off first honors, with Miss Katherine Heflin, of Texas, second. In the commercial department, Miss Anna Belle Ratcliff carried off the honors.

Those Receiving Diplomas.

Those receiving diplomas were: Nancy Atlee, Iowa; Adelaide Beck, Tennessee; Isabella Buchanan, Virginia; Genevieve Burnette, Arkansas; Bernice Byrac, Oklahoma; Virginia Cook, Colorado; Madeline Dawn, Tennessee; Dorothy G. Fowler, District of Columbia; Margaret Geckler, Ohio; Irma Frances Hall, Virginia; Mary Elizabeth Hall, Ohio; Katherine Heflin, Texas; Anne Lacey Johnston, Virginia; Madeline Lee, Pennsylvania; Elizabeth Mezick, Maryland; Ruth Myers, New York; Amy Outerbridge, Bermuda; Geraldine Pendleton, Illinois; Anna Belle Ratcliff, Mississippi; Margaret Roberts, Maryland; Dorothy Roess, Pennsylvania; Henrietta Ahlborn, Pennsylvania; Mary Flowe, North Carolina, and Marjorie Ward, Missouri.

Miss Madeline Lee, who has had the honor of being the president of her class during the entire four years, the first class to complete the four-year college course, presented to Dr. Martin, as a small token of its sincere appreciation and love for the college, a handsome silver service on behalf of the class.

In May 342 deeds were recorded in the county clerk's office, according to the monthly report yesterday. The tax to the State amounted to $903.88.

Other items included in the report are: Wills, 12, State tax, $21.20, chancery suits, 27, State tax, $40.50; actions at law, 20, State tax, $27. Fines collected during the month for violations of the prohibition law amounted to $70, with costs totaling $148.50; fines collected in other than prohibition were $71.75 with costs amounting to $113.

Delinquent real estate taxes collected, going to the State treasurer, amounted to $50.31. The amount collected which goes to the county treasurer was $482.92.

Continuing its school building program, the Arlington County School Board will on Wednesday, June 10, at 10 o'clock open bids for the addition of eight rooms to the Jefferson Colored School and four rooms to the Patrick Henry School.

In adding eight rooms to the Jefferson Colored School, County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp announces that facilities will be furnished to carry on a high school course for the colored pupils in the county.

The plans and specifications have been prepared by State School Architect Raymond V. Long.

The cost of the additions will be taken care of from the school bond issue of 1930.

Joseph McQuire and Philip Terrell pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession, while Paul Rust and Harvey Daniels pleaded not guilty. All were held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. Bond in the case of Harvey Daniels was set at $1,000, while the bond in the other cases was set at $500.

Daniels and McQuire were later released on bond for their appearance at the opening of the June term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County.

James Young, taxicab driver, pleaded not guilty to a charge of transporting in violation of the prohibition laws. He was held for the action of the grand jury. His bond was fixed at $1,000 by Judge Thomas.

Pleading guilty to carrying concealed weapons, W. S. Miller was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail by Judge Thomas.

The Lyon Village Woman's Club will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mellin, 28 Virginia avenue.

The monthly honor roll at the Cherrydale school, as announced from the office of County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, includes the following pupils:

Paul Brown, Katherine Wood, Edith Marcey, Frances Brennan, Mildred Anstine, Dorothy Massie, Emma Groot, Albert Ward, Oliver Dennie, Rodney Gaumnitz, Carol Donaldson, Barbara Janson, Jeanette Stehman, James Bryan, Jacquelyn Miller, Marjorie Perry, Dora Oddson, Jeanne Malden, Margaret Bennett, Charles Harmon, Alma Corberly, Dorothy Shipley, Agnes Zimmerman, Clyde Payne, Ernest Davis, Mary Oddson, Delman Marcey, Robert Edmonston, Earl Conner, Charles Massie, Jack Diehl, Lee McDonald, Houston Witten, Frances Oddson and Alpha Simmons.

The June meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation will be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

WET GROUNDS DELAY ANNAPOLIS PARADE

Event Put Off Until Today as Heavy Rains Fall; Girls Kept Indoors.

Annapolis, Md., June 1.—Festivities of commencement week at the Naval Academy were rained out today as far as outdoor exercises were concerned and the hundreds of June Week girls assembled here from all points of the Nation, eager to sport their dainty summer frocks, were driven to the cover of their hotels, boarding houses or the homes of private families where they are staying. A heavy rain which began last night lasted the major portion of today, and it was not until late in the afternoon that the girls ventured out of doors to join their midshipmen escorts. Taxi drivers had a big day.

Disappointment likewise came to a large group of photographers and movietone operators, gathered to take their shots of a series of special drills, arranged especially for their benefit by Naval Academy authorities, so that there would be no interference with the scheduled official functions. However, the camera and cinema men will be given another opportunity tomorrow.

Though the rain let up, dress parade by the regiment of midshipmen scheduled for 5:30 o'clock was called off because of wet grounds.

Announcement was made that Miss Eloise Hanford, Syracuse, N. Y., has been selected to make the presentation of regimental colors at dress parade tomorrow afternoon. The color honor this year was won by the Third Company, commanded by Midshipman Lieut. Norman Hall, also of Syracuse. Hall is the champion boxer at the academy in the welterweight class, intercollegiate champion in 1930 and runner-up the past season. According to tradition, the girl making the presentation is generally accepted to be the fiancee of the successful company commander.

The merit rolls of the undergraduate classes have been compiled by the academic board. They show that 33 of the class of 1932 and 27 of the class of 1933 maintained "star" rating. Pennsylvania or New Jersey furnish the outstanding scholars in each class of next year's graduates. E. A. Ruckner, New Jersey, is holding first honors and the next four on order of merit are E. E. Fawkes, Iowa; F. B. Schultz, Michigan; C. J. Weschler, Pennsylvania; H. E. Baker, Washington State. Others among the leaders are G. H. Mitchell, Pennsylvania, sixth, and L. M. Mustin, Pennsylvania, 16; R. A. Gallagher, Pennsylvania, tops the class of 1933 and the next four in order are K. F. Neupert, Oregon; R. B. Madden, Pennsylvania; J. H. Boulard, Texas, and R. W. Thompson, jr., Maryland.

Virginia Politician Is Injured in Fall

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 1.—County Treasurer George B. Keezell, 77, a veteran of two generations in politics in Virginia, is in Rockingham Memorial Hospital with a double fracture of his right hip.

He fell last night when he walked down the steps to inspect what damage a cloudburst had done to the basement of his home at Geezletown. He lay helpless in the water for an hour and a half before members of his household returned home.

Mr. Keezell served for 40 years in the State Senate and House of Delegates.

Country-Church Colleges Lauded

Bridgewater Class Is Told How Small Institutions Furnish Leaders.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 1.—The small country and church-related colleges were lauded by Dr. Robert L. Kelly, of New York, as educational agencies for supplying the most brilliant figures to American diplomacy and public life in his commencement address to the 32 graduates of Bridgewater College today.

Dr. Kelly declared a survey by a Yale research bureau, which is regarded as unprejudiced, shows that 70 per cent of the students in theological seminaries have come from the small country and the church-related colleges. He declared such noted American men in diplomacy and in public life as Elihu Root, Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, Owen D. Young, Charles G. Dawes and other notables were educated in the church-related colleges.

The commencement exercises were the fifty-first for Bridgewater College. They brought to the college many people from Pennsylvania, Maryland and all parts of the State.

Robbers in Truck Take $2,000 in Merchandise

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 1—After prying off a side door with a crow bar, robbers backed up a big motor truck and hauled away $2,000 worth of merchandise from the A. A. Pickering department store at Rowlesburg early this morning.

State and county police said the burglary was similar to three others committed at the store within the last year.

HOOD COLLEGE ADDS 95 TO ALUMNAE LIST

Rabbi Wise Addresses Class at Commencement at Girls' School.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 1.—Thirty-eighth annual commencement of Hood College was held today in Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, when 95 graduates were presented diplomas by the president, Dr. Joseph H. Apple. The address to graduates was by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, New York, founder of the Zionist Organization of America.

Representatives of 24 classes attended the annual alumnae day events, consisting of the traditional march across the campus, ivy planting ceremonies, annual dinner dance and bridge party and other events. Meyran Hall, new dormitory, costing $160,000, was informally dedicated. Keys of the building were presented to Louis R. Meyran, of Pittsburgh, donor of the building, by the contractor, who in turn gave them to Dr. Apple, president of the college. Annual reception to graduates and alumnae was held in Alumnae Hall. The final tribute to seniors by undergraduates was sung on the steps of Alumnae Hall.

Alumnae from Washington, Baltimore and many places in Pennsylvania attended the commencement. The following are the graduates:

Capital Woman Hurt In Automobile Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 1—Mrs. Henry M. Mosely, of Thirteenth street, near M street, Washington, was treated at the Frederick City Hospital, for lacerations of the face, a sprained ankle and shock, as the result of an auto accident on the State road, two miles North of here today.

Mr. Moseley, attempted to turn a curve leading from one road to another when their car and a machine operated by Lee Norwood, 19, of this city, came together. State road police who investigated the accident, said it was unavoidable, and neither driver was held liable. Both cars were badly damaged.

POLICE APPOINTED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Roster of Force Completed With Arthur Brown and Elon Turner.

The Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday completed the roster of the new county police force by appointing Elon Turner, of Nottingham, and Arthur Brown, of Laurel, to the vacant places. The rest of the appointments were made according to recommendations received some time ago, except that R. Arnold Naylor, of Aquasco, was appointed in place of William C. Quade, of the same district.

At a joint meeting of the Democratic State central committee for the county and the commissioners about two weeks ago Jeremiah J. Crowley was the choice for chief. Others whose appointments were decided upon at this time were Arthur W. Hepburn, sergeant; Harvey Machen, sergeant; Claude Reese, Ralph Brown, Oscar Beall, William Gray, William Clifton and William McQuade.

Although the policemen were appointed yesterday, they were not sworn in, as they must first post bond of $2,000 each. They must also make arrangements for uniforms before they can begin to act. It is expected that the force will be in working order in about a week.

At their special meeting yesterday the commissioners also passed a resolution authorizing the renting of the First National Bank Building in Hyattsville to house branches of the county government in that town. The structure will provide a full-time police station, quarters for the police court, a jail and offices for the home demonstration agent, the Park and Planning Commission, the Sanitary Commission and the public health nurse.

The bank site was chosen from among three other locations offered in the town. Some objection to the bank was voiced on the grounds that it was not a suitable place for a jail and that there was insufficient parking space near it. It has, however, the advantage of being an imposing structure and being in the center of the town.

A bond issue of $10,000 for street improvements in Laurel was approved by the citizens yesterday by a vote of 158 for to 122 against, a majority for the issue of 36. The total vote of 280 was very light, according to J. H. Fetty, mayor of the town, comprising less than half of those on the books.

The money will be used to pave the streets with tar throughout the town. Work probably will not begin before July 1, according to Mr. Fetty.

Bernard V. Luers, William C. Kreitzer and J. E. Dorsey were elected town commissioners of Bowie in the election held yesterday at the firehouse. Luers received 165 votes, Kreitzer 144 and Dorsey 139. W. W. Everett, an unsuccessful candidate, received 37 ballots, and W. D. Johnston, another who failed, got 33 votes.

All those who were elected are new officers, none of the outgoing commissioners being candidates for re-election. They are George McCauley, Christopher Reun and Edward Clarke. Judges of the election were Noah Joffe, J. W. Ryon, sr., and M. Erlavitch.

A total of 180 ballots were cast, out of 265 voters listed on the books, a very heavy vote, according to the judges. Furthermore, the winners won by the largest majority ever given an officeholder in the town, they said, and the election was one of the hottest in the history of the town.

Rosalie Shark, of Laurel, yesterday filed suit in circuit court for an absolute divorce from Elwood Shark, alleging desertion. The woman's petition, filed through Attorney Elmer Pumphrey, states that their marriage took place in February, 1927, and that the man left her in November, 1927. During their married life they lived with the wife's parents, she says.

The couple have no children, the bill states, but Mrs. Shark asks for alimony. She also asks the court to restore her maiden name of Rosalie E. Radcliffe.

The annual lawn festival of St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Hyattsville opened last night on the lawn of the Howard estate, on the Baltimore boulevard near the Armory. It will last until Saturday night.

The list of attractions includes games, prizes, refreshments and rides, managed by volunteer workers of the parish under the direction of the Rev. A. J. Carey, pastor of the church. A prize will be given away every night, and an extra one, a gas range, will be given Saturday night.

The committee in charge of arrangements is headed by A. C. Keegin, and includes Mrs. George Furman, Mrs. H. W. Wheatley, sr., Mrs. T. J. Vandoren, Mrs. Walter Dutton, Mrs. Paul Davis, Mrs. G. C. Manuel, Mrs. J. Dorman, Miss Honor Keane, Mrs. Charles M. Brown, Miss Marie Dorr, Mrs. H. W. Stinson, Mrs. C. Hechmer, Miss F. Breerwood, Mrs. W. E. Thorne, Miss B. Thorne, Mrs. V. A. Sheehy, Miss P. Richards, Miss Blanche Kelly, Mrs. V. A. Sheehy, jr., Mrs. R. S. Czarra, Miss Themis Keegin, Miss K. Longpre, Mrs. A. G. Keegin, Miss Annie Jones, Mrs. A. L. Longpre, Mrs. E. C. Norris, Miss M. Moran, Misses Ruth and Ellen Held, Mrs. L. J. Poelma, Mrs. F. Schmehl, Misses Eleanor and Alice Vandoren, Mrs. H. P. Howard, Miss Roberta Howard, Mrs. E. Gude, Mrs. H. L. Howard, Mrs. J. D. Troy, Mrs. Agnes Kessler, Miss Mary Kessler, Mrs. John Dorr, Mrs. A. E. Maier, Mr. C. L. Aiello, Mr. Myles Quail, Charles Joyce, J. A. Hickey, William Hall, George M. Jones, S. A. Kelly, Paul Davis, J. S. Williams, Joseph Munroe, A. E. Maier, John Keane, W. E. Thorne, F. J. Kaufman, G. C. Manuel, C. M. Brown, William Nees, Bernard Nees, John Dorr, Paul Kelly, Ignatius Keane, Harry Henning, Joseph Keegin, Walter Dutton, J. Dorman, Paul Costinett, F. Schmehl, J. W. Rogers, Harry Rogers, and Henry and John Walton.

Miss Ethel M. Regan, home demonstration agent, will address the Mellwood Woman's Club today at the home of Mrs. Mary McPherson at T. B. Encouraged by the success of their recent rummage sale, the club is planning a series of such sales throughout the county.

Date of the graduation exercises of the Hyattsville High School has been set up one day, and the exercises will be held on June 15, according to an announcement by Prof. K. J. Morris. The change was made necessary because the armory will have to be used for a drill on June 16, the date originally set. Class night exercises will be held in the school auditorium on June 12. Admission to both ceremonies will be by ticket only.

The campaign to raise funds for the improvement of the athletic field at the Hyattsville High School started last night and will run throughout Saturday, with the solicitors working for a goal of at least $2,000. The soliciting teams are made up of high school pupils.

The drive for funds is being sponsored by the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce, and Daniel Cox Fahey, jr., a member of the chamber, is on the committee which will spend the money. Other members of the committee are J. A. Miller, assistant superintendent of schools in the county, and Leland G. Worthington, director of athletics at the school. Mr. Worthington is also acting as treasurer for the campaign.

Prof. Morris has asked that names of prospective contributors be sent to him to make up a mailing list. Letters will then be sent out from the school, pointing out the need for improvements to the playgrounds, and the letters will be followed up by visits from the pupil collectors. The tract needs to be graded and have stumps and brush removed before it can be fully utilized.

HAYNES INCOME TAX DATA ENTER COURT

Former Banker Denies Being Mrs. Chambers' Partner; Trial Nears End.

Half of the losses sustained by Mrs. Louise T. Chambers in the stock market in 1927 and 1928 were incorporated by Harry V. Haynes, former president of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank, when he filed his income tax return for those years, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover brought out from Haynes yesterday.

The proof was offered by the Government to show that Haynes was interested in the stock market transactions of Mrs. Chambers, though Haynes has insisted that the accounts here and in New York were handled by him as Mrs. Chambers' agent only.

Below Taxable Limits.

The former banker said he was so involved with Mrs. Chambers' account that it took only a "stretch of the imagination" to include half her losses on his own return. The losses placed her income below the taxable limits, it was established.

At another point Mr. Rover got from Haynes an admission that half of the profits from a stock deal for Mrs. Chambers had been placed in his tax returns. He asked the witness if it was not true that he was a half-partner with Mrs. Chambers. Haynes denied he was.

"Then how can you explain why you placed these items in your income tax returns?" Mr. Rover asked.

"I can only say that I was so involved with Mrs. Chambers' accounts that I felt I was entitled to claim some of her losses," Haynes replied. He admitted he had sworn falsely when he filed the returns, but that he did not knowingly do so.

Admits Insufficient Funds.

Earlier in the day Haynes admitted he did not have funds in the bank to cover a $25,000 check he sent to New York brokers. The check, he said, was recalled because the account was closed when the check came to Washington. "Isn't it a fact that this $25,000 check was on its way to become another 'cash item?'" Mr. Rover asked. Haynes, after some hesitation, said the check had never been presented for payment and that he could not say.

A "cash item" is an overdraft covered in the receiving bank by a teller's memorandum. This memorandum is then called a "cash item."

Haynes finished his fourth day on the stand. He will testify again Wednesday morning, there being no session scheduled for today because Justice Gordon will be busy picking the June juries. The case has reached its final stages. It will go to the jury late Thursday unless some unforeseen entanglement arises, Mr. Rover said.

H. Winship Wheatley, attorney for Haynes, said he wished to place Haynes on the stand Wednesday for about fifteen minutes.

Full-Time Health Officers Are Urged

Maryland Chief Seeks to Fill Posts in Eight of Counties.

Baltimore, June 1 (A.P.).—A campaign to establish full time health officers in each of the eight counties which still are operating on a part time office basis has been started by Dr. Robert H. Riley, chief of the Maryland State Department of Health.

The duties of county health officers have increased so in the last few years that a part time official cannot cope with them efficiently, the health director said.

Among the duties which fall to the county health officer are the inspection of oysters, water, milk, canning plants, sanitary conditions and the care of infatna and mothers.

At the recent session of the legislature a measure was passed which provided for the appointment of a full time health officer in each of the 23 counties, all operating under the state department of health as deputies, and it is under this law that Dr. Riley hopes the remaining counties will name their officers.

MONTGOMERY HOST TO DIXIE VETERANS

3,000 Expected to Register by Today in Cradle of Confederacy.

Montgomery, Ala., June 1 (A.P.).—Their footsteps lagged and their number made only a shadow of the once great army, but the same buoyancy of spirit that marked them as soldiers of Robert E. Lee was seen here today as veterans of the Confederacy marched on Montgomery for their forty-first annual reunion.

All trains arriving at "The Cradle of the Confederacy," where Jefferson Davis took the oath of office as president of the new nation in February, 1861, brought the veterans from far and near.

Adjt. Gen. Harry Rene Lee, one of the early arrivals, of Nashville, Tenn., established general headquarters and reiterated that this would not be the last reunion.

Accompanying the veterans were delegates to the thirty-sixth convention of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans and to the thirty-second annual meeting of the Confederate Memorial Association, whose business sessions begin tomorrow.

The veterans will hold their first business session Wednesday.

Help in Maryland For Idle Forecast

Truck Growers and Raisers of Tobacco Expect Bumper Crops.

Baltimore, June 1 (A.P.).—With Maryland farmers, truck growers and tobacco raisers reporting prospects of bumper crops, relief for unemployed labor throughout the State is forecast by Dr. J. Knox Insley, commissioner of labor and statistics.

As one of a series of favorable reports, Dr. Insely said the counties would raise a record crop of peas in comparison with an 80 per cent loss suffered by pea growers last year, due to the drought. The pea crop this year should be near the million-dollar mark, according to the forecast, with the value of the normal crop about $800,000. The 1930 crop was insignificant.

Maryland has been coming to the front as a grower of choice tobacco, and a crop of $7,000,000 had been forecast for the coming harvest, almost double last year's cut.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ECONOMY AT WASHINGTON.

THE administration at Washington has gone in for economy. Secretary Adams, of the Navy, has abolished the "holystone" from naval vessels on the ground it wears out the decks. President Hoover has held up the installation of a White House cooling system in order to save the Government $5,100.35. No word has come from Vice President Curtis yet, but it is understood he will get along with last year's brass cuspidors and cancel his subscription to a couple of horse racing papers.

* * * *

The Postmaster General has been given the word to make those postoffice blotting pads go another season; the Secretary of War is considering stopping daily drills on the ground they wear out the Army's shoes, and there is a story that Andrew Mellon is working on a device to make thinner dimes.

* * * *

The Government is so far "in the red" that a Cabinet officer feels conscience smitten if he is seen smoking anything more expensive than a nickel cigar. President Hoover's handball associates have been ordered to use less soap in the showers and a contract is now being made with a trucking company to carry the President's secretaries to and from work in one busload instead of three.

* * * *

* * * *

There are rumors that President Hoover is using five and ten cent store "flies" for trout fishing, that he returned from his last Rapidan trip with wet feet rather than repair a hole in his rubber boots, and that he throws the fish back to save the expense of restocking the stream.

* * * *

SECRETARY ADAMS' action in abolishing the time-honored "holystone" for deck cleaning purposes has startled the Navy into many weird speculations regarding what he may do next to save money. Flag signals are likely to be abolished on the ground that they wear out the halyards and there is a possibility of an order for smaller portholes in order to save glass.

* * * *

Elmer Twitchell is particularly concerned about Mr. Hover's decision to give up the White House cooling system. "If any President was entitled to a cooling system, Mr. Hoover is," declared Elmer. "It is of vital importance to the welfare of the Nation that in these times that try men's souls, the President be kept cool.

* * * *

"We don't want Mr. Hoover all hot and bothered in the White House in these crucial hours. He has had trouble enough since he took office and the least the American people can do is to urge that he spare no expense to keep himself at the right temperature.

* * * *

"Write Mr. Hoover today," concluded Elmer, "and tell him to go ahead with the cooling system, expense be damned!"

THE INSIDIOUS HUE.

For years the Red was forced to flee
From Washington in abject dread.
Yet now (most confidentially)—
Our Government is in the Red.

EARL MORTON.

BALLOON PROBLEM.

Piccard and Kipfer, Piccard and Kipfer—
What did you want to take any such trip fer?

THE professor and his companion attained a height never before reached by man, bettering the previous records as follows:

Smedley Butler, when he heard he was to be court-martialed. . . . 48,200 feet.

Mussolini when he heard that Butler wasn't . . . 51,650 feet.

PRECEDENT.

Little words of comfort,
Expert cheer galore
Make a failing market
Quickly fall some more.

Miss Marie Stevens, who was a bacteriologist at Yale, has joined Mr. Ziegfeld's follies. Her farewell message to Yale was presumably, "Thanks for the buggy ride."
